Cotton Advances On Weather News

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Prospects for a continuation of wet weather in the South evidently lead to increased pessimism over the crop outlook and further active covering in the cotton market here this morning. October contracts sold up to 35.43, making an advance of 113 points from the low level of yesterday morning and of 53 points from yesterday's closing quotation. Raining caused pearlings of a few points in the late trading but the market closed steady at a net advance of 13 to 46 points on all months except September, which was 15 points net lower. The market opened firm and advanced to 70 to 82 points net higher during the middle of the morning on continued covering.

The advance carried July to 37.80 and December 34.20, but at these figures there was realizing for over the week-end which led to some irregularity in the late trading.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, June 19.—Wet weather in the belt put the price of cotton higher today and the advance continued until near the close, when realizing by longs came on the market in sufficient volume to check the upward movement but without causing much of a reaction. The opening was higher and the close was a net gain of 12 to 21 points.

H. & B. BEER LETTER

Special to the Caller.

NEW ORLEANS, June 19.—Rains have become general heavy in localities with indications of extending over Sunday, perhaps into early next week. The wet weather probably will cause weevils to become more numerous and destructive. If torrential rains are experienced in sections where planting has just been finished they may necessitate replanting, at this very late date, perhaps further abandonment of acreage. While some improvement undoubtedly has taken place in the average condition of the plant, perhaps 5 or 6 points since the last bureau report of 62.4, chances are that the July bureau will show, as did the June bureau, the lowest condition on record for June 25, or a shade under 70, which would compare with 70 last year 85.8 year before last and the ten-year average of 77.8.

With the publishing of the next bureau report the government will announce the indicated acreage for this year, which will compare with last year's revised figures of 35,132,000. There is much uncertainty as to whether the government will report an increase or decrease in this year's acreage, compared with last year, and the consensus of opinion is the area devoted to cotton this year will be about the same as one year ago.

Corn Prices Make New High Mark

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 19.—Expected continuance of receipt had a bearish effect on the corn market today and all deliveries reached a new high price record for the present crop. BROWNSVILLE CHAMBER SETS WHEELS GOING

Progressive Program Made and Steps to Be Taken Without Delay

Special to The Caller

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, June 19.—Another step in progress has been taken by Brownsville in the reorganization of its chamber of commerce. For almost two years this city has been without a chamber of commerce. Formation of one is in keeping with other improvements which are going on here.

The Brownsville Chamber of Commerce stands for everything that is progressive; it urges complete co-operation between the valley towns for the development and upbuilding of the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Its members are solidly for good roads, believing that they are indispensible to the prosperity of any wide awake community. Plans are being made for many improvements in the city itself, its beautification being the chief.

Up to the present, 722 members have been secured and, according to business men here, were that 800 will soon be enrolled. The Chamber set out to raise $30,000 and this has been oversubscribed. No difficulties whatever have hindered its work, and if matters continue as they are Brownsville's Chamber of Commerce will be one of the most progressive in Texas.

Officers elected are: W. G. Willman, president; C. L. Bishop, first vice president; J. S. Rowe, second vice president; F. M. Lamberton. The board of directors consists of Andres Pacheco, H. L. Creager, W. B. Clift, W. E. McDavitt, J. B. Gregg, A. Ashbelle, E. B. Howard, S. C. Tucker, A. Wayne Wood, J. H. Fernandez and Louis Colombini. Several applications for secretary have been received, but, as yet, none have been accepted.

Pest Destroyer Used.

If the experiments now being conducted under the supervision of F. C. Barber at the U. S. entomological station here prove successful, thousands of dollars will be saved annually to corn and sugar cane growers all over the country. For several years efforts have been made by the government to work out a method of control for the destructive sugar cane borer, which has done so much damage to corn and sugar cane in Texas and Louisiana and cost planters large sums of money. The insect does its damage in the larval or worm stage, in which it bores into the stalk of the plant and feeds on the pith and sap. Often, the stalk is so weakened that the least gust of wind will blow it down. The borer also attacks sorghum, broom corn, Johnson grass, and Sudan grass; in fact all members of this class of plants.

In Cuba a parasite has been found which attacks and kills the pest while it is in the larval stage. Experts are in Cuba collecting these parasites and sending them to the station here. As a rule, about thirty are received daily. The parasites bear a striking resemblance to the common house fly, it being quite difficult to distinguish between them.

As soon as the adult flies have emerged from their chrysales they are placed in a screen-covered box and released in a corn or sugar cane field that is known to be infested with the cane borer. Here they breed and die, but their offspring attacks the borer. So far more than a hundred adults have been released in fields in the vicinity of Brownsville, and if the parasites can be induced to breed in large numbers, the situation will soon be under control.

Many methods of control have been tried, but none has proved successful. Several types of artificial control are employed in Texas and Louisiana and some have met with some success. But it seems that natural control is the most efficacious.

No Cause for Alarm

The appearance of bubonic plague at Vera Cruz has caused no alarm here. Local health authorities, however, state that they are prepared for any emergency. Doctors declare there is little possibility of a quarantine. In Matamoros a rat killing campaign has been started, and authorities are taking every precaution to safeguard the health of citizens. Tampico is now under quarantine, travelers being able to go only to Monterey.

A former soldier named Sapercy and Tom Gannon are under arrest and confined in the county jail on a charge of burglary.

Candidates Tell Stand on Measure For Rural Schools

AUSTIN, Texas, June 19.—Miss Annie Webb Blanton, state superintendent of public instruction, has received the following replies to her letters to the candidates for governor, in regard to the annual $2,000,000 appropriation for rural schools.

May 30, 1920.

Miss Annie Webb Blanton,
Superintendent of Public Instruction,
Austin, Texas.

Dear Miss Blanton:

Replying to your favor of May 17th I beg to advise you that I am in favor of continuing the rural school aid appropriation of $2,000,000 per year.

Very truly yours,
(Sgd.) R. E. THOMASON.

June 7, 1920.

Miss Annie Webb Blanton,
Commissioner of Education,
Austin, Texas.

Miss Blanton:

I received your recent communication, requesting me to state my attitude towards the $2,000,000 annual appropriation heretofore made to supplement other funds for the maintenance of our public schools.

I wish to state that I am in favor of continuing this encouragement to our schools, in fact, I believe the amount ought to be increased. I have a conviction that we have never invested as much money in our school system as should have been invested, and in order to meet the crisis now upon us and rescue the system from collapse, I believe we should do the thing that is needful; that is, the investment of enough money to bring about these results.

I am willing to be charged with extravagance, if this should be necessary, to save the schools.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) H. P. LOONEY.

No replies have been received from other candidates.

HAIL STORM RUMOR PROVES BASELESS

Reports that there had been violent hail storms at Sinton and vicinity were learned last night to be without foundation, although the rain which fell yesterday morning was heavy there. The Sinton hail storm rumor grew in proportions as it passed from mouth to mouth in the streets last night until it appeared certain the cotton crop had been ruined. A telephone message was all that was necessary to clear away the rumors as no one in Sinton had seen a hail stone in many a day.
