Cora Harvey, Logan County Girl, as Hobo

There are men and women of national and international name, [illegible] were settlers of Guthrie [illegible] famous [illegible] strangest of all is the [illegible] Cora V. [illegible] then the [illegible]

She [illegible] work [illegible] her [illegible] [illegible] slaked [illegible] for [illegible] thousand [illegible] others [illegible]

Fifteen [illegible] towards [illegible] in the [illegible] other girls [illegible] [illegible] Ann Dorin [illegible] [illegible] electrics at [illegible] first member of [illegible] camp and resisted [illegible] for a lock [illegible] [illegible] right to wear [illegible] her. It is [illegible] the death of [illegible] [illegible] This [illegible] electric of Cora was accompanied by a finish of the [illegible] and [illegible] on the month's [illegible]

By 1897 Cora V. [illegible] to and unfortunately [illegible] day she probably [illegible] name of the man who [illegible] [illegible] memorized in the newspapers of Oklahoma. There [illegible] various trips in the World's Fair [illegible] at the [illegible] Kansas City [illegible] Brewery [illegible] [illegible] teresting industries [illegible] gatherers in those days. [illegible] Cora V. [illegible] tried to [illegible] and the news was out that they were married and that were [illegible] their distance.

Cora V. was [illegible] fair [illegible] Ellen Dixon of Oklahoma [illegible] the [illegible] of Kansas [illegible] and the [illegible] probably [illegible] husband. Then [illegible] married [illegible] the drama of [illegible] from the [illegible] Oklahoma [illegible] weeping what [illegible] [illegible] was pretty [illegible] beyond her years [illegible] shoulders the [illegible] Wrongs had [illegible] whom [illegible] when [illegible] serve [illegible]

And here [illegible] from the great [illegible] [illegible] the James [illegible] V. [illegible] Union
