Information from Mexico says that the followers of Zapata are being defeated everywhere. Carranza controls the wires and Carranza should know.

The king can do no wrong. This is the comment of the Dallas Times-Herald. What say the President, is say we all—all Americans? Then why ask King Henry to dismount?

Russian engineer in the Black sea discovered a mine field. The mines were inscribed, "Christ is risen," in Bulgarian. Czar Nicholas' engineers refused to kneel in prayer or Slavs would have risen. All the fighting savages are not found in Mexico.

Banker George Rice of Denison is in luck. He was given five years for embezzlement of bank funds. President Wilson reduced this to one year and a day. Now if he had been a section hand or a bootlegger it would have been different. He would have been joyously permitted to serve his full term. Justice, it is said, never makes a mistake.

William Lorimer intends to pay those who lost in the failure of his bank; the poorest ones to come first, and then run again for the senate. Lorimer was educated in the school of hard knocks. He has been fighting since he was a barefoot newsboy in the streets of Chicago. He isn't a slacker anywhere or at any time. His enemies bludgeoned him out of the senate of the United States but failed to railroad him to the penitentiary. The cave man of long ago had his good points. He was neither an ingrate nor a backstabber, ever attacking from behind.

A HERO OF THE BOER WAR.

Major John McBride, a leader of the Irish revolt was court martialed and shot. This is another vindication of Latin-Indian methods. In Mexico prisoners of war are shown no mercy. These same methods have been employed by the British government in dealing with Irish patriots for 200 years. Villa's methods have been vindicated; Carranza's methods have been vindicated. Then why harp on the brutality of Mexican generals or Mexican presidents?

Major McBride was the leader of the Irish brigade in the Boer war. He fought side by side with the Boer patriots, not as a mercenary, but as a lover of liberty. A soldier of fortune, he was ever for the oppressed and never for the oppressor.

A little more than two years ago the British parliament sent to final passage the home rule bill granting the demand of the Irish nationalists. It was a full measure of home rule but not of a separation, the rule enjoyed today by the colonies of Great Britain. Then what launched? The Ulsterites rebelled. It was an armed rebellion headed by Sir Edward Carson. Ulster rebels defied the crown; they defied all organized authority. They were ready for war. Sir John French was the commander of the British troops in Ireland. He was a traitor to the crown and he threatened to resign his command and tender his sword to the Ulster rebels. The home rule law which had been enacted by the English parliament became a dead letter. Its operation was suspended and remains suspended to this day. The war came on. Sir Edward Carson became a member of the British cabinet and Sir John French was sent to France as commander of the British army in the field. This led to the recent revolt in the city of Dublin. The uprising was a failure and nine of its leaders were tried by Villaistic military courts and sent to death according to Latin-Indian custom. Ulster rebels were honored; their leaders were given high office and they were declared loyal sons of the empire. There is a difference in the vengeance meted out to Irishmen in Ireland by the governing statesmen of the British empire.

Was Troubled at Night

Painful annoying bladder weakness usually indicates kidney trouble. You do backache, rheumatism, sore, swollen or stiff muscles or joints. Such symptoms have been relieved by Foley Kidney Pills. A WAYWARD TONGUE.

The chairman of the committee was addressing a meeting a teachers' institute:

"My friends, the school-work is the bulwark of civilization. I mean—ah—"

He began to feel frightened.

"The bulwark is the school-work of—"

The smile could be felt.

"The workhouse is the bulschool of—"

He was evidently twisted.

"The schoolcoal is the housework—"

An audible snigger spread over the audience.

"The bulschool—"

He was getting wild. So were his hearers. He mopped his perspiration, gritted his teeth, and made a fresh start.

"The schoolhouse, my friends—"

A sigh of relief went up. Hamlet was himself again!

He gazed serenely around. The light of triumphant self-confidence was enthroned upon his brow.

"Is the woolbark—"

And that is when he lost consciousness.

"WHY SWEAR, DEAR? USE 'GETS-IT' FOR CORNS!"

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"You Wouldn't Lose Your Temper, John, If You Used 'Gets-It' for Those Corns!"

Too cutie. Here's news that is news. It's not wonderful how easy these odd corns come off when one uses "Gets-It." Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to rub or pick up. Just a bottle of "Gets-It" for freeze on the corn. It's painless—simple as pulling off a bee. Now put away those razors, knives and scissors, use "Gets-It" and don't have a sweeter disposition sidetracked anywhere. "Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere. Get a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill., price $1, in Guthrie and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Lillie Drug Co., and Owl Drug Store.

PASSION FOR TRAVEL

Makes Professional Escort for Corpses, Boise Man Seeks Opportunity to Accompany Bodies East.

Six times during the last eighteen months an east bound Union Pacific train has pulled out of Boise, Idaho, bearing a man who apparently takes his pleasures sadly, a peculiar individual who gratifies an apparent passion for travel by acting as official escort for bodies that must be shipped back east without relative or friend to accompany them. This person keeps in touch with the various undertaking establishments of Boise and when those occasions arise, offers himself as professional mourner, conscientiously looking after all details, attending to any flowers and even going to the Eastern funeral, as one of the honored guests. For such depressing service he is reimbursed with one first class ticket to the corpse's destination. He buys his own meals and pays all other expenses which includes his own fare back. The mystery is—what possible advantage does he gain by making these trips?

For it is a fact that this peculiar individual never makes a railroad trip unless it is on his self-constituted professional duties. Someone must die and be sent East to be buried to furnish him with an excuse for a trip, although he has other idiosyncrasies, according to local Union Pacific officials. They report that last summer, returning from a "burying" at some point east of Chicago on a special colonists rate, he travelled through to Salem, Oregon, because it only cost $2.00 more than the regular Boise fare, although it cost him $16 to get back from Salem to Boise. Also, starting on his last professional trip, he asked the U. P. baggage man if he could check a trunk on the corpse's ticket. Finding that he could, as all first class tickets are allowed 150 pounds of baggage, he went out and "hustled" another trunk which he will have to pay excess baggage on to get back home.

Altogether Boise has a mystery which the railroad people would like to solve. They advance the theory that as the profession of mourner is a recognized and honorable occupation among older civilizations this is a revival of the ancient profession. Perhaps, they say, this man is descended from some solid Greek "Mourners' union" and thereby hereditary in nature is endeavoring to follow his ancestral trade.

STANDARD PRICES AID COMPETITION

The Stephens Bill Encourages Rivalry In Quality.

REAL BENEFIT TO PUBLIC.

False Pretense In Merchandising as Practiced by Big City Stores is Method Used to Injure Small Dealers and to Destroy Small Towns—Dishonesty Can't Benefit Consumers.

The true competition is between rival articles, a competition in excellence, which can never be maintained if, through the perfidy of the retailer who cuts prices for his own ulterior purposes, the manufacturer is forced to compete in prices with goods of his own production, while the retailer recoups his losses on the cut price articles at other articles at, or above, their reasonable price. IT IS A FALLACY TO ASSUME THAT THE PRICE CUTTER POCKETS THE LOSS. THE PUBLIC MAKES IT UP ON OTHER PURCHASES. Fixing the price on all brands of high grade flour is a very different thing from using the price on one brand of high grade flour. The one means destruction of all competition and of all incentive to increased excellence. The other means heightened competition and intensified incentive to increased excellence.

This language used by the supreme court of the state of Washington in a unanimous decision of the case of the Fisher Flouring Mills Co. versus C. A. Swanson clearly sets forth the interest the consumer has in maintaining the highest form of competition that of quality. Competition in price results in inferior quality and the evil of substitution. Dishonest advertisers pass off inferior or standard and widely known merchandise to unsuspecting customers in their establishments, where an effort will be made to sell anonymous goods.

The Bromide bargain is used as "bait" to spread the impression that all merchandise is sold at the same low marked price. If this impression can be created the dishonest merchant can sell unknown goods at as high a profit as his conscience will permit him to charge, and his conscience is elastic. Nearly every man's price or less to where profits are concerned.

A Bill to Protect the Public.

Representative Tom V. Stephens of Nebraska and Senator William E. Ashurst of Arizona have introduced in congress a bill to protect the public against dishonest advertising and false pretenses in merchandising." A similar measure was introduced in the last congress by Representative Stevens of New Hampshire.

It might be argued that the public cannot profit through dishonesty or through false pretenses. The individual may make a pecuniary gain; thieves, burglars and confidence men personally escape paying the penalty of their crimes and are permanently left off. But the public, the victims of the successful criminals, loses.

The Stephens-Ashurst bill provides for standard and uniform prices on articles sold under a trademark or special brand, with the widest possible publicity for buyers and sellers. Opponents of the bill—adherents of dishonest advertising and users of false pretenses in merchandising—have declared that it will encourage monopoly and prevent competition. They have tried to make consumers believe that it will increase the cost of living, that it will raise the price of everything sold in any sort of store.

No Monopoly Possible.

The bill does not encourage monopoly, because producers who have a monopoly of any particular line or who make an agreement with a competitor to maintain prices are barred from taking advantage of the privilege of preventing discrimination by contracting for the resale of their goods at uniform prices. A monopoly, no matter how it is gained, cannot do business under the terms of the Stephens bill.

On the other hand, cutthroat competition in price has always been the chief weapon of monopoly.

The bill will not raise prices and increase the cost of living. Producers already have the right to sell their goods at wholesale at any price they can get, at what they are worth. The proposed legislation merely permits the producer to control the retail price and if he puts this too high—higher than the public is willing to pay—then his goods will not be sold and he loses.

The cut price storekeeper that sells goods at a loss does not stand the loss; he passes it on to his customers. What he loses on one article is made up, or more than made up, on another. The use of cut prices on standard articles for the purpose of drawing customers into the store with the intention of selling them something else, that is where "dishonest advertising" is found and where "false pretenses in merchandising" injures the public.

Cut rates by big department stores enable them to kill off the small store and the small towns. Those residents of rural communities, villages and the lesser cities who want to see their home folks injured that the large cities may grow richer and larger should naturally oppose the Stephens bill. Those who desire to see their own vicissitudes prosper should support the principle of uniform standard prices.
