☞ Parties leaving the city during the heated term can have THE DAILY NATIONAL REPUBLICAN mailed to their address, by sending their directions to the Business Office, at the low price of Fifty Cents a month, including postage. By this means they will have daily information of what is transpiring in Washington.

OUR District government could give the English court of chancery a good many points in the art of circumlocution.

THE communists are capable of making a deal of trouble in Paris, but they cannot shake the pillars of the French republic.

THE new commissioner of Indian affairs invites ridicule when he undertakes to educate Gen. Crook in the methods to be adopted in dealing with Indians.

IT is possible that the weakness recently apparent in the backbone of the British lion is a result of having his tail too severely and continuously twisted by great American orators.

THE furious barking of Carlisle canines at the heels of Mr. Randall may possibly be annoying to that gentleman, but he does not compromise his dignity by honoring them with a kick.

UNTIL the atrocious murder of Archbishop Darboy is forgotten—and that time must be in the very distant future—the Paris communists will get very little sympathy from good citizens in the United States.

THE chances are that Gen. Grant will have passed away before his book sees the light, but his part of the undertaking is nearing completion. That the work will have an almost unexampled sale is a foregone conclusion.

IT was reserved for a Massachusetts Democratic editor, in a paradoxical way, to give the New York Democrats a neat and handy definition of Gov. Hill. "He is a very light weight, but he makes an awful heavy load to carry," says the Bay state publicist.

"LET us eat, drink, and be merry, for to-morrow we die." "Let us gorge ourselves with public plunder while we have a chance, for this is our last opportunity." Thus soliloquizes the Democratic party, and the administration proceeds to carry out the policy indicated.

THIRTY Mexican editors will bear down upon this city next month. They will find a hearty welcome. The Washington newspaper men cannot speak Spanish fluently, but will be able to fraternize with their guests in "walking Spanish" with the correct accent.

THE REPUBLICAN is informed that the claims of the Harper Brothers on the administration have been satisfied. They received $310 for publishing the proposals for supplies for Indians in their Weekly three times at $1.50 per line. Now let us have peace. Push on reform!

"MR. CLEVELAND is piling up a fearful dose for the Republican Senate," writes a disgusted Democrat in a note to the editor of THE REPUBLICAN. It had occurred to us that neither the "advice" nor "consent" of the Senate could be given in favor of quite a number of the President's nominations.

BECAUSE the excreta of herbiverous animals are not poison is not a good reason why such matter should be mixed with the water supplied to the residents of this city. The commissioners may not agree with this conclusion, but it is modestly presented as the general conviction of the community.

THAT senile incapable, the national Democratic party, holds out to the country a cheerful hope that it will disrupt itself in a row over the organization of the House. Since the heart of the poor old party was crushed by the death of its idol, slavery, it has shown no capacity to struggle successfully with governmental affairs.

FULL credit should not be hastily given to the rumor that in case of a change in the head of the State Department, Hon. Wm. E. Robinson, of Brooklyn, will be invited to accept that position. Mr. Robinson is undoubtedly one of the ablest Democratic diplomatists, but his pronounced conservatism would bar him out of the present administration.

IT is settled by the united testimony of three disinterested Democratic organs that peace reigns in the bosom of the administration; that the white house smiles benignantly on the Department of State, and that the Department of State graciously condescends to let itself be held blameless for some of the worst blunders ever perpetrated in the public service.

THE Philadelphia papers announce that several cars have actually been run with success upon the cable road on Market street, and that the new system will probably be put in operation on the 1st of June. It is evident that the horse as motive power for street cars is soon to be dispensed with. But as one line of duty for this noble animal is closed, another opens before him. The horse opera now running in this city suggests vast possibilities.

"TOO MUCH of French sentiment for a practical, matter-of-fact people," was the comment generally made on the decoration of soldiers' graves with flowers when the ceremony was first introduced in this country. But the custom came to stay. It gets a stronger hold on the popular heart as the years go by. It may savor of sentimentalism, but there is room for a good deal of that in American life without reaching the ridiculous.

Let Us Have Pure Water.

The statement made in THE REPUBLICAN on Monday morning concerning the condition of the upper or receiving reservoir of the Washington aqueduct should receive the attention of the citizens of Washington, and demands prompt action on their part.

All the facts then presented were put even less mildly than the condition of the reservoir and its surroundings would have justified. There are acres of slowly soluble debris that have been washed into the reservoir by Falls branch (or Gunpowder branch), which drains a large extent of country. The wash from hundreds of dwellings and out-houses, from as many barns and stables, and from a number of slaughter houses goes into this branch, which has no outlet except into the reservoir.

For months at a time, during the dry, hot season, the water in the reservoir is so low that the acres of filthy deposit are covered with thick, green slime. The people of the surrounding country are suffering from chills and fever. It is believed that much of the so-called malaria of this city is due to the bad condition of the water.

All that THE REPUBLICAN has said, and much more, is far within the safe limits of simple truth.

The health of the people of Washington is the question at issue. It is not necessary that the water from the conduit should pass into this reservoir of filth. There is a continuous conduit from Great Falls to the distributing reservoir at Drovers' Rest. The only penalty for ignoring the receiving reservoir will be a slight muddiness of the water during rainy seasons.

It is within the power of the authorities, by the expenditure of a few hundred dollars, to remove the cause of complaint at Great Falls.

THE REPUBLICAN has caused these several points to be examined by competent men; nothing has been trusted to rumor or taken on hearsay evidence.

It is stated that Engineer Commissioner Lydecker has made a special report to the Secretary of War in relation to the condition of the water supply. After the Secretary shall have read this document, and the usual amount of red tape shall have been expended, it is hoped that the President will suggest to the head of the War Department that Maj. Lydecker might be more profitably employed elsewhere than in his present field of duty.

We should have, in the position now occupied by this gentleman, an officer who knows his duty and will attend to it.

WE have heard a good deal about the poetry of motion, and have seen some charming illustrations of it in the Kiralfy ballets, in the germans of the Army and Navy Club, and in a few of the waltzes most affected by our best society; but we never fully comprehended the full length and breadth and heighth and depth of its sublimity until it was given us to behold, on a beautiful evening, a fat lady and a lean gentleman slowly pumping their way up the avenue on a double-geared tricycle, while the pale moon looked calmly, sweetly down, and the glittering stars seemed to smile as if happy in a new and higher ideal of the beautiful.

THE ponderous dignity which characterizes the movements of our District commissioners is held to be a fair offset for their incomparable and unprecedented slowness of motion. In the words of a familiar epitaph, "We can't have everything to please us." And who that has anything of local pride in his mental make-up would be willing to see any abatement of that dignity in the interest of celerity?

REPUBLICANS make no protest against the removal of incompetent or unfaithful officials, nor do they protest against the filling of all vacancies naturally occurring with Democrats. This is to be expected. But it is disgraceful to the administration, and is in gross violation of its pledges, to trump up puerile pretexts on which to put good men out for the sole purpose of putting Democrats in.

WE have a totally unexpected war on our hands—a small one with a few hostile Apaches—while several other nations, which but a few days ago fully expected war, have not realized that expectation. But there is no other nation whose military heroes get so little glory as ours, and there is no fighting that is so full of hardship and so inglorious as the chastisement of vicious redskins.

FROM the remarks made by the Hon. Neal Dow at Chickering Hall last Sunday night the New York Sun concludes that a large number of Maine people were born blind. "There are many grown-up men in Maine," said the doughty old father of prohibition, "who have never seen a grog shop or a drunken man."

"THE analyses show that the condition of the city's water supply should excite careful supervision rather than unnecessary alarm." So says Prof. Wiley in the report which we printed yesterday. It will be observed that the professor does not say that the condition of the water is not alarming, but that it should excite no "unnecessary alarm."

SNYDER is his name and he served in the Union army as a volunteer in the New York regiment. But none of his military operations of the war time will compare for strangeness with what he did yesterday when he entered the pension office for the purpose of surrendering a pension of $72 a month!

THE Jacksonian motto, "To the victors belong the spoils," as rendered in reform phrase by President Cleveland without change of meaning, reads, "Offensive partisanship is just ground for removal from office." Old Hickory had the advantage in terseness.

THE man who, when called to rescue his wife from a burning building, stopped to order and eat a "square meal" to give him strength for the proposed effort, should have been made a commissioner of the District of Columbia.

IT is a great and comforting fact, of which business men cannot be too frequently reminded, that a moisty in each house of the forty-ninth Congress is in favor of protection.

MR. CROOK is waiting for Gen. Atkins to give him a few more points on Indian warfare.

Just the Man.

Sergeant Bates, the flag-bearer and bore, by self-appointment, to their Royal Highnesses, the American People, is an applicant for a federal office where the duties are commensurate with his abilities and the pay not too small. Bates would seem to be just the man for hostler in the Augean stables.—Philadelphia Press.

CURRENT RAILWAY NOTES.

Latest Information by Wire from Special Sources.

The rains of Monday and the day before seriously damaged the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Richmond and Alleghany railroads.

To-day there will be a meeting at New York of the executive committee of the trunk lines for the further consideration of the questions of rates and diversion of freight.

The Senate interstate commerce committee was dined by the Commercial Club of Boston last evening. The committee will leave Boston for Philadelphia this evening.

Fifteen freight cars were smashed and the track torn up for 100 yards by an axle breaking on a freight train on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad at Saratoga station Monday night.

The United States Senate special committee on interstate commerce continued its meeting at Boston yesterday. Wm. H. Lincoln and Edward Kemble addressed the committee, giving their experiences with railroads. E. B. Hill explained the exchange of cars, &c., between the roads of New England, and ex-Gov. Claflin's idea was to establish a national commission with limited powers, and he would require railroads to publish their rates.

The railroads represented at the meeting in Commissioner Fink's office at New York yesterday were the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Erie, the Pennsylvania, the Lake shore, the Boston and albany, and the Grand Trunk. Neither the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western nor the West shore roads were represented. The meeting was harmonious throughout. After discussing the situation a resolution recommending the restoration of both freight and passenger rates on June 1, or as soon thereafter as possible, was adopted. It is expected that the pooling arrangement, which went to pieces on May 1, will be re-established.

The superior court of Cincinnati in general term decided in the case of George Hafer vs. Hugh J. Jewett and the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company, in which Hafer, who is a minority stockholder of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad Company, asked the court to restrain Jewett from voting on certain shares of stock of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Company represented by trust certificates and given to him as president of the New York, Lake Erie and Western railroad upon a consideration of a guarantee by that road of 6 per cent. of the annual dividends to holders of what was known as pooled stock; that the contract was illegal; that pooled stock must be released to individual stockholders as before, and that Mr. Jewett must be enjoined from voting on it, and from transferring it to any one else to vote on at the coming Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton election.

Steamboat Inspection.

From the St. Louis Republican.

The following extract from the New York Herald of May 3 is suggestive of reform which the present administration is committed to, and, as it comes within Mr. Manning's jurisdiction, it seems a very proper subject for his consideration.

There is no doubt, as this writer suggests, that the whole steamboat inspection service has degenerated from the original intent of the law which was passed in 1852 down to simply a political machine, and used for party purposes.

No better evidence of that fact is necessary than to refer to a large majority of the present incumbents of the various offices in that service, from the inspector general down.

The political record of an applicant for a position in that service seems to have been the criterion by which he has been judged, rather than his qualifications, which are really the only criterion by which a man should be judged for an office in which life and property are involved.

By reference to the present incumbents it will be seen that nearly all, if not quite, have been selected for their zeal and fealty to the recent party in power.

At the present time we have not space for further extracts from the article referred to, but may at another time consider this important subject more at length.

From the New York Herald, May 3.

STEAMBOAT INSPECTION—WHAT REFORM MEANS IN THIS IMPORTANT SERVICE.

"Stupid! Corrupt! Rotten from top to bottom, I tell you," said a prominent steamboat owner to a Herald reporter yesterday when asked to give his views about the steamboat inspection service of this country. "It has grown so, too, very rapidly within the last twelve years," he continued, "and it strikes me forcibly that the efforts of the civil service reform advocates should be exercised in that direction, for if any function of a government 'for the people' needs to be lifted out of the slough of politics, it is that which supervises a system of inspection which must determine whether or not a steamboat or steamship (as is embodied in the United States laws, section 4417) is 'of a structure suitable for the service in which she is to be employed; has suitable accommodations for passengers and the crew, and is in a condition to warrant the belief that she may be used in navigation as a steamer with safety to life.'"

AGNES HUNTINGTON'S SONG RECITAL.

This favorite singer, who is the foremost contralto of our country, will make her last appearance to-night at Marini's Hall before leaving the concert stage and beginning her operatic work abroad. Her selections, which are mostly by request, are of a varied kind and embrace songs in five different languages, besides an aria from the "Gioconda" of Ponchielli. Notwithstanding the lateness of the season, Miss Huntington will have a crowded house, both on account of the excellence of the programme and the wish of her many friends to hear her for the last time. Most of the tickets at Droop's store have already been sold. The song recital will be made additionally interesting by the reappearance of Anna Warren Story, after an absence of four years, and by the playing of Miss Effie Huntington.

THE CHURCH CHORAL SOCIETY.

The Church Choral Union, numbering about 250 voices, is making extensive preparations for their second annual concert to be given early in June. Miss Earle, of New York city, who sang so acceptably last year, has been engaged as principal soloist. Those who heard the concert given by the union at the close of the season last year can bear testimony to the excellent training the members have received under the leadership of Prof. Robinson.

John Roach Not Responsible.

John Roach has written Secretary Whitney in relation to the Delphin as follows: "Although I consider, and it appears very plain under the terms of the contract, that my liability ceased, and all conditions required of me were complied with on the termination of the trial of March 10, still, I am very willing, as I have previously stated to you, to do all in my power to satisfy you as to the efficiency of the ship, so far as I am responsible under my contract. For this purpose the trial on Long Island sound will be made on the 28th instant, as you direct, and the other at as early a date thereafter as practicable."

A Delightful Stopping Place.

The Brooks Park Hotel, situated a few rods from the Aqueduct road just above the receiving reservoir and about two miles this side of Cabin John bridge, is rapidly becoming a popular stopping place for pleasure seekers. It is eminently respectable, clean, well furnished, and gets as fine a meal for the money as can be obtained in this part of the country. The view from the piazza is one of the finest on the river.

A BOON to suffering humanity—Salvation Oil! Price only 25 cents a bottle.

The Revised Version.

A monkey and a parrot once
Began to fight, and fought so hard
They nearly killed each other.

The mistress coming home perceived
Their scratches they had been righting,
And said to them, "I'm deeply grieved
To think that you've been fighting."

The monkey really felt quite bad
In thinking of his crime;
The parrot, grateful, said, "We've had
A shed of a time!"
