NO HUNGER IN CITY ON XMAS

Pres. Bearly of Provident Association, Says All Poor Were Cared For

DUE TO COOPERATION

Everybody Worked to Get Listed Name of Every Poor Family in Town

"I believe that more good was done in Oklahoma City this Christmas than ever before," said F. D. Bearly, president of the United Provident association, in a reporter for The Times-Democrat.

"We were able to do this only because of the cooperation of people in the public schools, the members of various clubs and fraternal organizations, and institutions having the happiness of the poor at heart," he continued.

Early in December Mr. Bearly sent letters to the superintendent of the city schools asking him to request all children in behalf of the names of needy families to their principals, who in turn should give them to the superintendent and then to the Provident association. Clubs, societies and individual citizens were addressed by the same letter.

The response was splendid. A veritable multitude of names poured into the association, and Mrs. Goldie Mc Cubbins was engaged for many days in the work of checking over the lists to see that there was no duplication.

Then when Christmas came each of generous and delightful dispensers of civic baskets was given a number of names and practically the entire city was covered. If there was a family overlooked it was because of the fact that they had managed to conceal their poverty from their neighbors and thus prevent their being listed at the Provident association.

More than 500 baskets were distributed to the various institutions [illegible] perhaps a third of this number were given by individuals. Mr. Bearly is known as one in Oklahoma City who is not hungry last Saturday night. To the efficiency of the association this year and the generosity of Oklahoma City people Mr. Bearly declares he owes this success.

LEATHERLESS SHOES

Furniture Factory in Germany Manufactures Serviceable Footwear Out of Sail Cloth and Wood

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—A furniture factory in Halberstadt, which before the war devoted itself to the manufacture of art furniture, but finds its market dead during the war, has started the manufacture of shoes without leather. These are not the wooden shoes of the Dutch and South German peasant, but a substitute for the usual leather shoe. The uppers are made of gray or black waterproof linen sailcloth, which at a little distance is not easily distinguishable from leather, and the soles are built up of layers of wood veneer glued together with waterproof glue, the process making a flexible waterproof sole which follows the shape of the arch of the foot.

The shoes have been given several months trial and are now to be placed on the market. They are said to wear well, the undersurface of the wooden sole soon developes a felt like surface which gives little noise, and best of all, the shoes are said to cost little more than present price of half-soling leather shoes.

To Fortify the System Against Winter Cold

Many users of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC make it a practice to take a number of bottles in the fall to strengthen and fortify the system against the cold weather during the winter. Everyone knows the tonic effect of Quinine and Iron which this preparation contains in a tasteless and acceptable form. It purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the whole system. 50c.

AMERICAN CHURCH MUSIC PREVAILS

For the first time in many years the echoes of choruses and hymns by European composers were not heard this Christmas in the churches of America. American music prevailed because the war had stopped the sending of works of European composers, who up until this year had been responsible for much of the Yuletide music throughout the world. The grim spirit of war which denied to the men in the trenches the joy of Christmastide thus sent its silent gloom to all lands.

ANOTHER DIVIDEND

State Highways Department Soon Will Distribute About $25,000 Collected for Auto Tags

The next distribution to the various counties and first-class cities of the state from the automobile license tax collected by the state department of highways will be made in a few days and, according to the estimate of Commissioner George Noble will amount to about $25,000. It will be for the months of October and November.

"I estimated that the number of automobile licenses issued this year would reach 30,000," said the commissioner this morning. "I am now prepared to reduce the estimate, as I believe the first of the year will find the total figure about 27,000. The total income from the issuance of tags this year I estimate at about $175,000."

CEMETERIES AS BIRD HAVENS

Audubon Society Would Utilize Them as Sanctuaries of Feathered Life

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—More than a million acres of land will be added to the bird reservations in the United States if the National Association of Audubon societies, with headquarters at 1974 Broadway, this city, succeeds in its campaign to have all the cemeteries of the country converted into bird sanctuaries. The plan includes not only the forty-eight burial grounds of New York City but all cemeteries down to the lonely graveyard of the smallest hamlet.

"Much has been done to drive birds away from cemeteries," said T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the association, who has brought forward this plan. "Frequently, there is not a yard of underbrush, where a thrasher or vireo can build its nest. There are no pools or other means for the birds to slake their thirst. Tree surgery has closed the cavities whence the mouse, wren or bluebird formerly issued to console the lonely visitor. Fruit-bearing trees have been removed and there is an absence of berry-bearing shrubs, such as birds enjoy."

The supplying of food in other ways as well as the provision for nest-building are among other suggestions contained in a circular just issued by the association which, Mr. Pearson says, he will mail to all persons interested in having their city cemetery converted into a bird sanctuary.

LIBERAL JEWS ADMIRE JESUS

New York Rabbi Gives Utterance to Worthy Sentiment of His People

Alluding with appreciation to Bishop Greer's recent utterance at Carnegie Hall that the church must evangelize Israel, Rabbi Leo Franklin, of New York City, spoke recently on "The Jew the Worst Foe to Christianity."

Among other things the speaker said: "We liberal Jews worship and admire Jesus for His teaching, personality. Some of the prophets of old had surpassed Jesus in the sublime originality of their ethical and religious teachings, but none exceeded Him and few equaled Him in the sweetness and tenderness of His nature and in the actual help and comfort which thrilled His own person. It was His presence more than His precepts which thrilled His followers and called into being His church. He embodied in Himself the most complete expression possible of the humanitarian spirit, vibrating with sympathy for all classes and conditions of men, and comes down to the lowest. He was the incarnation of the spirit of personal service to suffering humanity. He did not hesitate to enter into the society of the outcasts, the diseased and the depraved in the face of contumely and the righteous; He not only ministered to these poor outcasts with His own hands, but declared His conviction repeatedly that these would enter the Kingdom of Heaven sooner than the self-righteous saints. In His love and work for the common people He stands out preeminent among the great teachers of mankind."

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Look young! Nobody can tell if you use Grandmother's simple recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everybody knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray, also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get the mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

TEST CASE IS SET FOR APRIL

Grady County Case Involves Taxing of Public Building Bonds

THE case of the First National bank of Chickasha against Grady county, appealed by the county commissioners, has been advanced on the docket of the state supreme court and will be hearing Monday, April [illegible].

This is the suit that was in a test of the validity of the action of the board of equalization in assessing public building bonds held as capital by banks in the state, which bonds were purchased by the banks with the distinct understanding that they would not be taxed while in the hands of the banks as capital stock.

The case, First National bank vs. Grady county, was tried several weeks ago before Judge Will Linn and on appeal of the plaintiff from the findings of the county excise board and upon from the order of the excise board fixing $150,000 of the capital stock of the bank, the amount of such stock held by the bank in state building bonds. Judge Linn held the county excise board to be in error when the case was tried before him and it is from this decision that the case is now pending in the supreme court.

The state board of equalization at Guthrie was largely determined by that of Governor R. L. Williams, who has insisted that all funds in the hands of banks should be assessed. Due to his attitude is influenced by the fact exemption from taxation was granted by a former administration and only be assessed.

The banks of the state filed petitions for building bonds were only required at what they owned a total valuation of $40,000,000 of the state. Protest [illegible] the banks in [illegible] part of the [illegible] are being [illegible] the result of the action in Grady county.

At the Theatres

OVERHOLSER

A tremendous audience gave Mae Louise Hunting and her players a most hearty welcome last evening at the Overholser theatre, where the opening attraction presented for the [illegible] in this city, "The Prince Chap," in which her brilliant art and versatility are developed to the [illegible]. The public's greeting to the popular player was enthusiastic and lasting and portended a "big week" for the Hunting company.

There is a peculiar sympathy attaching to "The Prince Chap" that makes the spectator and accompanies throughout the piece's [illegible]. It is the story of a child in an artist's care, of her growth of her love for her benefactor [illegible] love for her, of their eventual engagement, as husband and wife. It is [illegible] and touching [illegible] worked into the play, particularly the Christmas exhibition.

"The Prince Chap" is [illegible] and is also presented. The Hunting company as a whole is aptly [illegible] the star herself. Miss Hunting [illegible] in the role of the orphaned girl. The play will be given all the [illegible] week, matinees Thursday and Saturday.

THE EMPRESS

Robert B. Mantell, thinks there is no greater Shakespearian actor in the world, and he favors Genevieve Hamper, beginning today, screen engagement, being at the Empress in the [illegible] sensational play, "The [illegible] Wife." The vehicle for these two powerful players and a strong cast is the exposition of certain phases of society, showing the [illegible] and the weaknesses developed in the usual order of conventions. There is no use commenting on the art or strength of the players, both being well known. Mr. Mantell is [illegible] not alone in America but throughout the world for his [illegible] acting and Miss Hamper is a Times-Democrat favorite whose ability as an actress is become vastly impressive.

THE LYRIC

The variety show now holding the boards at the Lyric is the largest to appear in that popular house this season, the cast numbering fourteen clever people. And if one may judge by the attendance and by the applause received each act, it is also the best show on the woman's circuit to date. "Giddy Girls," is a contented musical comedy in which the people take part. The music is good and the scenery very attractive. A feature of the act is the song, "To Those I Have Loved and Lost Than Never I Have Been Loved at All," in which the baritone covers a range of more than three octaves, registering perfectly in both the upper and lower octaves. The clever trio, Bram, York and Fife, offer a series of entertaining "Songs and Skips" among those Morton Bradley [illegible] in a manner both entertaining and [illegible]. They also make some new noise on the old xylophones. Five [illegible] photoplays add to the bill a pleasing finale.

THE FOLLY

There is a little of everything good in the Folly's vaudeville offering for the first half of the week which embraces a bit of everything in vaudeville. Lieber and Rockaway, a pair of blackface artists have an unusually efficient and wonderfully entertaining bit of musical "darky" comedy which they put over in great style. Their make-up is far and away the best of its kind. Portraying the old negro "mammy" of the south and her shiftless lazy husband, they sing some clever songs, give a clever exhibition of soft shoe dancing and wind up their act with the "Alabama Slip" a dance only real artists could execute. The Donahue Hunters, Dayton and O'Malley are excellent comedians and work into their act a vivid portrayal of George Beban in his famous vehicle "The Song of the Rose." Mr. Maley is a former understudy of Beban and claims to be the only vaudevillian offering this famous characterization. Delmar's Lions are splendid animal performers and at times during their performance command the application by the audience of the fact that they are secure in their in a steel cage. The picture program for Monday contains a film of a thousand wonders, "The Nature Man," portraying a man's struggle for existence in the wilds of a natural forest with no protection, clothing of food model, prehistoric conditions and other splendid first-run photoplays.

THE MET

After all is said it must be admitted that the Met holds pretty well up to the standard of "always a good" program of first run pictures. Cyril Maude, the eminent English actor, is appearing the first half of the week in "The Greater Will." Let it be known that Cyril Maude is no ordinary actor. His name ranks along in the class of Mantell, Sothern, Faversham and other actors of fame. It is not often you have an opportunity to see a man of his calibre. "The Greater Will" is a play founded on hypnotism with a plot that is different. You'll be fascinated by the many brilliant scenes. Added features are "The Diamond from the Sky," this chapter being called "On the Wings of the Morning" and also Hemle and Louis in "The Female of the Species is More Deadly than the Male." There are two more chapters of "The Diamond from the Sky." By watching the remaining chapters you might earn the $10,000 prize offered for its sequel. Thursday "The Red Circle," "Wallingford" and other plays.

DREAMLAND

"When I grow up I am going to be a real engineer like dad was."

There is scarcely any small boy but what has this ambition. The hero in "The Girl and the Game," which is at the Dreamland Tuesday and Wednesday, realizes his ambition. He is shown in later years on a runaway train in the mountains. Helen Holmes, who plays the leading part, prevents a disastrous wreck by riding a horse through a draw-bridge and into a raging river. The plunge is more than seventy-five feet. The plunge to the horse and finally is carried ashore. The horse continues the journey. Miss Holmes arriving at the wreck in time to sidetrack the freight train while the passenger goes on. "The Green Cloak," with Pearl Ives Trewick, is a five-reel feature.
