WILD DOGS.

They Live Among the Hills and Depredate on People Near.

Special to the Gazette.

GOODLAND, KAN., Nov. 19.—For some time there have reached here reports from the northwestern part of this county of a strange band of animals which were supposed to be wolves, that were depredating in that section. The animals were very wild, and were only seen at long intervals, but at night they could be heard barking and howling around the few scattered houses of the farmers of that part of the county, and while their noise was rather strange for wolves it was supposed to be some new kind. It has developed, however, that instead of being a band of wild wolves, the animals are dogs. A man named Withers, who lost a colt and was searching for it, had occasion to camp out over night in a part of the county where there were no settlers, and while in camp the band of animals surrounded his place and raised such a noise that he shot at them and killed one. The others ran off and he went to the place to get the dead wolf before the rest of the band destroyed the skin. He hauled it into the camp and again went to sleep. He was much surprised next morning to find that he had a dead dog instead of a dead wolf.

The dog was evidently a cross between a fox-hound and a grayhound, but was a full-blooded dog. Withers thought that this might give a clew to the strange noises produced by the animals, and he concluded to investigate. He staid around the place all day and that night he was again visited by the animals. He noticed that when they ran off they went in the same direction taken the night before and the next morning he traced them to a rocky hill and there found that the animals made their home. A search revealed the fact that there was a band of dogs which were as wild as wolves. They had evidently sprung from some dog which had strayed away from its master, and the band now numbers at least fifteen.

At the Harvest of Death

Much grain is prematurely reaped by the scythe of disease that might have ripened to a golden maturity if "minor" bodily troubles had been attended to in time. Nothing is truer than this—bodily ailments not only grow apace, but beget one another. Thus biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia follow close on the heels of one another, flourish together, and together, perpetuating the other, and begetting a numerous progeny of lower ailments more or less severe as their cause is more or less disregarded and neglected. Malarial pleurisy, rheumatism, malaria "all broke up" activity of the kidneys, of what dire disease they are the cause when no or but slight attention is paid to their early warnings. Check these "minor" ailments with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and forestall the inexorable reaper, who exacts the forfeiture of life as the penalty for disregarding the means of preserving it.

MURRAY INDORSED.

His Alliance Stands By Him Bravely and Clearly Sets Forth the Law.

CADE, NAVARRO COUNTY, TEX., Nov. 18.—At its last meeting the ultimatum of County Line Alliance, No. 558, (this lodge) was reached in the case of the State Alliance vs. Mr. William Henry Murray, who was secretary of the Fort Worth and St. Louis anti-sub-treasury conventions, for having been a stockholder in the Farmers' World at Dallas. This lodge has forty-three members—three sub-treasury advocates and forty antis, and is the largest one belonging to its county Alliance. The trial being ordered, it was referred to the proper tribunal, "the committee on the good of the order," composed of William H. Murray, chairman; Robert Smith and J. P. O'Neal. Murray resigned and President Gilger appointed John C. Easterling. The committee was instructed to "try Murray for the charges of the state Alliance under the constitution, exhaust the law in the case, and make a report in obedience to the same." The following is

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

To B. F. Gilger, President County Line Farmers' Alliance No. 558.

We your committe "On Good of the Order" having under consideration the charges preferred against William H. Murray by the state Alliance, by the pass age of resolutions No. 6 and 20, which declared all signers of the Austin manifesto and stockholders in the Farmers' World, all who attended the Fort Worth meeting and all who would indorse them, as being "so-called Alliance men and no longer members in good standing" in the order, and by the passage of said resolutions charges were preferred and all sub-lodges are commanded to expel any such members, under penalty of forfeiting their charters, beg leave to report:

1. We find that said Wm. H. Murray, a member of this lodge, did subscribe stock to the Farmers' World, helped to organize and is aiding the publication of same, and that he was one of the prime originators of the Fort Worth convention, and took part in same. That is, he is guilty of all the charges except signing the Austin manifesto; but after a careful and impartial investigation of the "Declaration of Intentions," the ritual, constitution and by-laws of the order, we find that said charges are no violation of the order, its rules or precedent thereof, because said paper does not claim to be an Alliance paper, having reserved the right to advocate political measures which is not within the province of the Farmers' Alliance, and we find after a careful examination of every number of the Farmers' World that its every reference to the organization is a defense of it as expressed in its "Declaration of Intentions," as organized and chartered by the state, and is therefore no offense. He has committed no offense by his support and connection with the Fort Worth anti-sub-treasury convention, because it convened with open doors, and was therefore not an Alliance meeting.

2. That no member of the order can be expelled under the constitution except for disclosing the pass-word, the secret work and proceedings of the order, and for violating the principles expressed in the "Declarations of Intentions."

3. That the state Alliance is a non-partisan and non-political organization and a compact between sub-lodges, they being represented through county organizations, while sub-lodges are compacts of individuals; that the state Alliance has authority to try its officers and members only, and that the sub-lodges are the only part of the organization constitutionally authorized to try individuals. See sec. 4, art. 9, and sec. 2, art. 11, constitution, also President Evan Jones' ruling No. 7, as follows:

"All officers and members of the county Farmers' Alliance are amenable to the county Farmers' Alliance for their official conduct, and when charges are preferred against them they shall be tried by the board of the county Alliance. If acquitted and the charges are so grave as to demand expulsion, the case would then of necessity come under the jurisdiction of the Farmers' Alliance as the only authority for expelling a member.

"All members of the Farmers' Alliance are subject to the constitution and by-laws that govern the order, and must stand responsible to the Farmers Alliance to which they belong for violation of the by-laws that govern the same, whether officials in the county Farmers' Alliance or otherwise. Therefore, the first and all the charges coming from the state Alliance are unauthorized and irregular, and is an attempt, we believe, on the part of the state organization to suppress the freedom of action of the individual membership.

4. We find, also, that the said Murray is a member of our lodge in good standing, and we therefore resent the insult of the state Alliance in the declaration that he is "no longer a member in good standing," which is totally unauthorized and without the authority of law. We recommend and insist upon an acquittal and an indorsement of his acts by this Alliance.

JNO. C. EASTERLING, Chairman
Committee on Good of the Order.

The report was adopted by the Alliance without a dissenting voice.

B. F. GILGER, President.

Cutting Affray—Mad-Dog.

Special to the Gazette.

HENRIETTA, CLAY COUNTY, TEX., Nov. 19.—Considerable excitement prevailed yesterday over a cutting affray. Mr. J. A. Frazier had prosecuted a man by the name of Harding for trespassing on his farm. It seems Harding thirsted for revenge, and with his son went on the war path. Meeting Mr. Frazier on the street they assaulted him with knives, cutting him about the head severely but not seriously. The would-be murderers languish behind the bars.

A mad-dog, after biting several persons, was killed on the streets this morning. It is thought that several dogs were bitten before the mad dog was killed, and as a consequence many of the canine family have bit the dust.
