THERE'S MORE TO GIVE UP

War bonds to patch, liberties are marked for still heavier. Yet, when you think of it, we have not paid the price that we are going to pay. Into our disappointed ranks of the Expeditionary which are bound for Germany. To-day we shrink with the pangs of sorrow, we strip with admiration for the hardships of the Hun.

GETTING PARTICULARS

Politics is new to women, but they are learning and its dubious returns. Before they commit themselves to a candidate, they ask, "Who are you supporting for governor? For Congress? For the Senate or Treasurer? Women are suspicious. This is one time when the men's minds for mean as much as the men.

IN THE SAME BOAT

With almost unanimous sound the influence that is behind Ferguson is behind Slayden — and the German-American Alliance and speakers in the field for Ferguson in 1914? During his campaign, how many patriotic messages has Ferguson delivered to the people? Where has he praised Woodrow Wilson or offered allegiance to the Allies? Tonight James L. Slayden will speak to Corpus Christi. If Congressman Slayden mentions the President's name with praise, he confuses all rules. He has changed front since he visited Corpus Christi last year.

EXTRA DRY

Those voters who hope to return next year by electing Mr. Ferguson are confronted with a sound than not of Ferguson's making. Because coal is needed for home heat purposes, for the thousands and one manufactures which provide food, bandages, medicines, agricultural implements and munitions, the supply to breweries will be cut off after April 1, in process of manufacture, has been ordered. In other words, after his re-election in November there will neither be beer nor wine.

The success of the Amiens drive has been passed about the third of the American people.

THE MAN FOR THE PLACE

Woodrow Wilson has confided in Roosevelt and the Republican party happy. There is much to indicate that President Wilson has seriously advanced suggestions of partisanship under instruction. He is constantly sacrificed himself to test out the feeling of the Democratic people. Whether this is true or not Hughes is the man for the job. His acts and utterances will refresh the Democratic of Pres. A. Lincoln, who, when the war came to a close, said simply: "Now the house is divided, all Republicans and Democrats united on militarism. The Democrats will never amount to a pinch proposed which is not backed by the majority.

GLASSCOCK BARES THE POLITICAL RECORD OF ARCHIE PARR OF DUVAL

[illegible]

Ferguson Opposed Draft

[illegible]

Then there's another thing—another thing beside opposition to the selective draft. Ferguson wanted Dr. Keasby for president of the University. And who is Dr. Keasby? He was the editor of a New York magazine until it was closed out by the Government and later editor of that notorious publication, 'The Fatherland,' since suppressed by the Government. And how many pro-Germans are for Bill Hobby? Do you know? I don't. They are all for Jim Ferguson; for the man who repeatedly, brazenly and shamelessly violated the laws of the State—the laws that he was solemnly sworn to uphold. For Ferguson—the friend of the brewers, the pro-Germans, the I. W. W. element.

"Now, I'm through with Ferguson—that is, for to night. Since I have been up in this section, talking to people, I thought men and women kept said, 'I don't know yet Mr. Glasscock, but I do know the other fellow. That's why I am for you.' Not complimentary, but you feel. And I want you to be for me because you know me, because you know my record in public life.

PARR AND FERGUSON

"I am not the Democratic nominee. [illegible] Archie Parr. Mr. Parr is strong for Ferguson. He was one of the four senators who voted to kill every time, right on account. And as the roll was called and the various senators gave their reasons for casting their votes on this bill, they said they got to Archie Parr, for some said time and said, 'No' and I have no apology to offer. And when he said his 'No' he doesn't cast his vote to get back to your vote. He was up there as your representative, designated to express your views. If there ever was a overwhelming, magnificent outbreak of public sense, that was it. Yet when Archie Parr said one vote for the bill you see the opposition of James E. Ferguson. He called Archie Parr.

"I have heard about Parr's methods, etc., etc. Against such sentiments from Duval. If Duval have made up people feel good to see that Duval is to know that Senator Parr's account would not be Ferguson. Senator Parr the man who opposed woman suffrage. The man who stood in line—one of the few who remains in line—and your representative.

THE DUVAL COUNTY VOTE

"I am confronted with a little handicap to begin with. Archie Parr is the man who got up in the Texas Senate and boasted that he carried Duval county's vote in his vest-pocket. And Duval county's vote will be sold against me—sold against Hobby. I don't own a county. Don't carry anybody's vote in my pockets—not even my wife's.

"I cannot afford to run for office. I wouldn't be in the race if I did not consider it part of the war work that's necessary; if I didn't think that you people should have the privilege of a choice. I am against Kaiserism everywhere. I am fighting for democracy. I believe that the world has got to be made safe for democracy—safe for democracy even over there in Duval county. I believe in free, honest, uninfluenced elections—otherwise we fall short of democracy. And I am going to win with the independent vote of this district, despite the work of the political czars—and mark my closing prediction: William P. Hobby will be elected on July 27 with a vote that will begin at a majority of 156,000, and grow, grow, grow until it is overwhelming."

On the stage with Mr. Glasscock were Mesdames H. D. McDonald, J. D. Lasker, Wm. Gerhardt, J. M. Rountree and M. H. Williams, Miss Irene Wolfram, Messrs. H. D. McDonald, Edwin Fish, H. N. Carroll, W. J. Smith, J. C. North, R. W. Stratton, H. B. Robinson, T. R. Martin, J. W. Stratton, L. H. Brown, Byron Wells, Dr. C. M. Aldredge, Hugh Stockton and W. D. Doughty of Benavides.
