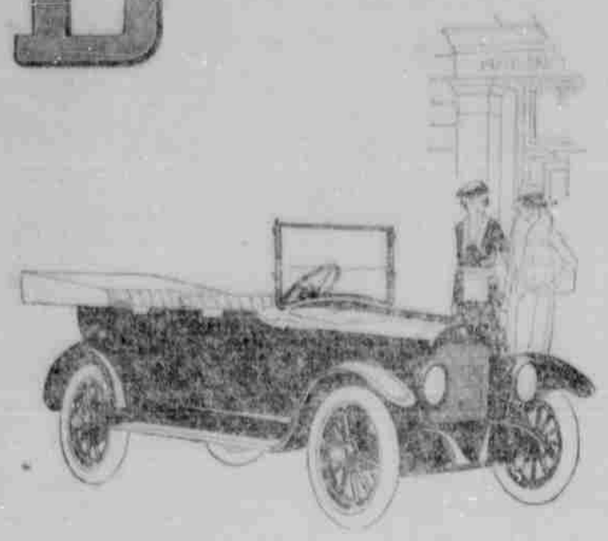
DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through



The salient characteristics of the Dort can be summed up in three sentences.

First, it is a car that needs service-attention but very infrequently.

Second, when it does seem desirable to give the Dort a "going over" you can do it yourself easily, quickly, and inexpensively because of the marked simplicity and accessibility of Dort construction.

Third, its mileage per set of tires, gallon of gasoline, and quart of oil is perceptibly higher than common.

Prices F. O. B. Factory
Wire Wheels and Spare Tires Extra

Delivered in Corpus Christi
$1,045

O. K. Garage

J. M. WHITTAKER, Prop.
423 Mesquite St. (20)

DORT MOTOR CAR COMPANY
Flint Mich.

Sprucing Up the Flivver

How about your Jenny Lind? Of course you let her take shape during the year. It was impossible to take time to polish up your car at a busy Allen Motorcycle company was operating at top speed to make the most out of necessary for the winning of the war.

But the war is over. Labor is not longer scarce. In fact there are thousands of men who are anxious to get from their service, an alliance they will have rather a difficult time of it until the industries of the country are put state there now in other words. Now is the time to spruce up that Jenny so that you may enjoy each or pain on and to overhaul it generally. You will be doing a patriotic service to the country by getting a rather in two to be the good for you. Colonel Arthur Wood, director of the secretary of war, recommends the improvement of an service, from the which represents high work.

There is no time like the present. Why delay and in the life of the war? Spring is coming, the roads are fine, the birds are singing, Jenny Lind is calling. Call her with the garage, or you can do it yourself and save money.

Mechanics are scarce—scarce—scarce. Many men are more than three years behind in their work. Many of them are still boxing and cut Arthur Wood, assistant to the secretary of war, and in charge of the government repair department, suggests for automobile men, offers them as the best possible mate-

BARNEY OLDFIELD TIRES

The Tire Barney Oldfield Raced On

BLOWOUTS

REPAIRED FREE OF CHARGE

GUARANTEED
Fabric, 6,000 Miles
Cord, 8,000 Miles

For Sale

Emmerts Garage

America's Best Housekeeper Wants Buisness Methods in the Home

(Especially written for Daily Caller)
BY MRS. T. Q. FRANKS,
Winner of Medal as America's Best Home Maker.

Many a man has had occasion to say to his wife, "My dear, if I run my business as you run your food budget, we should be bankrupt."

American men are noted for their business intelligence. The chief of what is called "American business methods" is in the future to be directed time for the most women, and to the greatest practical perfection.

American women, on the other hand, are famous for their casual attitude toward money. "Of course Jack scolds, but he pays the bills, so what does it matter?" they all too frequently say.

And so there is the combination of good management in the home, which is business, on the contrary, would be lacking, but certain knowledge for efficient administration. These essentials are in fact, practically the same, and the women who applies them to her conduct of her home will also discover ways to solve the material problems in the right spirit of trust and the understanding of her life and business life.

A simple cooking analogy of "American business methods" would provide the following points:

A successful business man knows the amount of his capital, whether it is invested with correspondence to profit, and what the prospects of advancement may be.

He handles his money through a reliable bank, using an accounting system in which he and movements and the expenditures, surplus and outlook at any given time. He avoids haphazard methods, including his reputation for honesty and efficiency.

Inside his own office he maintains simple standards of system and in service.

He has a personal knowledge of the details of his business, so that he can put to use modern labor saving devices. He buys material in sufficient quantities, at the most economical price possible, and at stated intervals takes "stock" to determine his needs for the future.

He guards the health and safety of his employees by adequate fire protection, heating, ventilating and lighting systems. He adjusts labor disputes and gives their men employees knows what to do, how to do it, and is personally responsible for results.

He keeps informed of the working methods of others in his business and is willing to adopt and adapt improvements.

The modern woman who adopts these methods will find it no easy task to leave the value of money, time and labor. Yet some whose minds as well as sympathies were of adjusting their own budget.

They do not content to pay the bills. Unless necessity dominates, they have no practical knowledge regarding the cost of the commodities they buy.

They purchase promiscuously when they can, and complain in the end of their losses.

Finally, although such a thing is the most modern performance of which there is no doubt, they express the experience of

"Of course Jack scolds, but he pay s the bills, so what does it matter?" American women are famous for their casual attitude toward money.—Mrs. Thetis Quay Franks.

[illegible] of housework.

[illegible] time saving and comfort of workers in [illegible] their homes.

[illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] and