ANTHRAX FAST DISAPPEARING AMONG CATTLE

Veterinarian's Report Shows Disease on Decline in Nueces County.

Anthrax in Nueces county is on the decline according to a report made to County Judge H. H. Sutherland yesterday by Dr. W. B. Morgan, State assistant veterinarian, who has been in this county for about two weeks vaccinating live stock and supervising other work necessary to the eradication of the disease. It is thought that within a very few days it will be possible to lift the quarantine declared in certain sections of the county at the instance of the State and county officials.

This disease is the most fearful one known to what among livestock, he says, and this is the second epidemic that has swept this county, the first being about eleven years ago when hundreds of head of livestock perished and were allowed to remain unburned wherever their carcasses might be deposited. It is thought probable that this has had much to do with the present epidemic.

In view of this fact, every effort has been made by the county and State authorities to take all possible precautions against outbreaks of this disease in the future, and all carcasses have been required to be burned and a special order issued by County Judge Sutherland to burn every particle of the carcass of the animal after it had died with the disease. As far as is known, farmers have co-operated heartily in aiding in the complete eradication at the present time and also in making efforts to guard against it in the future.

It is impossible to estimate the number of head of livestock that have perished in this last epidemic. It is said, but it is known that hundreds of dollars have been lost throughout the county, and especially in the sections in and around Corpus Christi. Hogs, cattle, horses, mules and sheep have been reported to have died with Anthrax, but it is now practically assured that few, if any, doubt will occur as a result of the disease.

Moving of Shell by City Finished

All of the shell, sand and gravel washed up by the September hurricane that was deposited on City property has been moved by the City and used to fill in low places in the bay section of the City.

The storm washed up a new beach along the north shore of the City proper, varying in width from a few feet to twenty-five feet, and in some places being more than five feet deep. This shell and sand has proved excellent material for filling in the low places of the City.

Many tons of it have been moved and distributed where needed. In some cases it has been used to cover the layer of mud left by the receding waves, but more often it has been utilized to bring property up to a level with the street, and so prevent the forming of pools of water with consequent danger of their becoming breeding places for mosquitoes and disease.

Receiver's Notice

All persons who have lost bath tubs and toilet fixtures by the action of the hurricane, will please file in writing a list of what is lost, describing the loss and buildings where located.

(Signed) C. W. GIBSON, and JOHN G. WILLACY, Receivers.

START DRIVE TODAY TO AID EX-SOLDIERS

Rev. H. Austin Chairman of Drive in Nueces County to Aid Tuberculars.

Reverend Henry Austin has been named as chairman of the drive in Nueces County that begins today throughout the State of Texas to raise the sum of $500,000 for the purpose of treating "Texas soldiers in Texas," who are tubercular patients.

The government will furnish all medical science that is necessary in the treatment of Texas tubercular service men, but because of lack of housing facilities for these sufferers it has been necessary to devise some means whereby these former soldiers could be treated without the necessity of removing them from the State.

The quota for Nueces County is $1,[illegible], and the drive will be principally in the hands of former draft officials, who have volunteered to do this work because of the connection that they had in the selecting of these men for duty. They point out that every citizen of Texas should see to it that the State's boys, who willingly risked their all, shall not suffer because of lack of funds for proper treatment of this fearful disease.

The largest single disability of American troops who fought the Germans is reported to be tuberculosis of the lungs. Records of the Federal Board for Vocational Education state that more than 18 per cent of a total of 119,[illegible]000 cases examined showed affected lungs.

That our soldier boys faced a greater enemy than the German soldiers, is evident in the latest report of the Federal Board for Vocational Education. That great destroyer, tuberculosis, got busy in the concentration camps, accompanied the boys aboard ship to the great training centers in France and then into the muddy trench of Flanders, Belgium and France.

Of the 128,000 soldiers reported on the disability lists, tuberculosis had a greater hold than wounds sustained in battle. The same disease eclipsed shell shock, nerve diseases and insanity all put together.

The total amputation cases were only 4.9 per cent. Insanity cases were 3 per cent; nerve diseases and shell shock were 2.6 per cent; while only 3,748 of the total number of cases were incurred in battle.

Kipling Subject at Woman's Club

Kipling was the subject of the program rendered Monday at the meeting of the Woman's Monday Club held with Mrs. W. H. Hopkins as hostess.

Short stories by Kipling, in outline, were given in response to the roll call.

Mrs. J. R. Pendrom read an interesting paper on the author, in which she emphasized three distinct periods in his writings, which she characterized as the Indian period, the English period and a combination of the two which constituted the third period. She gave numerous interesting glimpses of his personal life and spoke of the poem, "They" which he wrote on the loss of his little daughter while in New York City.

Mrs. Frank Tompkins read "Great Heart," written by Kipling early in the year at the request of a Philadelphia newspaper in memory of Theodore Roosevelt. The title of the poem was drawn from a character in Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress."

Mrs. Frank Allen sang delightfully two negro spirituals, "Lemmh' go de Lawd," by William Reddick and "O, I Don't Rein," by H. T. Burleigh. Miss Anne Forrester played the piano accompaniments.

During the business session Mrs. William Gerhardt, State chairman of the humane department, read her annual report which incorporated letters from William Hornaday of New York and Mr. Sullivan of the Red Star National Organization, both of whom are intensely interested in the conservation and protection of animal life.

Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Halsey and Miss Forrester were guests of the club.

A social hour with refreshments closed the meeting.

Mrs. Henry Redmond will be the next hostess.
