When it comes to having a celebration as is a celebration, Fort Worth takes the lead.

The procession was three miles long and was an hour and a half passing a given point.

Fort Worth would have shown the Tennessee editors more attention, if it had not been so busy.

One of the Tennesseans captured the grand marshal's sash and his —— but it won't do to tell the rest.

H. P. Shiel made a perfect Gambrinus.

One of the Third warders is still kicking—but the procession couldn't go everywhere.

The juvenile band covered itself with glory.

Who ever saw so many people, so quiet and orderly, and so free from drunkenness.

Mrs. Warren's reading of the immortal declaration was a masterpiece of elocution.

Miss Turner who represented the state of Tennessee was presented to the Tennessee editors soon after reaching the grounds, and was unanimously elected the Queen of the party. In the evening the visiting editors presented her with a flag, and Mr. W. J. Slattery made a presentation speech. The editor of the GAZETTE responded in behalf of Miss Turner.

The green flag of old Ireland was observed in the procession.

The "goddess" and "states" created some sore hearts.

The patriots who paraded were no respectors of telephone lines—especially when the wires were too low.

Captain Alexander worked hard for the success of the celebration and deserves credit.

The sheriff's office turned out strong and the boys made a neat appearance.

The post-office was gaily decorated with flags and bunting, and the front was adorned with the portraits of many well known statesmen and politicians. Among these was the counterfeit presentments of all the cabinet officers, the late President Garfield, President Arthur, Senator Logan, Frank Hatton, Senator Allison, and many other noted citizen. Mrs. Burchell's picture gallery was closely scanned and attracted much attention.

The members of the Galveston artillery made hosts of friends.

The "Tarrant Reserves" were conspicuous by their absence.

The GAZETTE dude with the plug hat was the cynosure of all eyes.

The ladies representing the Goddess of Liberty and the thirty-eight states of the Union won enconiums all round.

It is no vain boasting to say that no city in the south could produce such an array of beauty. It is needless to add that all were faultlessly dressed. The following are the names of the young ladies, and the states they represented.

Goddess of Liberty, Eugenia Grant. Alabama, Miss Willie Burts; Arkansas, Miss Josie Burts; California, Miss Mollie Rafferty; Colorado, Miss Dora Bronson; Connecticut, Miss Anna Bell Cooper; Delaware Miss Florrie Flynn; Florida, Miss Ella Eakin; Georgia, Miss Clara Fry; Illinois, Miss Lizzie Bradley; Indiana, Miss Lizzie McCamant; Iowa, Miss Jennie Ryan; Kansas, Miss Ada Patterson; Kentucky, Miss Cora Hogsett; Louisiana, Miss Minnie Sims; Maine, Miss Ida Jones; Maryland, Miss M. Dashiell; Massachusetts, Miss Amanda Turner; Michigan, Miss Ethel Hess; Minnesota, Miss Flora Wenar; Mississippi, Miss Susie Martin; Missouri, Miss Nettie Lightfoot; Nebraska, Miss Nannie Sims; New Hampshire, Miss Mary St. Clair; New Jersey, Miss Myrtle Hess; New York, Miss Melissa Jewel; North Carolina, Miss Eva Harrison; Nevada, Miss Rosa Kahn; Ohio, Miss Lelia Getz ndanner; Oregon, Nellie Hallenan; Pennsylvania, Ida Parvin; Rhode Island, Dora Johnson; South Carolina, Ida Wise; Tennessee, Rose Hallenan; Texas, Lizzie Terry; Vermont, Ruby Ball; Virginia, C. Dashiell; West Virginia, Fannie Bridges; Wisconsin, Anna May Eakan.

The Tennessee Editors.

About forty members of the Tennessee Press Association arrived in the city at five a. m and joined in the parade in the morning. They were a fine looking body of men and attracted considerable attention along the line of march. They were assinged special seats at the grounds, and with editors adaptability had as good a time as circumstances would permit.

BOSQUE COUNTY.

Matters at Morgan—An Affray Between School Boys—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Gazette.

Morgan, July 3.—A number of Morganites are making preparations to attend the Fourth of July celebration at Iredell to-morrow. Some will also take the train this evening for your city to be in attendance to-morrow.

Two sixteen-year-old school boys had a row at Brazos Point twelve miles north of here one day last week, in which both were slightly wounded. One had a small amount of flesh and hair taken off his cranium by a pistol ball, and the other received two knife wounds in his left arm. Fortunately neither of them was seriously hurt.

Mr. W. F. Russell of Alabama to-day bought the property belonging to Messrs. Parsons & Clardy in the eastern portion of the town. Mr. Russell intends erecting a large building thereon, in which he will run a wholesale grocery store in the fall.

Master Gregg Hawkins has opened a lemonade stand in front of the post-office. Besides selling lemonade, Gregg will also sell you the DAILY GAZETTE at his stand within four hours after publication.

IN BRIEF.

Fresh vegetables by express at Turner & McClure's this morning.

Attention is called to the advertisement of H. W. Stocking in our cheap column for laundry work.

Turner & McClure, the boss butter men of the city, have just received in addition to regular shipment of fresh country butter, a nice lot of spring chickens and fresh eggs.

The before and after taking crew in yesterday's procession, showing the difference in appearance of those who did and those who did not buy their groceries of Turner & McClure, was well gotten up and created considerable merriment among the lookers-on. Those who did not patronize the establishment were the hardest looking set we have seen for some time.

THE anti-monopolists adopted a nice platform yesterday at Chicago. They want no gambling in the necessaries of life, the sale of public lands to actual settlers, and other things the world has needed from time immemorial, and will never get. The convention was v

PRESIDENT ARTHUR made a graceful and manly talk yesterday to the Lexington, Virginia, cadets who had gone to New York to restore the flag of the 154th New York regiment, which was captured during the war. If all northern men could feel and speak as he did there would be no doubt that the southern boys would be "prompt and eager" to defend the flag of any New York regiment that might be in danger of capture by a foreign foe.
