SATURDAY is the great purchasing day of the week. Saturday night the masses make purchases. Merchants keep their establishments open until 10 o'clock. These facts are sufficient to demonstrate that Saturday morning is the best time of the week on which to advertise.

BUSINESS is booming beautifully all over the country.

THE bourbon brethren over the river are furnishing proofs of all the charges pending against them.

SOME of the Virginia bourbons are howling with mingled rage and pain as if they had stepped on their cars.

IF to be badly scared about an election is to be in danger of defeat, Senator Gorman's chances are seriously defective.

IT is not fair for the spoils shrickers to ask the President to make changes more than four times as rapidly as Jackson did.

IT is just possible that an awful disappointment awaits the Democracy in the person of Commissioner Eaton's successor.

FIRE and flood are less detrimental to the prosperity of a state than that intolerant spirit which denies the right of free speech.

THE Richmond Whig prints a tabulated statement showing $717,700 lost to the state of Virginia by the peculiar financial methods of the bourbons.

IF it be true that the sultan is demented, his sad condition is just what was feared when cruel Cleveland tore Lew Wallace from his clinging embrace.

MATTHEW ARNOLD finds that England is becoming Americanized. It is painfully apparent—especially in society circles—that America is becoming Anglicized.

"NO MORE rations to the Mugwump contingent" is the admonitory greeting of the Macon Telegraph to the administration. Well, it is not bad counsel, considered from a party standpoint.

IF there are any civil service reformers on the Democratic side of the Senate or House, the President will need their support early in December. We would call the roll if we knew their names.

WHEN the playful western cyclone strays so far from its customary haunts as New Jersey and frolics a town to shreds and patches, isn't it time to be digging cyclone cellars in the District of Columbia?

ONE of Senator Sherman's old horses has been ridden into the Ohio campaign. It appears that Mr. Sherman sold a horse to a man who sold the animal to the government. It seems to us this ought to elect Hoadly.

THE Ohio election occurs one week from to-day. Ohio is a Republican state, always going Republican unless the election is given away. We do not think the majority is inclined to let the minority take the prize this time.

MORRISON, Mills, and others of the Carlisle contingent will stop their level best to get up a tariff scare, but the business men of the country ought to know that no bill menacing the general welfare can get through Congress.

IT is not easy to decide, from a superficial view of the question, whether the Belgian government is moved by sympathy with domestic poverty or foreign hunger in deciding to send paupers to be colonized alongside of the Congo cannibals.

FITZHUGH LEE is still riding round distributing chestnuts from Uncle Robert's saddle bags. It will be remembered that Sancho Panza rode for the same purpose that inspires the soul of this fine old Virginia gentleman—he wanted to be a governor.

JONES, of Binghamton, successor to Flower on the New York Democratic ticket, was a Union soldier and has a good record—what there is of it. He left the army in July, 1862, before the hard fighting of the war had made much progress. He never was in a battle.

THE REPUBLICAN would have more confidence in Mr. Eaton's zeal for civil service reform if he had not permitted, without protest, the appointment to the classified service of persons who had not passed examination by the civil service commission. This was what disrupted THE REPUBLICAN's faith in Commissioner Eaton.

HAVING fatigued the country without materially damaging the administration, wouldn't it be a good idea for Eustis to pass from labor to repose? We would not object to his continued occupancy of the public ear if he would say something new, but his story is as stale as an ancient almanac, and his wrath as impotent as the temper of a colicky baby.

IT may console the convicted Mormon saints, while cooling their fevered brows against prison gratings, to reflect that if the holy men of old, whose example they cite in justification of polygamy, were living in our country and our time and doing as they did when inhabitants of this mundane sphere they would find magnificent penitentiaries prepared for their accommodation. The world does move.

A LONDON telegram printed yesterday states that the Standard's correspondent in Rome says "the pope eagerly reads reports of the electoral chances in Ireland, and he unceasingly admonishes the Irish bishops to prevent their flocks from supporting nationalists." This is probably untrue. If true, the pope will find that many Catholics in Ireland, while fully respecting the authority of the church in spiritual matters, will do as they please in political affairs.

"Learn from the Enemy."

Under the above caption the Richmond Dispatch of last Sunday gives vent to its feelings in an editorial which is calculated to do a deal of good just at this time. THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN recently stated that—

> The result in Virginia this year will go a long way toward deciding whether or not the south shall retain its Democratic solidity in 1888. If the Republican party can make a breach on the picket line now, half a dozen southern states can readily be recovered three years hence.

The Dispatch copies this paragraph and proceeds to translate and comment thus:

> In other words, the Virginia Republicans are regarded by the national Republican party as the advance guard of the army of northern malignants that stands ready to rush through the first breach that may be made in the Democratic ranks of the south. Our Washington contemporary acknowledges that the 3d of November will be big with the fate of the southlaters. The Virginia contest not only involves the political life of William Mahone, but the life of the Republican party in the south. It will not only decide whether Virginia but whether the entire south shall be subjected to an invasion of political Goths and Vandals led by such moral traitors as the Shermans, the Blaines, the Logans, the Reids, and the Halsteads.

This is a confession that the south is not now "open to an invasion" led by "such moral traitors as the Shermans and Blaines, the Logans, the Reids, and the Halsteads."

Why cannot these "moral traitors" go where they please in the south, just as any and all of the public men of the south go into and through the north?

Why cannot "Moral Traitor" Sherman go into Mississippi and address Republicans as freely and safely as Mr. Lamar could go to Ohio and speak to the Democrats of that state?

Why is it that such men as Sherman, Blaine, Logan, and Reid are politically shut out of the south? By what right do the bourbons of any state deny freedom of speech to any man?

We did not expect such a confession would come to hand from such a source at such a time, but it's a good thing to have in the house.

And now we want to say to our Richmond contemporary that there is not a foot of soil in this republic over which such proscriptive rule can be maintained.

There is not a county in the south that will not, sooner or later, be opened to all men who desire to go there. There is not a community in the south that will not be compelled to grant the right of free speech to all law-abiding men.

The New National.

The opening of the new National Theater last evening was a notable event in the dramatic history of Washington.

The auditorium is unsurpassed in beauty and all other elements of attractiveness by any theater in the United States.

The picture presented to the audience on the opening night was one that will live in the memory of every person who was so fortunate as to behold it.

Mr. W. W. Rapley, to whose enterprise the national capital is indebted for this splendid dramatic temple, is to be congratulated on the complete success achieved. It is such men as he—and they are not numerous—who build up and beautify a city.

It Must Be Crushed.

The Democratic press and Democratic orators have attempted "to whistle down the wind," the terrible indictment against their party, first presented by Mr. Blaine in his Augusta speech and later by Senator Sherman in his Mansfield speech.

The effort has failed.

The grand inquest of the nation has examined the testimony, and in November will return the verdict "guilty, as charged."

That result was inevitable under any circumstances. The proof is overwhelming that the colored vote in the south has been suppressed by violence and fraud, the one being used to supplement the other, and both to destroy the greatest of the legitimate results of the war, free thought, free speech, and free labor, which are the heritage of every citizen of the great republic.

It has been equally well established that while the Democrats of the south have committed this crime against humanity, against freedom, against progress, the Democrats of the north have acted the more ignoble part in not only condoning but applauding the crime and profiting by it. Without the courage to become thieves they have shown the cupidity of the "fence," and become the receivers of the stolen goods.

Not one Democratic paper, not one Democratic speaker in the north, has raised voice or pen against the latest outrage of this kind committed within full view of the dome of the capitol building and almost under the shadow of the shaft raised to commemorate the virtues of the great leader to whose genius and honesty freedom owes its brightest crown.

Our readers know that John Wise, a son of Virginia, with a long line of ancestors born on its soil, devoted to the interests of his native state, attempted to tell the people of Alexandria why he believed the Republican party was entitled to their support, and a howling mob of Democrats drove him from the platform.

What more proof do the people of Ohio and New York need as to the suppression of the Republican vote in the south? John Wise is no "carpet bagger," organizing ignorant negroes to "rule and rob the state," but a native backed by fifty thousand of his white fellow citizens—a man of brains and honesty—and yet, because he dares to be a Republican and to advocate Republican principles, those Democrats cry "Crucify him! Crucify him!"

It is useless to expect anything like fairness from the south. A free ballot and a fair count will not be permitted. War has been declared against it in Virginia, and Fitzhugh Lee is in command of the cavalry contingent of this new army of invasion.

Let the people of the north organize to vote down a new rebellion.

A Yellow Fever Ship at Boston.

The marine hospital bureau is informed that the steamer Craighill, which arrived at Boston on the 29th ultimo, is suspected of having four cases of yellow fever on board. The patients are now at Gallop's Island Hospital, and although they are quite sick it is thought that all will recover. On the trip to Boston the captain died of the same disease for which they are being treated, but it was then thought to be malarial fever.
