A Novel Plan to Get Rid of Coyotes.

GIVE THEM THE MANGE

And Let Them Scratch Themselves to Death is the Plan.

What Caused the Demoralization at Chicago—Different Opinions Are Given. Notes and Personals From All Parts of the Range.

The telegram published in The Gazette yesterday from a Chicago commission house, instructing its Fort Worth representatives to ship no more cattle on account of demoralization in the market, was variously regarded by cattlemen in this city. One of them said to a Gazette representative that he was surprised at the weakness of the Chicago market, as it had all along been thought that the presence of so many thousands attending the fair would make an unusually active demand for beef. "It has generally been figured that Chicago will have 100,000 or more extra mouths to feed every day of the fair, and most of them would want beef," he said. "Receipts are not so extra large, yet the market is all to pieces. I have quit accounting for the vagaries of the cattle market."

Another said he would hold his cattle for a little while, and if the market showed no improvement, he would ship anyhow.

Why the market should have been thought demoralized is a question. The receipts of cattle at Chicago were but 4000 and the prices as shown in The Gazette's telegraphic livestock reports ranged from $3.15@3.85 for Texans. On the corresponding day in June last year the receipts were 16,000 and the prices were $2.90@5.70.

AN ERADICATOR.

A Plan to Rid the State of Noxious Wild Animals.

Dr. J. B. Taylor of San Angelo, vice-president of the Texas Livestock Raisers' association and also vice-president of the Texas Wool Growers' association, was in the city yesterday, having stopped over on his way to the Indian Territory. Dr. Taylor has given a great deal of thought to the extirpation of noxious wild animals, and believes that the problem is in a fair way of solution.

After speaking of the means that had been resorted to by the legislature for getting rid of wolves and the appropriation of $50,000 for that purpose, which was supplemented by a like amount from the counties, the total amount being exhausted without making any perceptible reduction in the number of the wolves, Dr. Taylor went on to tell of the new discovery.

J. C. Campbell of Del Rio, one of the biggest sheep raisers in the state and a man of more experience than most in that business, has long been trying to discover a method of exterminating wolves. Finally, by accident, he has hit upon a method that promises success. It is to give the wolves the mange. He believed could be propagated among all carnivorous animals. Mr. Campbell is an Australian and was in the sheep business there a long time, and knows what good results followed the extermination of wild animals in that country, which was brought about by means similar to this. Last summer Mr. Campbell discovered that the dogs in Encinal and La Salle counties were badly affected with mange and that their puppies died soon after birth on account of it. He immediately went to work, built a corral, got a lot of mangy dogs and instead of killing the wolves, as he had been doing, he put them alive in the corral with the dogs. He found out, by observing closely, that in a few days the wolves were thoroughly infected with the disease, but to make sure that this was the case, he kept them in the corral some weeks and then turned them loose. He has continued that practice all the winter and spring, so that by this time a large number of infected coyotes are running loose in Axl Verde county. There is good reason to believe, Dr. Taylor says, that the disease is spreading, as lately wolves have been killed fifty to 150 miles north of Campbell's ranch with this disease. In McMullen, La Salle and Encinal counties, where the mangy dogs were first found, reports are coming in that all the coyotes are diseased with the mange, which, no doubt, was communicated from the dogs which had the disease before Mr. Campbell began his experiments.

From the nature of this parasite it can readily be understood by those knowing the habits of wolves, that the disease can be easily propagated among them—not only among coyotes, but among the larger wolves, and probably among panthers as well.

At the state wool growers' convention in San Antonio Tuesday Mr. Campbell had a full-grown coyote, which had been in the corral with twenty or more coyotes and dogs for about two weeks. It was thoroughly infected with the disease, and Mr. Halbert, the new president of the association, has sent it to his ranch near Sonora, where he and his neighbors will at once start a propagating corral.

The wool growers' association strongly recommends that all stock and land men in the state go to work with them at once in giving a thorough trial to this plan of eradicating wild animals. Members of the association do not feel positive that the disease will effectually bring about that end, but nothing better is known.

"We all know," said Dr. Taylor, "that if we can drive wild animals out of this state, the value of grazing lands and all kinds of livestock will be increased enormously. We have this fact now staring us in the face, that henceforth wool will not bring to exceed 10 cents a pound, which is a reduction of 50 to 60 per cent, as we have to compete with countries on a free trade basis that have already got rid of their wild animals."

Dr. Taylor is strongly impressed with the experiment, and believes if the people will go in and establish peas in every county we will soon rid ourselves of the rygote. Mr. Campbell will soon be in a position to furnish infected animals to all who apply for them.

TROUBLE BREWING IN COLORADO

Sheep Men Said to Be Usurping the Rights of Ranchmen and Farmers.

Grand Junction, Col., June 7.—There is trouble brewing in the plateau country. The farmers and ranchmen who have taken up land and made their homes there are complaining bitterly of the sheep men, who have come into their hitherto peaceful community. The ranchmen say that they have at last homes all the stock the valley can stand and all there is range for. They had no difficulty in obtaining all the feed their stock needed until the sheepmen came in and overrun the valley. The men in sheepe are all heavily armed with revolvers and rifles and are said to care nothing for the rights of others, depending upon force to carry their point when it can not be done otherwise. Thirty-three thousand head of sheep are pasturing in that little valley and are eating the range down so close that the cattle are suffering. The sheep not only overrun the range, but are destroying the alfalfa of the ranchmen and running wild on their property. The situation is so strained that it would take but little to start a conflict which would lead to bloodshed. Both parties are expecting it and both parties are prepared. When it comes, if it comes at all, it will be short, sharp and decisive.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

J. H. Cage of Stephenville, a prominent cattleman, is in town.

E. L. Merrett and G. W. Walden, Territory cattlemen, were in town yesterday.

Chas. McFarland and Ed Farmer, two big cattle-feeders from Aledo, were in town on business yesterday.

Frank Lenz, a well-known cattleman, who was hurt in a railroad accident at Amarillo, and who was thought to be fatally injured, is now well on the way to recovery.

Wm. McIntosh, the Chill sheepraiser, has purchased from Webber & Brown, Augusta, Kas., 250 French Merino bucks for his sheep range in the Sandia mountains.

Receipts at Kansas City since Jan. 1 aggregate 534,558 cattle, 8,113 calves, 874,931 hogs and 508,724 sheep. Compared with 1892 the increase is 110,753 cattle, 2,280 calves, 36,089 sheep, and decrease of 270,044 hogs.

Four carloads of wool were shipped from Corpus Christi yesterday on the San Antonio and Aransas Pass road, consigned to Boston parties. Two of the cars being shipped by Colonel Hunnett and two by Mr. D. M. Murphy.

J. F. Newman, a cattleraiser from the Sweetwater neighborhood, met his Fort Worth friends yesterday. Mr. Newman says the rains have been good on the range for two or three weeks, and cattle are getting in good shape. There are not many steers going to market, but sheep are being shipped out in large numbers.

Superintendent A. J. Davidson of the Santa Fe railroad, has issued orders to the effect that trains arriving in Fort Worth with twelve cars of stock or more must not be burdened with other cars, except when loaded with perishable freight, then these shall be attached to the fast stock trains. He has given it out that all stock must be rushed through to their destination, and that these orders are imperative, and now effective.

Dr. J. B. Taylor, whose ranch is near San Angelo, tells The Gazette that cattle are doing better now than at any time for two or three years. Good rains have fallen and the range is fresh and green with succulent grass. The rains were light, however, which made shipments late, and the marketing is small, though the shipments are increasing. The range is not overcrowded and ranchmen do not care to ship heavily. Sheep are decreasing in numbers, on account of the depredations of wild animals. The shearing was heavier this year than ever before.

The cattle market the past week at Omaha has been about as unsatisfactory as could possibly be imagined, says the Bee. Prices for beef cattle have declined on an average fully 50 cents, and the movement has generally been over with sellers, natives and buyers of all classes, indifferent. The main reason, and about the only reason, for this condition of affairs, is the stringency in the money market. Slaughterers and exporters are compelled to restrict their operations as much as possible, and feeders, on account of lack of ready cash and inability to borrow, are forced to market their cattle in large numbers before they are ripe. This accounts for the present very liberal supplies.

PANHANDLE NEWS.

WONDERFUL YIELD OF WHEAT IN CLAY COUNTY.

A Paradise for Farmers—The County Settling up Rapidly—A New Railroad Connection with the Southwest.

W. H. Chilson of Henrietta was in Fort Worth recently, and to a Gazette reporter told some wonderful stories regarding the growth and prosperity of the Panhandle country. Referring to the wheat crop, Mr. Chilson said that in the vicinity of Henrietta it was estimated that the average yield would be from twelve to fifteen bushels to the acre. This is considered a very conservative estimate, and many of the larger farms it is thought will thresh twenty-five bushels. This magnificent yield is upon land which five years ago it was said was not worth $2.50 per acre. In Clay county there are at work now twelve steam threshing machines. Harvesting is generally over, and it is believed now wheat will be in the market this week. Mr. Chilson says that there is now in sight in Clay county nearly [illegible] bushels of wheat and there have been sold in the county this year 250 binders. As an indication of the rapid growth, the statement is made that 42,000 acres of new land was broken between November and March last. The class of immigrants who are fast filling up the country are the very best of farmers. They are not of the canvas-backed wagon variety, but are people who understand farming in all its branches and have plenty of money to establish themselves in a new country. A large number of German farmers are settling in Clay and adjoining counties, many of whom are from the vicinity of Des Moines, Ia.

Negotiations are now pending which, if successful, will result in a new line of railroad for Henrietta. The old grade of the Archer City, Henrietta and Southwestern railroad is intact and has been offered free to any company that will lay the track. It is believed the work will be completed before the snow falls.

ELECTRICIANS INDICTED.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 7.—The grand jury has returned true bills for conspiracy against C. A. Coffin, of Boston, president of the General Electric company; W. J. Clark of Lynn, Mass., manager of the railway department; Milton Hamilton of New York, W. Rice of Lynn and W. H. Knight of Boston, all of whom are officials of the General Electric company. True bills were also found against the superintendent and the foreman of electricity of this city for conspiracy, and against C. F. Cheesbrough, John Butler and Frank Carvy, former employes of the Westinghouse company, for conspiracy and larceny. It is alleged the defendants conspired to secure blue prints and tracings showing the design and construction of certain machinery of the Westinghouse company.

CYCLONE AT BRISTOL, VA.

Richmond, Va., June 7.—A destructive cyclone visited Bristol, in this state, doing much damage to property and killing two men, Major Chatwood and J. P. Reeder. Damage to property is $100,000.

DOWN WITH THE RECORDS.

If the horses will finish the speeding season as successfully as the steam engine has opened it, this year of grace, 1893, will mark a good many important smashings of the records. On land we have a New York Central engine doing a mile in thirty-two seconds, while on the Atlantic the new Cunarder has surpassed all performances on the eastward passage.

The public appreciation of high speed grows keener year by year, if Americans like sport, especially if the character of it is physical prowess; and in the form of regattas, land and marine, they have no reason to worry over the character of crooked work. Every time a record is broken the public is delighted. And there seems to be every prospect that this year will bring a great deal of experience of the kind to the residents of these United States.—Railway Times and Financial Register.

READ IT IN HIS PAPER.

People who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they promise. Jonathan Keaton of Rolan, Worth county, Ia., who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Fort Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up. He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad that he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it cured me. He got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. I have great faith in Pain Balm and believe it will cure the worst cases of rheumatism. 50 cent bottles for sale by N. E. Grammer and J. P. Nicks & Co., druggists.
