THE DETECTIVE CASES.

The Government Dismisses Most of Them Because of Judge Wylie's Ruling.

Something over a month ago Judge Wylie, in the criminal court, assigned a number of what is known as the ex-detective cases for trial on June 9. That time arrived yesterday, and when the court convened there were District Attorney Worthington in the interest of the government, Mr. A. B. Williams in behalf of the defendant, and a number of spectators present.

Mr. Worthington said that it was the day assigned for the trial of certain detective cases. After examining all those specially assigned he found that all of them, excepting one, came under the ruling of the court made in the case of McDevitt and Flinder, in the National Metropolitan bank robbery, and he supposed that the court would adhere to that ruling.

"Yes," said Judge Wylie, "I have considered that ruling since the trial several times, and I see nothing wrong in it."

Mr. Worthington said he supposed that such would be the decision. He would enter a nolle pros. in all of the cases except the one against George O. Miller and Charles Gay, for larceny. As to the latter case, he would like it to go over for the term, which would only be one week, in order that it might be further considered whether to nolle pros. or prosecute the case.

Mr. Williams said that the request was reasonable, and personally he did not object, but in the case proposed to be continued Col. Ingersoll was the leading counsel. He had just arrived in the city from Chicago, and should be consulted. As far as the speaker was concerned, the request preferred by the district attorney was a reasonable one.

Judge Wylie also considered the request reasonable and directed the case continued for the term. The cases dismissed were against George O. Miller, three cases; George W. McElfresh, four cases; Charles E. Flinder, one case, and James A. McDevitt, one case. The indictment, the consideration of which has been continued for one week, charges George O. Miller and Charles Gay with larceny of the diamonds, watches, precious stones, &c., from the room of ex-Senator Christiancy, at the National hotel, on Sept. 16, 1881. The witnesses on the back of the indictment are James I. Christiancy and Thomas Donohue.

Several other cases still remain to be disposed of.

THREE BILLS PASSED.

The Mechanics' Lien Law—Southern Maryland Railway—Outbridge Horsey.

In the house yesterday afternoon Mr. Barbour, from the district committee, called up house bill No. 7164 to amend chapter 20 of the revised statutes relating to the District of Columbia concerning mechanics' liens. Mr. Muldrow, the author, explained the bill, and sent to the clerk's desk a report on it. The bill is quite lengthy, and extends to subcontractors and journeyman laborers the privilege of securing liens on property to secure payment for work done. A few amendments were reported and the bill was finally passed.

Mr. McComas called up the bill to extend an act approved June 27, 1882, to authorize the Southern Maryland railway to extend a line into and within the District of Columbia. The bill extends the time for completion until June 27, 1886, and was passed.

Mr. McComas also called up his bill to empower the district commissioners to examine the claim of Outbridge Horsey. Horsey was the assignee of T. B. Winter, who had a claim against the district for medicines furnished the poor of the sixth council district. The bill authorizes the secretary of the treasury to pay the amount due. The bill was passed.

Discontented Wives and Husbands.

Mr. A. K. Browne, as solicitor for Julia Smith, yesterday filed a bill for divorce from her husband, Charles W. Smith, charging him with cruelty and finally deserting her March 23, 1882. In addition she believes that Mr. Smith is now living in adultery with a woman at Martin's station, Pulaski county, Va.

A similar suit was filed by Mr. H. B. Moulton for Mrs. Minnie E. Hunter against John R. L. Hunter. They were married on Dec. 23, 1881, and lived together until the 15th of January last, when she charges that he deserted. She also asked permission to resume her maiden name of Weaver.

Justice Cox granted Caleb Barton Lincoln divorce from Mary Catherine Lincoln because he proved she had deserted him. They were married at Hanover, York county, Pa., Sept. 18, 1872, and lived here until November, 1881, when she left him.

Wight, First Presbyterian church and member of the executive committee; A. H. Nelson, president of the Sunday School union of the district; R. J. Smith, president of the colored Sunday School union of the district; L. D. Alden, St. Paul's Lutheran church; W. R. Woodward, Wesley chapel; Charles Lyman, Assembly Presbyterian church; Mrs. Mohle, Forth Baptist church.

The Will of Clark Mills.

In all probability, if there is to be a contest over the will and estate of the late Clark Mills, it will commence pretty soon. A certified copy of the answers of the jury, in the circuit court to the issues from the orphans' court, sustaining the will and first codicil, have been returned to the latter and entered up. An order has been made admitting the will and codicil to probate and record, and granting letters testamentary to Jesse B. Wilson upon filing a bond in the sum of $10,000.

Death From Heart Disease.

A sudden attack of dropsy of the heart caused Mr. Howard A. Snow, a well-known patent attorney, to drop dead yesterday afternoon in front of Simpson's restaurant, corner of Seventh and F streets. The deceased resided in Alexandria, Va., with his family, but did business at his office, No. 631 F street. He was a very large man, weighing over 300 pounds and at the time of his death was 58 years of age.

Watson and Bertha Ward, James Robinson and Lizzie Robinson, William Mars, of this city, and Maggie Mars, of Uniontown, D. C.; Robert Atchoson, of Burtonville, Md., and Sarah E. Whipps, of Howard county, Md.; R. W. Eaton and Ella Malad, both of Alleghany county, Md.; Lewis Taylor, of this city, and Fannie Carich, of Fairfax county, Va.

The Story of the Fight.

Hon. Paul Strabach, who was mentioned as one of the participants in an affray in the Grand Pacific hotel at Chicago during the convention, states that the published reports do him an injustice. He states that the fight began in Mr. Hatton's room in the hotel between Mr. Turner and Mr. Brewster Cameron. Turner told the latter that the next time he met him he would slap his mouth for something Cameron had done. The men met that evening and Mr. Turner kept his word. Cameron raised a large cane he carried to strike Turner, when Mr. Strabach says he interferred. He says that no pistols were drawn, and Mr. Turner struck the only blow.

DR. BOND'S TRIAL.

The Testimony of his Accuser Set Up Against his Own.

The trial of Dr. S. S. Bond, a well known practicing physician of this city, on the charge of committing rape on Mrs. Louisa Carr, on the afternoon of the 27th of last March, was commenced before Justice Wylie in the criminal court yesterday, District Attorney Worthington appearing for the government and Col. William A. Cook for the defendant.

The testimony of the prosecuting witness was the principal evidence in the case and most of it was unfit for publication. It was, in brief, that the physician had been called in to attend a young child, and while in the house he compelled her first to submit to an examination in order that he might ascertain the result of an abortion which he had previously produced upon her. After that he took liberties with her person and compelled her to submit to his wishes, although she resisted his advances as far as she was able.

She admitted on cross-examination that she had previously called at the doctor's office, and said she went there at a time when she was in a delicate state and wished him to help her.

Philip Carr, the husband, did not know much about the circumstances connected with the charge, but testified to engaging the doctor to perform an abortion on his wife, for which he was to pay $25. He saw the operation performed, but the bill had not been paid as it had not been presented.

James A. Rutherford, a grocer, next door to the house of Mrs. Carr, testified that the carriage of Dr. Bond was in front of Mrs. Carr's house for over an hour.

With this evidence the government announced that it rested the case.

Dr. S. S. Bond, the defendant himself, was called as the first witness in his own defense. He said that he visited the house of Mrs. Carr in response to her request to attend her sick child. He was taken to the second story front room, where the child was asleep on the bed. At his request the blinds were opened, and he examined the child, found that no immediate attention was needed, and so stated. He then walked down stairs, talked about fifteen minutes, and left. He was in the house probably half an hour. He denied the statements of Mrs. Carr of having improper relations with her or having used threats toward her. He had treated her as a lady, and the statements she made of misconduct upon his part were untrue.

Several witnesses were called to prove that Mrs. Carr was untruthful, but they testified that they knew nothing of her general reputation.

The government had some rebuttal as to her good character, about as strong as that offered against her which was received and the testimony in the case closed.

At this point the court adjourned for the day.

THE BROKEN BANKS.

Assignees Promise Statements in the Future—Inquiring Depositors Annoy Them.

The deserted banking houses of J. H. Squier and Middleton & Co. were visited yesterday afternoon by a REPUBLICAN reporter. Their interiors, which formerly wore a busy air, accompanied by the musical jingle of cash, were as cheerless and deserted as the inside of a tomb. Even the air was as cold and clammy as the atmosphere of an underground vault. The only occupant of Squier's bank was Mr. Jay B. Smith, the assignee, who was hard at work behind the marble counter. He looked up from a mass of papers and said to the reporter: "It will take at least a week to get matters in shape. At the end of that time I expect to have a statement of the assets and liabilities ready for the depositors, and I hope all of them will then come forward and examine it."

Mr. Smith also stated that it would be impossible to approximate either the liabilities or assets, and that he had been detained during the day by about sixty depositors who called and asked questions.

The reporter then visited Mr. Squier's residence, 1514 K street. A trim looking servant girl answered the door bell. She said, "You cannot see Mr. Squier. He is very sick. In fact he is too ill to stand on his feet."

Referring to the failure of Squier's bank, a prominent banker said, "The house has never been regarded in Washington monetary circles as a banking house, but more as a brokerage establishment. There could be but one result when a firm advertised to pay from 6 to 8 per cent. interest on deposits. The sign board that announces such a large percentage also announces failure in the end. I have even heard that Squier on certain occasions offered to pay 2 per cent. interest per month on deposits. It is probable that he made such offers as the above in order to accommodate army officers when his available funds were low."

Mr. Green, the assignee, was found at Middleton's bank. He said to the reporter: "I will get out a statement by the latter part of this week. It is a big job, and I am very much annoyed by frequent calls from anxious depositors. At present it is impossible to approximate either the assets or liabilities." The Messrs. Middleton were also at the bank, assisting Mr. Green.

Theodore B. Moody yesterday entered suit against Middleton & Co. to recover $2,146.02 balance on account of moneys deposited with the firm. L. H. Davis sues to recover $10,000, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company $2,185 for telegraph service.

MEAT NOT DOCTORED.

The District Chemist Does Not Believe the Embalming Story.

District Chemist De Smedt does not think that meat sold in the markets in this city is treated by any chemical process to make it retain its freshness. He says that it could be done, but would soon be discovered, as such embalming would be detrimental to the public health.

There is one process by which meat is made to retain a fresh appearance, and the professor thinks that it is used in some of the leading restaurants, but not in the markets. This process consists of putting meats in a solution made of permagrate of potash. After the meat is dipped in this, it is thoroughly washed in water and the bad odor in the meat is destroyed. This process is not unhealthy, as in a short time the power of the solution disappears, and the offensive odor of bad meat again appears.

"There is another process which was followed for a short time, but which proved unsuccessful," said the professor. "This consisted of flooding a vacuum with carbonic gas. If a perfect vacuum could be made this would have been successful, and meat could have been kept in it for an unlimited time. The trouble is that a perfect vacuum cannot be made."

To the Editor.

It is said that Mr. MacVeagh and Mr. Schurz will not vote for the republican nominee, Mr. Blaine. How sad! When it is remembered that all they are, all the honors they ever received, was at the hands of the republican party; that the very income they enjoy is in consequence of the publicity given them through their connection with this great party, their meanness in denouncing the republican standard bearer and the party he represents, is too transparent to be longer covered by their supposed respectability. I would not like to offer one of them a cabinet position or mission abroad. The alacrity with which they would crawl into the republican lines would only be exceeded by their enthusiasm for the ticket.

"It is a healthy place. The nights are deliciously cool. No mosquitoes, no bar, "no sound of revelry by night." It is a good place for all who desire a cleanly and cool retreat." [C. J. Stuart Wells, Surgeon, U. S. N.]

The cool and exhilarating atmosphere, the wild mountain scenery, and fine drives, the baths and invaluable medicinal waters, with good fare, render a season at Rock Enon a delight not soon to be forgotten. [From James E. Fitch, esq., Washington, D. C.]

* * * My family and friends who spent the past season at Rock Enon Springs unite with one accord in praising the place, the regularity of its recurring evening entertainments, the usual good order, the charming mountain scenery, the invigorating air, all of which, together with the virtue of the "healing waters," combine to make this resort one of the most popular in the country. [From Samuel Norment, esq., Washington, D. C.]
