

THURSDAY MORNING, July 22nd, 1875.

To CORRESPONDENTS.—We have been compelled to lay over to another issue several favors from correspondents which were entitled in point of time to publication in our present issue. They will be attended to in our next.

DAVIS-CRESWELL CONTROVERSY.—We surrender a considerable portion of space on our first page to the rejoinder of Gen. Creswell to the letter of Hon. Jefferson Davis, addressed to Wm. F. Perry, Esq., of this county and lately published in our columns. Both the letter of Mr. Davis and the rejoinder of Gen. Creswell are marked by courteous and dispassionate bearings and reflect credit upon the temper and fairness of both gentlemen. On the part of neither has there been any attempt to substitute clap-trap for argument or mere partisan inference for facts. The "sharp issue" is, however, not merely whether Mr. Davis made a speech at Stevenson, but whether he also made such a speech as Mr. Creswell charges him with having made. The historical authorities of Mr. Creswell on this point are numerous, explicit and sufficiently respectable to exculpate him from any charge of intentional misrepresentation. He tells the tale as it was told to him, but it is evident from his citations, that the whole story of this Stevenson speech business rests upon the single authority of the Omaha Bee man, and that Greeley quotes at second-hand and that Lossing, Draper and the American Cyclopaedia merely quote Greeley or one another, and that all rest for their authority upon some such dispatch as the Bee man says he "transmitted by telegraph to the Nashville press." The issue, therefore, is narrowed down to Davis and the Bee and in that condition we leave it, premising that the Bee man clearly exposes himself in his testimony as a partisan as well as an enemy to Davis.

GRANGE EXCURSION.—The excursion of Leonardtown Grange on the Schooner "Father & Son" to the St. Mary's river on Friday last was an occasion to be long and pleasantly remembered. The boat was ample for the accommodation of the guests, some thirty in number, the winds propitious, creature comforts abundant, and music, vocal and instrumental, abounding. The boat left Foxwell's at 9 o'clock and reached Brome's wharf at 1, under a fair, free breeze, and without other unpleasant incident than a single case of sea-sickness. Arriving at the wharf, the company disembarked and bivouacked on the beautiful sward fronting the Seminary buildings. Their presence known, Dr. Brome was soon on hand, extending welcome and bearing messages of kindest hospitality, which being gratefully accepted, the company adjourned to his elegant mansion near by where they passed an hour or more in pleasant social converse and convivial entertainment. Soon after returning to the Seminary grounds, the visitors were confronted with an elegant repast, consisting of drum fish, "devised crabs," ice cream, cake, etc.—the day was Friday and most of the visitors Catholics—furnished and served by the kind hands of Mrs. Brome and Mrs. Thomas, the discussion of which over with, Mrs. Thomas the accomplished head of the Seminary, threw open the building to the company, from the commodious parlors of which were soon afterwards heard the melodious sounds of the piano, guitar and violin, the former attended by excellent accompaniments, sang by the beautiful and gifted daughters of the hostess. After an hour spent in this way, the deepening shades of evening admonished the company that it was time to re-embark. The kind parting words and cordial handshakings at the wharf over with, this was accomplished, and amid wavings of handkerchiefs and hearty cheers from the Grange party to their shore friends, the goodly vessel, "with her snowy wing," turned her prow homeward, and conveyed by favoring winds, arrived at Foxwell's wharf in seasonable time and without a single mishap, every body pleased with the excursion and every body else and all bearing grateful recollections of the hospitable friends they had left by the deep, blue waters of lovely St. Mary's.

THE NEW HALL OF THE DEBATING SOCIETY.—This building is now in readiness for use and preparations are made for opening it on the 29th. The Inaugural programme will consist of an address from Judge Ford, which will be followed by a Ball. Committees are now busily at work perfecting all necessary arrangements for the latter, an attractive feature of which will be a music band from Baltimore. Fuller particulars given in our next.

COUNTY GRANGE MEETING.—Representatives from most of the subordinate Granges of the county met at the Court House on Tuesday last for the purpose of perfecting the organization of a County Grange, and commenced proceedings by selecting Jos. S. Allstan to preside and appointing J. Frank Bohanan, Secretary. A Committee on Credentials was appointed, consisting of Dr. Brome, Dr. Briscoe and Jas. R. Langley, who reported the following persons as members of the organization: Great Mills Grange.—Dr. Thomas A. Lynch, Mrs. Lynch, Joseph S. Allstan, Wm. C. Bean, W. S. Coppage.

Point Lookout Grange.—Jas. R. Langley, Mrs. Langley, L. O. Smith, G. M. C. Jones, W. W. Brady.

Millstone Landing Grange.—George Thomas, Mrs. Thomas, J. F. Bohanan, J. R. Thompson, Mrs. G. Hebb.

Patuxent Grange.—Dr. W. H. Briscoe, Thos. H. Bond, Philip Dorsey, Hayden.

Charlotte Hall Grange.—L. W. B. Hutchins, Mrs. Hutchins, J. Hancock, Mrs. Chesley, John H. Chunn.

After the report of the Committee had been read and accepted, the roll of members present was called, with the following result:—Great Mills Grange, Jos. S. Allstan; Point Lookout Grange, Jas. R. Langley, Mrs. Langley, L. O. Smith and G. M. C. Jones; St. Inigo's Grange, Dr. Brome, Mrs. Brome, E. S. Abell, H. W. Crane and Jas. R. Thomas; Millstone Landing Grange, Geo. Thomas, J. F. Bohanan, Jas. R. Thompson, Mrs. G. Hebb; Patuxent Grange, Dr. Briscoe; Charlotte Hall Grange, John H. Chunn.

On motion, Fourth Degree members were invited to participate in the meeting. Capt. George Thomas of M. S. L. Grange, then addressed the meeting in explanation of the objects to be attained by the organization of a County Grange and in advocacy thereof.

Col. Blakistone stated the reason his Grange (Leonardtown) had taken no part in this organization. He heartily endorsed the views of Mr. Thomas, expressed himself, individually, in favor of the organization and believed his Grange would eventually enter it.

Dr. Briscoe wished to know by what right the State Grange exacted additional fees for the organization of the County Granges. This inquiry led to considerable debate, which was participated in by Capt. Thomas, Col. Blakistone and Dr. Brome.

The following resolutions were presented by Capt. Thomas and adopted: Resolved, That it is the view of this body, that the organization of a County Grange is desirable and that proper steps be at once taken with that view and object.

Resolved, That the several subordinate Granges in St. Mary's County be requested to forward at the earliest possible date a request to State-Master Moore to visit the County seat at such time as may best suit his convenience for the purpose of organizing a County Grange for St. Mary's and that they be earnestly urged to send the proper delegates at such time as the State-Master may select.

Under subsequent resolution, each Grange represented was directed to notify the State-Master of the proceedings of this meeting and to request his presence at the County seat on some day between the 9th and 13th of August, coming, to assist in its objects.

After providing for the publication of its proceedings in the BEACON, the Grange adjourned.

SCHOONER BURNED.—The Schooner, David D. Queen, of Baltimore, John Gray, Captain, took fire on Monday morning last during the absence of the crew on shore and was so badly damaged that she subsequently sank and had to be abandoned. Four hogheads of tobacco, belonging to John S. Raley, of Patuxent district, were destroyed, and were also several cords of wood and the personal effects of the Captain. It is not certainly known how the fire originated, but it is supposed, that it caught from a coal dropped from the Captain's pipe on the deck a few minutes before the crew left the vessel for the shore.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.—It would not much surprise us, if the Democratic gubernatorial Convention should fail to make a nomination to-day (Wednesday) nor are we unprepared to hear that the three most prominent aspirants have been thrown overboard and a "compromise" one county, or even a new and yet unnamed man, has been selected as the candidate of the party.

DECLINATION.—We are requested to state, that Edward S. Abell, Esq., heretofore announced in our paper as a candidate for the Orphans' Court, withdraws as an aspirant for that place, with grateful thanks to the friends who named him for this position.

VISITORS.—Visitors from the cities are beginning to make their usual Summer home in our healthy, pleasant and quiet little village, quite a number being already here, and many more soon expected.

Manus. Editors.—
So long as we live and death? the other
And I will look on both indifferently.
For, let the gods so speed me, as I live
The name of honor more than I fear death.

It is this feeling alone that impels me to write at present amidst the sad and deep affliction that has so recently overtaken my numerous offspring and my poor miserable self, and no love or prospect of triumph, however brilliant, could induce me at this particular juncture to trouble you with a communication, if my honor had not been flattered and my motives wondrously and maliciously impugned. A man who writes or paints or chisels and exhibits his products to the world must and should be prepared for any and all criticism that the public may see fit to bestow, but his intentions are known only to him and his God, and with them it is not safe or always proper to tamper or meddle.

It seemed to be a rather singular coincidence that I should have first read the communication of Democrat in the house of my late father, and in the midst of the solemn and gloomy shades of the old vacant Hall, as the shades of evening were drawing nigh and the last lingering rays of the setting sun gleamed over the waters of beautiful blue St. Mary's and rested upon the trees that cast their shadows upon his humble but peaceful grave at St. Inigo's, in full view of his sad and sorrowing son. Solemly was the time and awe inspiring the place, and as I withdrew my gaze from the paper, it seemed as if my soul communed with the spirit of him who had been my guide on earth, and that he would have presented himself before me to reprove me, if I had been guilty of the mean and irreparable acts, attributed to me by your correspondent. But there was no reproof from him—there was none from my own heart or conscience and hence I have concluded that I am not amenable to his charges and shall proceed accordingly against my false accuser, in no spirit of anger or revenge, but in vindication of truth and my character.

Your readers are first treated to a defence of the delegates from this city to the State Convention, nineteen of whom published a card, protesting their innocence of any intention to sell out Mr. Carroll in the gubernatorial contest so soon to be decided. Their defender tells us that they have denied the charge and as "an honorable man Rus in Urbe is bound to retract or qualify." According to this mode of reasoning, any culprit who is dragged up before the bar of public opinion has only to deny the justice of the impeachment, and he is instantly to be acquitted by all fair and honest men. That card of the glorious nineteen caused no little merriment here when it appeared, especially the last sentence which says "our own record at home is the best guarantee of our fidelity to the interests put in our charge!" However, we will not stop to joke at this time, as I am not in that mood, but will proceed to notice the charges and insinuations of your unscrupulous Washington correspondent, against my personal honor and character. Many of my friends have assured me of his identity, and I know and feel that he is the only man who reads your paper who could and would load its columns with so much untruth, vindictiveness and loathsome insinuations. Hence I shall proceed with the same degree of certainty, as if he had given us a "local habitation and a name." He charges that I have deliberately undertaken "to fire up—to blow into a flame the smouldering embers of anti-Catholic and sectarian prejudices—of being a Papist dyed in the wool—of aiming a stealthy and left handed blow at the church of which I am a member—with favoring for special reasons the Know Nothing movement, in which there may be money—breaking away from ancient moorings and honorable antecedents and that, though doubly freighted with baskets of chips and corn, I will find it no easy matter to whistle or "choke, choke, choke" back my former friends to my side against aiming certain venomous shafts at the breast of the Hon. John Lee Carroll, because he descended from an ancient Catholic ancestry, &c., &c. To charge a man in one breath with being a wool dyed Catholic, and in the next of attempting to foster a feeling of deep antagonism to his faith, is really so silly and absurd that it seems to be a waste of time and patience to say more than to call attention to it. There is not a man in Maryland who knows me, and of my great devotion to and veneration for the old pest-tossed Church in which I was born and raised and whose ministrations I so fondly hope to enjoy during health, and when my final summons shall come to go hence to another world, that will entertain for a moment an idea that this infamous charge is founded in truth, or is believed by him who made it. I have yet living an old mother who is fast trenching upon four score years of age, near and dear relations as well as friends in St. Mary's and elsewhere; nine living children at my poor home in this city, all professing the faith of the one, holy Apostolic Church, and can it be possible, that any man could be so base, even though there may be money in it, similarly circumstanced as I, who would or could favor a re-establishment of such a proscriptive party? The charge that I have accused Mr. Carroll of electioneering upon sectarian ground, or in any manner not becoming a man, is a gratuitous slander, and I defy any man to produce the proof. While Mr. Hamilton has been my choice from the first to the present, I have not said unjust or insinuated anything against either of his opponents, of a damaging nature, and if my favorite fails of a nomination, I most sincerely trust that Mr. Carroll will not, because I believe, as I said in a former letter, he would do himself credit, and the State likewise, should he be selected to preside over her destinies during the next four years. He is not to be held responsible for the indiscretions and the base motives that have actuated many bigots to vote for him and to oppose him. I know and therefore insist upon saying it, that many

Do you not think, in view of the accumulated sins and years that rest upon you, that you had better do as Don Quixote desired and retire from active participation in knight-errantry? I think it time for you to try and heal some of the many wounds you have inflicted and not attempt to open fresh ones, for your whitened locks should admonish you, in the language of Dr. Young, to walk thoughtfully on the silent solemn shore
Oh that vast ocean you must sail so soon
And put good works on board.

LEONARDTOWN, MD., July 10, '75.

Mr. Editor.—I certainly should not notice the anonymous communication published in your last issue over the signature of "A Teacher," were it not for the purpose of clearing the School Board from the imputation he has cast upon them by misquoting me, and myself from the charge of applying to them language which I directed only to himself. He garbles from my letter "Alas for those figured premises and the deductions naturally deducible therefrom seem so unpalatable." His failure to complete the sentence and show to whom the language is directed, reveals the insidiousness of his motive. After one or two more quotations, he then goes on to say: "The gentleman will please explain how the munificence of the Legislature, as exhibited in the surplus of $1904.43 in the hands of the Treasurer of the School Board, can be so unpalatable to that body unless, in his opinion and as clearly intimated by him, some improper use of this surplus has been made." I have nothing to do with explaining why the above surplus in the hands of the School Board should be unpalatable to them, never having said that it was so and not having any reason to believe that it is. Here is what I did say: "Alas for those figured premises and the deductions naturally deducible therefrom seem so unpalatable to your correspondent, that I would wish for his especial benefit they had been different." Observe that I named him in particular, and said for his especial benefit. Then, if I referred to him only and especially, I could mean no other.

I inferred from his letter that the facts were unpalatable to him, as I could draw no other inference, having made no deductions from them, except as regards the munificence of the Legislature. Why they were so I know not any more than I know who my "masked assailant" is. I did not apply the language to the Board, nor do I recognize him as their authorized defender or vindicator. It is himself who casts the reflection by endeavoring to prove, by incorrect quotations, that charges have been brought against them when the contrary is the case. Had I spoken of the Board in this connection I should have used every different language, for they are men for whom I have always entertained the highest esteem, and I should be slow to believe them capable of a dishonest or dishonorable act, and so far as all that constitutes the true gentleman is concerned, I regard them as far above my unknown assailant as "Hyperion" is to "Satyr."

If a surplus has been allowed to accumulate for the schools in question and has not yet been applied to the purposes for which it was intended, is that any reason why it will not be so applied? Is not the "Board" the judge of the time and manner of its application? From whence then does your correspondent deduce the idea from my showing from figured premises that there was a surplus on hand for those schools, that I thereby intimated "some improper use of this surplus," or that my letter pointed, as he says, to "suspected corruption in the School Board" when I expressly disclaimed any such intimation?

The scope of my letters has been an argument against the reduction of the salaries of the teachers, and is there anything wrong in this or anything to which the teachers should object? For my views with regard to decreasing the salaries and closure of so many of the public schools, they are honestly entertained and susceptible of being met and combated; and I have yet to learn that any school, and not be honest in their convictions, and I am always willing to accord to all honorable men the same honesty of purpose and conviction that I claim for myself. Nor did I suppose the Board was perched so high or so overflowering with wisdom, so infallible and incapable of error that it was a crime to criticize its public acts. Therefore, any views I may have advanced against their action was not with a view to cast reflection upon or impugn their honesty and integrity of purpose, and when I have considered my letters capable of such interpretation I sincerely regret it and trust that this explanation will erase such impression.

Your correspondent characterizes my published statement of facts as "unauthorized," "unofficial," "unofficial," &c., and says they are, "ten chances to one, false either in the beginning or the end," and further says: "His business with me is, as far as the public is concerned, as the guilt or innocence of the School Board." I think the gentleman, before asserting business with any one, had better tell them who he is, and not conceal his individuality behind an unrecognized and irresponsible mask; and it would seem more appropriate in him to wait until guilt is charged before he attempts to prove innocence.

"To fear the foe before the foe passes,
Were to increase the foe to follow us."
So far as his impugning the facts published by me are concerned, I will state that they are in the main obtained from official sources, and those that are not are known to be correct by the people, and he has not controverted a single one of them. He says that I am a mere extern, &c. In what character does he appear? Is he a mere mythical "Richard Roe" or "Jno. Doe"? One who, though writing personally against a man who signs his name in full, conceals his own, which shows that he has not the moral courage to assume the responsibility of what he writes.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I most respectfully decline to be placed in the position your correspondent would have me assume—that of accusing the School Board of "suspected corruption in office." If he wishes to find such, he will have to seek farther.

Respectfully,
Wm. F. FLOYD.

Oakville, July 13th, 1875.

Mr. Editor.—Dean Stone—"Old Sol," after nearly a week's absence, has again put in an appearance, and his presence causes as much rejoicing as his absence would have done a few weeks ago. Corn and Tobacco crops were considerably damaged by the late rains, particularly on hilly land. The Tobacco crop is considerably larger in this section than it has been for several years, and notwithstanding the late damage, if the season is favorable, will make a heavy crop, though the weather, though the would-be knowing ones prognosticate an unfavorable year for Corn and Tobacco both.

Our School Commissioners, I think, are beginning to find the path they have marked out a rather hard road to travel, and I think ere another twelve months round will have to abandon it. Already have their mania for closing schools, reducing Teachers' salaries, and appointing men as Trustees, who have no interest in the welfare of these schools, and many of whom even consider them as nuisances, created a feeling of dissatisfaction among the Tax-paying patrons as well as the poorer class, and a continuation of their present policy will soon ripen this into open opposition.

The course they are now pursuing is certainly calculated to drive our best Teachers from the county, as few who are qualified for teaching can or will teach for the low salaries now offered; and the idea that poor men will work without a sufficient for a support, or that wealthy ones will merely as a pastime or to obtain a reputation when there are other fields more inviting to both is too Utopian for a sensible man to entertain for one moment. But, Mr. Editor, they have their own way now and can deprive a large portion of the children of the County of the benefits of an education with impunity, but I think they will also find, that we know how and will apply the remedy, when the proper time arrives. I suppose ere this the gubernatorial contest has passed from the people into the hands of the Delegates, and whoever they choose, whether a Groome, a Hamilton or a Carroll, must receive the support of the Democratic masses. So be it; I am satisfied, for seldom have we as good men to select from.

The people now I suppose will turn their attention (politically) to their own County offices, and first among these is the Senatorship, for which we have several aspirants, all good men, no doubt, and already have some of their friends commenced charging their claims. But there is one I think deserves some endorsement by the party that he has done so much to keep together. Mr. Thos. H. Bond has never wavered in his fidelity to the Democratic party, and when the time-servers and political tricksters who swamped the party in "seventy-one" were counseling a fusion with the republicans, were willing to give up such offices as they did not wish themselves in order to obtain their support and the presenting party was policy before principle, the late Col. Billingsley and Mr. Bond put their shoulders to the wheel and in spite of the open opposition of some and the lukewarm support of others of those so-called Democrats, obtained a glorious victory for the Democratic party, and that he is still oblivious to this ring of time-servers should not I think disparage his claims, but rather commend him to the support of all honest and well-meaning citizens.

AMICUS JUSTITIE.

Mr. Editor.—By a casual invitation, your correspondent attended the examination of the pupils of School No. 6, under the guidance of Jos. W. Goldsborough, its competent and efficient preceptor. The examination was conducted by Mr. Tippet, our worthy Examiner, Miss Nellie Greenwell and Jno. F. Duke, Esq., and embraced Orthography, Reading, Arithmetic, Geography and English Grammar. The questions on each branch, although thorough and searching, were answered with ease and readiness, and brought smiles of joy from each and every observer. Language is inadequate to express the really meritorious manner in which the children acquitted themselves during the examination. Surely there never was a school so pleasant as this, from which the aspect of dullness, weariness, restraint and irksomeness was so completely banished. It is a spacious, airy apartment, lighted with many windows, shaded at a little distance by majestic oaks, through which the burning rays of the July sun cannot penetrate. When our worthy Examiner entered, the quiet light of joy dawned in every child's face, and several of them came forward to welcome him with saucy pleasure. He had a merry jest or a loving word for each affectionate child. After the examination was concluded, our worthy Examiner impressed upon the minds of the children the importance of an education, and this boon once obtained and virtuously applied, would procure for them credit and consequence in every station of life.

The Science of Health for August is a reasonable and timely number of this model and excellent health publication. It contains information which seems to us worth more than a year's subscription to every other health publication. It is published by the Hygienic System, The Irrespressible Conflict; The Way to Keep Sick; Popular Physiology; Water as a Health Agent; Care of Children; Which Shall It Be? Summer Complications; Use of Rice, and supplies many Recipes for Cooking it; and for Canning Fruit, which are certainly sensible and useful. These articles are on How to Keep Water Cool; Indigestion; Graham Flour, etc. In every family this Magazine should be received and read regularly. Price only 20 cents a month, or $2.00 a year. Address S. B. Wells & Co., 737 Broadway, New York.

Church's Musical Visitor for July, is a good number. If music-lovers, singers, and players would examine a copy of this publication they might discover a way to receive a good supply of the late music—new and interesting—without paying from 30 to 50 cents a sheet for it, while at the same time they may keep posted in matters relating to music and art. The curves of popular composers, a pretty waltz and Strauss celebrated "evil's Darning-Needle" Mazurka. There is also a supplement giving four good quartets in all no fewer than thirty pieces of good and popular music. The literary departments are full and interesting, embracing articles by W. S. E. Matthews, John Howard, and others. There is also a pretty musical story, correspondence, editorials, etc. Specimen copy of the Visitor will be sent on receipt of one stamp. $1.50 a year. Address John Church & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Trustees' Sale
of Valuable
REAL ESTATE
IN St. Mary's County.

BY virtue of a Deed of Trust from J. Wm. Thomas, his wife, bearing date the 10th day of July, 1873, and recorded among the Land Records of Saint Mary's County in Liber J. A. C., No. 8, folio 321, &c., and as the request of the party securing the same, the undersigned, Trustees, will sell to the highest bidder at public auction, at the Court House door in Leonardtown, St. Mary's County, Maryland, on Tuesday, the 17th day of August, 1875,
ALL THAT VALUABLE REAL ESTATE, situated in said county, containing 43 1-3 ACRES, more or less—and lying on the Patuxent River in the second election district—being that portion of the Mattaponi Estate designated as
and apportioned to the said J. William Thomas by the Commissioners appointed by the Circuit Court for St. Mary's county, sitting in Equity, as his proportion of said Mattaponi estate. Said land binds on the "Three-Notched Road" and adjoins the land of H. I. Carroll, George Thomas and others.

TERMS OF SALE.
One-third cash; residue in six and twelve months from the day of sale, with interest secured to the satisfaction of the undersigned. A deposit of Five Hundred Dollars will be required of the purchaser at the time of sale.
Conveyancing at purchaser's cost.
JOHN W. WHITEFIDE,
CHARLES H. STANLEY, Trustees.

Road Notice.

BY virtue of a trust reposed in us by the County Commissioners for St. Mary's county, and by authority and direction of the Code of Public General Laws of this State, we hereby give notice that we will meet on the 30th day of August next, on the premises of John E. Simms, John B. Raley, James Cooper Ignatius Joy, Mary Fenwick, Dorothy Raley, John B. Raley, James Cooper, John F. King and Anthony Yates in Oakville district.

This Commission embraces 20 Petitions One to open a public road from the Three-Notched Road, beginning on the premises of John E. Simms and intersecting the Leonardtown road on the lands of John F. King—the other, for opening a public road from a point where the Rich Neck road intersects the Melntosh road to a point near the barn of Leo H. Hayden on the public road leading from Leonardtown to Wible's Shop.—The Examiners will meet on the day and premises named for the purpose of making examination as to which road petitioned for will best meet the public interest and demand, or whether any road in this section is required by public convenience, and all parties interested are notified to attend.
GEO. W. MORGAN,
F. F. FLOYD,
WM. F. GREENWELL,
Examiners.
