MARKETS

TODAY'S RECEIPTS

Hogs	2400

YARD NOTES. The French government is still a buyer in Oklahoma. It has [illegible] contracts around and should for mules, still paying good prices, too. Fresh mules are being bought on this market at $[illegible] to $[illegible]. Fall mules $[illegible] and repeat mules as high as $150 when extra good. No large contracts are reported but enough small ones to make this class of stock worth more money than under normal conditions.

Stocker buyers are whispering it about that they are in a position to handle more young cattle especially the good blooded stock. They say there are quite a few losses in the calves and that they need the $[illegible] kind. Fewer stockers are on the yards today than in a long time, the runs since Thanksgiving being far below average, though not much less than the restricted demand. Oklahoma needs a good rain and so does the stocker market which would be benefited as much as the farmers.

Underbidding interests are devouring hogs these days. It is said that the big packers have reached their pre-season ideas about $6.90 hogs, though they are fighting their best against anything like a $7.00 basis. Receipts have come in too big a bunch to force radical reaction but the aggregate number shows far from an abundant supply to the middle west.

CATTLE MARKET. Packers were still buyers today. The market, they claim, has been too fast out of line and for this reason the days of readjustment had arrived. They were satisfied with a decline but in many cases this showed 15c. Receipts of 1,250 head carried a nearly fair range of beef $7.50 taking the best white faced steers, a liberal percentage of $6.90@7.25 steers that sold a shade toward lower. While steers were a big grinder in selling, cows and heifers were steady and quite active. Packers in stockers are complaining that they are not getting enough quality stuff and for this reason are slowly giving the cows strength at the market. Most buyers have cleaned up the big holdings of early month and are in a [illegible] buy.

November Pipe Line Report

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 14.—In its review of the November pipeline runs the Oil City Derrick says:

The estimated receipts from the wells of Oklahoma and Kansas during November were 6,788,090 barrels, an increase of 627,196 over the October figures. The daily average was increased in November from 210,690 to 226,269 barrels. This would indicate that the production of the Mid-Continent was showing some increase. The decline at Cushing was not so rapid during November and there was an increase from other pools. The average shows a considerable decline from November 1914, when the daily receipts amounted to 243,088 barrels.

The runs from the Mid-Continent and the fields east of the Mississippi aggregate 9,645,547 barrels, showing the daily average production for November to be 321,518 barrels, from these fields. In the total there is an increase of 102,987 barrels, while a decrease of 5,201,860 barrels. The daily average for October was 295,212 barrels, being the first month of the year that it fell below the 300,000 barrel level. The daily average for September was 326,620 barrels, for August, 329,105 barrels, for April and 337,579 for March.

Regular deliveries by the Eastern lines were 8,000,661 barrels, an increase of 20,717 barrels. The daily average was 116,656, as against 112,225 in October. This average was exceeded only by August and September during this year, and is a little less than that for November of 1914. The regular deliveries of Illinois oil by the Illinois Pipe Line and the Tidewater were 186,856 barrels, a decrease from the previous month of 27,630 barrels. The Tidewater also delivered 65,897 barrels of Mid-Continent oil.

The Mid-Continent lines delivered 8,354,065 barrels, an increase over the October shipments of 499,171. It is also estimated that 6,000 barrels a day were shipped by rail, a decrease of 2,500 barrels from the estimate of the previous month.

The following table shows the amount of crude petroleum held in storage by the several pipe lines mentioned in the different divisions of the oil fields, and the amount of each grade in the close of business November 30:
