Mercer County Republicans.

At Mercer, Tuesday, the Republican County Committee was enthusiastic for Major McDowell, and so long as they believe that he is being made the victim of a conspiracy their loyalty to him is admirable and worthy of emulation but when they say that they will stand by him till the polls close in November, even though his nomination was brought about by bribery, if it cannot be proved that the money used was his money, they not only forget their duty to their party but also their duty as good citizens. Sustaining acknowledged or confessed bribery means selling office or power to the highest bidder; it is the end of popular government; and though there have been rumors of buying and selling in connection with previous nominations for Congress, this is the first case in which the names and amounts have been positively stated, and the people given an opportunity to show their condemnation of such work. The people of Mercer county cannot afford to set such a precedent, they are an intelligent people, their vote in public questions in the past shows that they are an honest people, and we do not believe that they will adhere to the plan of action mapped out by their County Committee at Mercer, Tuesday. If two of the other counties had gone together at the New Castle convention, and somebody, no matter who, had purchased three of the Mercer county delegates, thereby making an apparent nomination, and the matter had come to light as this matter has, they would have been the first to repudiate a nomination brought about by such means.

It is not a question as to whether Maj. McDowell, his best friend or worst enemy did the bribing of the Beaver delegates. The Maj. says he did not do it we give him the benefit of his denial, but the question is. Was the nomination honestly and fairly made? All admit that on the 195th ballot he could not have been nominated without these bribed votes, and as they were unlawful they cannot be counted and his nomination is void.

Portersville Items.

H. Heberling and wife spent Spent Sunday in New Brighton.

Mrs. M. J. Hall, Miss Minnie and Miss Lissie Olive formerly of this place, now of Allegheny have come back to their home in Portersville for a few weeks. Mrs. W. P. Newton of St. Louis, Mo. is visiting with them. We are glad to have our old neighbors back to our village.

Robert Burnside and wife of Youngstown, Ohio, are the guests of his mother Mrs. Burnside of this place.

Miss Stella Brown who has been with her sister Mrs. Ramsey for a few weeks has returned to her home at Harlansburg.

Mr. Strawick, an oil man had a horse fall on our streets on last Tuesday and instantly killed.

Prof. Ricketts and wife of Centreville are visiting their many friends here.

H. E. and W. H. Heberling met with an accident which might have been very serious while working on the Teaby house about three miles from town, the scaffold broke but the young men clung tight to the eave and let themselves down without an injury.

Harry Okeson fell off the new house of Robert Stewart and sprained his arm very badly.

Jos Lehman, while fishing, caught an eel which measured three feet, and weighed three pounds.

Jos McGovern is taiking of building a new house on North Main street after harvest.

Dr. S. E. McClymonds returned to his home in Tarkio, Mo. leaving his family behind until the warm weather is over.

Mrs. Brown and daughter of Baltimore are the guests of her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Wilson.

Robert Stewart is building two new houses on the upper end of Pittsburg and Mercer street which adds greatly to the appearance of our town.

BURNED TO A CRISP.

On Saturday afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock, while the wife of Wm. Jones living one mile from town was starting the fire with lamp oil, the oil can exploded, throwing the oil all over her body and she was soon in a blaze. Being alone in the house she ran for help, but before any assistance could be rendered all the clothing was burned from her body. Medical aid was soon rendered but of no avail and she was soon called from her suffering to that heavenly home to meet her God. It was one of the most pitiful and heart rendering scenes that we have ever witnessed. The bereaved husband has the sympathy of the entire neighborhood in his affliction, the young couple having been married but three months before.

VITA.

The Mercer Co. Convention.

Mercer is a quiet, little town, located on the top of a hill, near the centre of Mercer county. It is distinctively a Court House town, and its location precludes it from being anything else. The Court House is surrounded by a grove in the centre of the town, all the business houses of the town are around that square, and there are several handsome residences on the street running north and south and skirting the Court House square on the eastern side. The only animation or life to be seen in the town last Tuesday was in and about the Court House, and the reason for this was the meeting of the Republican County Committee, to take action on the charges of bribery that have been made and confessed, in connection with the nomination of Major Alex. McDowell, of Sharon, for Congress.

"Our Alex," as they call him up there, was in the crowd shaking hands and talking with everybody; so was the Honorable Samuel Miller, and so were the other politicians of the town.

It was sometime after 1 o'clock when the crowd started up the stairways to the little court-room, which was soon comfortably filled, and fully half past one when Chairman Perry called the meeting to order with a tremendous blow with his hammer on the judge's bench, and stated its object.

Mr. Perry referred to the charges of bribery so quickly following the adjournment of the New Castle convention; advised cool and deliberate action, the surrender of no rights, the doing of nothing that they would regret, and called upon Major McDowell to make his statement.

The Major stepped into the box-like "bench" amid tremendous applause, and after it subsided made a speech somewhat similar to the one he made to our Co. Committee, though more lengthy. Townsend promised to nominate him, and he finally was nominated on the 195th ballot, had never had any conversation with the three Beaver Co. delegates who voted for him, did not and will not pay them a dollar nor authorize anybody to pay for him, and as far as he knows not a dollar was paid. He courts a rigid and searching investigation, referred to the action of the Beaver and Butler County Committees; in the interest of harmony he advised the Co. Committee to appoint a committee to meet with those of the other counties and search and examine, and if their report found himself or his delegates connected with the bribery he will step down and out; he advised doing nothing rash, but that the Co. Committee be firm and show the Republicans of the district that they would have justice and fair treatment; he does not want to force himself on the party and in its interest will step aside if found guilty of fraud or illegal practices. He believes the Republicans of the 25th district are willing to concede justice as between county and county and man and man, they must be friends and not enemies, there is no room for two candinates but plenty of room for one; Mercer Co. was well represented at New Castle and there are no charges against either its candidate or delegates.

The Major was heartily applauded several times during his speech, and seemed to have the absolute confidence of all or nearly all his audience.

A motion for a committee of five on resolutions then carried, it was appointed, and the Chair announced a recess of twenty minutes, and somebody said he had received a telegram from Quay to quit and send him an original package.

The feeling against Quay in the county seems to be intense. Threats of bolting Delamater, though they gave him their delegates last Spring, were heard on all sides. They seem to think that McDowell is being made the victim of a conspiracy that originated with Quay.

The committee on resolutions reported and the resolutions were read. They speak of the charges of bribery, of McDowell's disclaimer, of their explicit faith and confidence in him, but at his request will name a committee of three to meet with the committees of the other counties, their committee to act with others and make report to their Co. Committee at a future meeting; and if Major McDowell had nothing to do with the bribery they will claim the district nomination for him.

The Chairman asked for remarks from Mercer, Beaver, Butler or Lawrence Co. men present.

Sam Miller arose and said that he noticed that the Rev. Dr. Mehard, of Wilmington, was present, and calls were made for the Dr., who said he was not there to make a speech. He thought the resolutions should be passed, though it was a settled principle that fraud smirched a nomination, and though the nomination was regular, it was the duty of a candidate to decline such a nomination and again go before the people; individual cases must be considered with their surroundings and antecedents; Mercer Co. should adhere to the Major on his statement of the case, he knew the Major by reputation; it was well-known that two years ago McDowell could have had a delegate from Lawrence Co. for $150, but didn't take him.

Then Sam Miller was called for; Sam hesitated; somebody said Sam was bashful and that brought down the house. Sam spoke highly of McDowell's character, is sure that an investigation will clear him, and then they should all stand by him, as such action was due to Mercer Co., its 15 delegates, McDowell and manhood.

Henry Hall was the next speaker. He said we are all for McDowell because we know him; we won't take the word of three self-confessed boodlers against his reputation, and we want investigation. We don't want McDowell to be the victim of of somebody else's sin.

Mr. J. C. Brown, of Greenville, formerly editor of the Argus, believes McDowell had nothing to do with the bribery; he made no improper proposals for his four delegates, but if a committee investigated and reported, then what? This is not a question of McDowell's guilt or innocence, the important question is "Was there bribery?" "Were these three votes purchased?" If there was bribery, if these three votes were purchased, then the nomination is invalid and there was no nomination made. The question of McDowell's guilt or innocence was a false position.

Mr. Brown was the only Mercer Co. speaker who had the courage to touch the vital point of the matter, and his remarks were received in silence, except the muttered threats of revenge and disapprobation.

Mr. Evans, of Sharon, said the laboring men of Sharon were for McDowell.

Sam Miller answered Brown's speech. He said that fraud does not vitiate everything it touches; that if our legislature would attempt to pass a bill that bore hard on the corporations and the corporations would use money to prevent it, and the other side would use money to pass it, and did pass it, it would yet be a good law. There were Supreme Court decisions on the point, and the law would stand. He didn't know of any fraud, but assuming it as true, the three men were brought to beat somebody else; McDowell was innocent; his nomination had been made unanimous and the other 57 delegates had not been bribed; since this affair came out he had revised his opinion of Judas Iscariot; Judas gave back the money and went out and hanged himself, while these three men kept the money and squealed. There is no sickly sentimentalism in his character and if the committee reports Major McDowell innocent he will stick to him till he himself pulls down his flag.

Then the other counties were again called upon for remarks, but there were no responses. Speakers from other counties were not present, because they had not been invited. Sam Miller seemed especially anxious to get a whack at a Butler Co. man, but was not given a chance. Sam seems to be McDowell's attorney in this matter, and he carefully avoids the vital question at issue, as acted upon by Beaver and Butler Counties, and as stated by Mr. Brown. If the boot was on the other foot, if three of McDowell's men had played Judas and sold themselves to either of the other three candidates for Congress, thus making a nomination and defrauding McDowell, Sam would probably be the loudest-mouthed man in the district in his denunciation of the fraud. We imagine that he would seek a position on the top of the water tank and try to make all Mercer Co. hear him at the same time.

The question was then called for and put and the resolutions passed unanimously. Miller wanted the roll called, but Chairman Perry decided that to be unnecessary. Then Sam called for everybody in the room who were for McDowell to rise to their feet, and almost everybody arose. Then Sam wanted anybody who opposed him to rise, and one young man arose and said that he was for McDowell if he was innocent, but not otherwise, and Chairman Perry answered "Oh, yes, if our Alex. ain't innocent, we won't be for our our Alex."

A motion to make Chairman Perry the chairman of the investigating committee carried, and Perry appointed S. H. Miller and Henry Robinson as his associates.

Then all arose and gave McDowell three cheers and the meeting adjourned.

The resolutions are as follows:

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The resolutions adopted follow:

Whereas, It is alleged that the nomination of Maj. Alex. McDowell as the Republican candidate for Congress for this, the Twenty-fifth district, was brought about by the bribery of one or more of the delegates representing Beaver county in the late Congressional convention, and

Whereas, Maj. McDowell disclaims all knowledge of the alleged bribery having been committed, and states to this committee that he neither paid nor promised to pay directly or indirectly, by himself or by any other person, any consideration whatever to secure the vote or votes of any delegate in said convention, and

Whereas, This committee has implicit faith and confidence in the veracity, honesty and integrity of Maj. McDowell, and, therefore, believe that neither he nor any of the Mercer county delegates or friends had any part in corruptly soliciting or obtaining the votes of any delegates of said convention; therefore,

Resolved, first, That we hereby announce and declare that we recognize Maj. McDowell as the Republican nominee for Congress in this, the Twenty-fifth district; that as such we earnestly and heartily indorse his candidacy, and pledge him the active and unanimous support of every member of this committee and of the Republican voters of this county.

Resolved, second, That Maj. McDowell having requested the same, the Chairman of this committee be authorized and directed to appoint a committee of three Republicans to act in conjunction with committees appointed or to be appointed by the Republican County Committees of the other counties comprising the district to investigate the charges of illegal bribery in said Congressional convention, with direction to report their action at a future meeting to be held by this committee.

Resolved, third, That when the committee to be appointed this day shall, after investigation, report to this committee that Maj. McDowell had no complicity or participation in the alleged bribery, and that he is innocent of all connection therewith, then it is the duty of this committee and the right of the Republicans of Mercer county, to claim, demand and expect for Maj. McDowell the support of every Republican in the district.

THE state of Massachusetts was visited by a cyclone—an unusual thing—last Saturday, and the town of South Lawernce was demolished, and twenty people were killed.

CHAIRMAN HUSELTON of the Co. Committee has appointed Col. John M. Sullivan, Hon. Jos. Thomas Jr. and James M. Carson to represent Butler county in the conference that will soon be held to arrange for the nomination of a Congressman for this district. Beaver, Butler and Mercer Counties have now acted, and the Republican Co. Committee of Lawrence Co. meets tomorrow, Saturday, in New Castle.

A REVOLUTION has broken out in the army of the Argentine Republic, and its late President, Dr. Celmara, is a fugitive.

THE nomination of Maj. McDowell for Congress was bought about by some one furnishing $2200 to bribe three delegates in the Convention to vote for him. The bribed parties admit this; then the nomination is the result of fraud and violation of law and is void, yet Mr. Miller of Mercer say to McDowell "stick to the goods thus obtained," and expects honest Republicans to endorse a nomination made in that manner.

Mr. Latchaw had been in poor health for some years.

DAWSON WADSWORTH, ESQ.,

Died on the 16th inst., at his late residence in Slipperyrock Twp., Butler Co., Pa He was one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of that community. He was born near Rockcorry, county of Monaghan, Ireland, in the year 1807; came to the United States in 1825; learned the hatter trade in Newark, N. J.; came to Pittsburg when it was little more than a village; followed the hatter trade in the latter place for eight years. In 1835 he married Miss Jane S. Robinson, of Pittsburg. After living in Pittsburg about 12 years he removed to Fayette, Washington Co., but only remained there about one year, then moved to Mercer Co., where he resided for 27 years, and had lived for a number of years on the farm in Slipperyrock Twp., this county. His family history can be traced far back in the centuries. One of his ancestors was honored with a coat-of-arms for his valor in the battle of Cressy, France, on Aug. 6th, 1346; and he was said to be the oldest Mason in this county. During his earlier life he held many important positions of trust and honor. He served Pittsburg as tax collector in 1839; was justice of the peace for about 20 years in Mercer and Butler counties; represented Mercer county in the State Legislature in 1844, and was a member of that body when the late Simon Cameron was first elected to the U. S. Senate. He had five brothers. Dr. John Wadsworth, who died in Ky.; Dr. Alexander, of Hull, Can.; James and William, also of Canada; and the late Dr. Henry Wadsworth, of Philadelphia. The poet Wadsworth and Brig.-Gen. James Wadsworth and many others who attained prominence in the different callings of life, were of this illustrious family. Dawson Wadsworth was possessed of fine intellectual ability. He was a great reader and close observer and was one of the most entertaining and pleasant of conversationalists. He leaves an aged wife and a family of grown children to mourn their loss.

Dyspepsia

Does not get well of itself; it requires careful, persistent attention and a remedy that will assist nature to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs till they perform their duties willingly. Among the agonies experienced by the dyspeptic, are distress before or after eating, loss of appetite, irregularities of the bowels, wind or gas and pain in the stomach, heart-burn, sour stomach, etc., causing mental depression, nervous irritability and sleeplessness. PRIVATE DISEASES.

On account of having been Attendant Physician at Hot Springs, Dr. McClellad has never failed to cure a case of Private disease peculiar to either sex, no matter of what nature or of how long standing.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS.

Major J. M. Davidson, ex-President of the Lawrence County Wool Growers' Association, and a citizen well known in the county, freely gives the following testimonial to the ability of Drs. Salm & McClellan. The Major says: "I was suffering greatly from a Polypus and with Inward Piles. I had tried local treatment and much medicine with no avail. I read the advertisement of Drs. Salm & McClellan and I concluded to give them a trial. At their last visit to this city they declared me cured and they discharged me. I feel now like a new man. They did everything they agreed to and treated me courteously. They did me a world of good and relieved me of all suffering."

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 7, 1890.

I have been suffering from Insomnia (Sleeplessness) and general nervous prostration, dependent upon the former disease for more than three years. I became so weak that I would not be on my feet for an hour at a time; appetite was miserable. I went to Mt. Sinai Hospital at New York City, but without the least benefit. I put myself under care of Drs. McClellan & Salm, who visit New Castle every four weeks, and am now as well as ever, hale and hearty, minus all defects of health
MAGGIE S. GIBSON, Box 161.

These are but two of the many cures effected by the doctors on their visits here. They have several other testimonials of wonderful cures which will be published later.
