USE 1636 MILES OF FRUIT JARS

State Crop That Reposes in Cans Required 13,000,000 Glass Containers, 900 Carloads

THE most tremendous fruit yield in the history of the state has necessarily caused a record breaking manufacture and output of the containers used in canning and preparing this fruit. The most striking of the figures resulting from the great fruit yield are those gleaned from the records of the firms handling the different forms of glass containers that have been used over the state.

There is not a grocery or small general store in the state that has not automatically indicated by its orders that fruit farms in its vicinity were producing a record yield. A good percentage of the containers used this year have been billed through the wholesale houses of Oklahoma City.

300 Cars Through Oklahoma City

From figures gathered at the offices of the various firms here, it is estimated that no less than 300 carloads of glass fruit jars were billed from Oklahoma City to various points in the state. Twenty-five carloads were used in Oklahoma City and the vicinity alone, while the jobbing houses here have handled more than any other single city in the state, the houses in the larger cities all report a record output. There are over 40 jobbers in Oklahoma who have furnished the retail merchants with glassware this season, each firm of which has handled between 20 and 30 cars of containers. One small store in the southern part of the state sold 2,300 dozen glass fruit jars in two weeks, and ordered more from an Oklahoma City house.

900 Cars for State

Some idea of the vastness of this summer's fruit yield, representing only the amount that has been prepared for winter consumption, may be gained from the estimate of local glass men that 900 carloads of glass jars have been used in Oklahoma this season, which is practically twice the yearly average for glass containers. A large percentage of these jars has also been manufactured in Oklahoma.

Each car contains on an average 100 gross of jars, making an aggregate of 12,960,000 fruit jars that have been bought in this state to handle the season's fruit crop. Each jar measures on an average eight inches, representing a line, if the jars were laid end to end, 8,640,000 feet long, or a fraction over 1,636 miles. This line of Oklahoma fruit containers would extend from Oklahoma City to Chicago and back, with a side line stretching westward again into the environs of Denver.

Cost of Jars $540,000

For this vast supply of jars the retail merchants have paid on an average of $6 a gross, or a total of $540,000. Taking out the dealer's profit, this means that the farmers of Oklahoma this year have paid out almost three quarters of a million dollars for glass jars to preserve their own supply of their fruit production. How many more jars that have been left over from last year and used again can only be a matter of conjecture.

A pretty home wedding was that Tuesday evening of Miss Mary Katherine Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Gill, and Edward L. Pulley, which was celebrated at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents at 1708 East Ninth street, the Rev. E. H. Surface of the Maywood Presbyterian church officiating. The large living rooms were decorated with autumn foliage and flowers and the bridal vows were spoken beneath the archway connecting the two apartments, the sides of which were banked with palms. Miss Eugene Roberts before the ceremony sang "I Love You Truly," and also played the Lohengrin wedding march. The only attendants were little Miss Louise Katherine Chapman, the dainty little flower girl, and Master Robert Burton Donaldson, who carried the ring in a rose.

The bride wore a becoming gown of pussy willow taffeta silk white designed in the style of 1847, with skirt ruffled to the waist. The veil was caught to the hair by a wreath of lilies of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and ferns.

Punch was served by Miss Mattie Barnes, and ices also were served in the dining room. Many beautiful gifts were displayed in another apartment, among them being some handsome silver from the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Emma Paul. ALMOST FAINTED WHILE STANDING

And Suffered Dreadfully From Headache, Backache and Dizziness. Says Now That Women Are Foolish To Suffer And Tells Why

New Augusta, Miss.—In relating her experience, Miss Irene H. Craft, of this town, says: "I have been troubled for a right smart while with female weakness. I was irregular . . . and was down in bed about all the time. I had chills and fever with these troubles for at least a year, and a great deal of dizziness, headache and backache.

When I was sick at each month, I had to stay in bed all the time, because my back would ache and my head would swim so that I would almost faint if I stood on my feet.

I endured this for about three years. Finally, I began to doctor with a doctor. He did not help me much. Then he recommended Cardui, and I began to take it. I took about one bottle and felt much better. I have taken a whole lot now, and feel just all right. I have no backache, headache, or dizziness now.

I think women are foolish to suffer when they can take so helpful a remedy as Cardui, and I surely praise it to every one.

If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, why not give Cardui a trial?

Such earnest statements as the above speak for themselves, and we receive thousands of similar ones every year.

Your druggist sells Cardui. Get a bottle today. Full directions in every package.—Adv.

British Emissary to France Says If Volunteer Service Will Not Win War He Then Sees One Way Out

PARIS, Sept. 22.—"We do not want a premature, but a complete and lasting peace," said John Hodge, a member of the British parliament, in an address last night at a meeting of French Socialists.

"We do not want conquests, but the liberation of all oppressed peoples.

"We are anxious to beat Germany," declared Mr. Hodge, "by voluntary service, but if the government says we have had the last man by the voluntary system and must now have conscription, then I say we'll have had it."

The meeting was the first of series to explain French workers what England is doing in the war.
