FINANCIAL.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Speculation on the stock exchange today was absolutely without feature. Of the shares which generally figure in daily transactions only one stock, whisky, reached ten thousand shares and the total sales footed up only fifty thousand. Fluctuations were mainly confined to fractions and only three of the active list exceeded the 1 per cent limit, whisky, General Electric and Northwestern moving with a radius of 1 1-4 per cent. The market closed firm.

A Fish Story.

Frank Vinson and others caught a 300 pound sturgeon at Asotin, Wash., and made the line fast to a young tree standing on the shore. Later, when they went to draw the big fish, they found it had escaped by pulling the tree up by the roots and taking over 60 feet of small rope along.

Origin of an English Custom.

Hanging, drawing and quartering were first inflicted in England on William Marise, a nobleman's son who had turned pirate.

Encouragement From a Wife.

Captain Magnus Andersen claims that but for his wife the Viking would not have been built, and he would not have sailed it across the Atlantic. Whenever he was discouraged and ready to abandon his plan her faith and enthusiasm, still unfaunted encouraged him to take up the plan again. Half a dozen times he gave it up, as many times she inspired him to begin again.

Mrs. Howe's Ready Wit.

The celebrated Mrs. Julia Ward Howe of Boston has a keen and ready wit, which does not appear in her serious and earnest platform speeches. There is an old Boston story of Mrs. Howe which we venture to say has never got into print. Before the days of late dinners and afternoon teas, she was supping one evening with a certain Boston family—father, mother and daughter—who, according to general belief, had such rich blue blood in their veins that it could only circulate very slowly. They were so excessively refined, so Bostonese, that the well springs of human sympathy were dried up within their bosoms. After Mrs. Howe had taken tea within this well bred, but chilly circle she went to the house of a friend and was observed crooning closely over the fire which burned on the hearth or possibly in the grate, for it was years ago.

"What makes you so cold?" asked her friend.

"Who wouldn't be?" replied Mrs. Howe, with a little snap. "Who wouldn't be after spending the evening with the Tete Noire, the Mer de Glace and the Jungfrau?"

The Tete Noir (Black Head), the name of a mountain in Switzerland, suggested the family name as well as the father's facial appearance. The Mer de Glace carried a double pun. It is the name of the great Swiss glacier, Sea of Ice, and so far as the pronunciation goes might be "mere de glace" or the "mother made of ice." The Jungfrau, or "young lady," is of course another icy peak in Switzerland. The Timely One does not know of any more elaborate or more adroit pun or set of puns in any language. And a woman was the author.—Taunton Gazette.

THE MARKETS.

ATWOOD VIOLETT & CO.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 7.—(Special.)—Atwood Violett & Co. say: Liverpool closed firm at an advance of 2-64 over the prices of yesterday. The markets on this side continue to show great steadiness and the undercurrent seems to favor still higher prices. The crop movement is of a smaller proportion than was expected and the producer has developed the ability to withhold shipments beyond expectation. Great interest centers in the bureau report of Tuesday next. While it is generally conceded that it will show a low condition, opinions vary as to the influence it will exert. Many maintain that it has been already discounted, while others think to the contrary and look for higher prices resultant from its publication. To facilitate comparison with previous years, we give the following data:

Year—1888-1889, acreage, 20,172; condition, 81.5; crop, 7,314. Year—1890-1891, acreage, 20,701; condition, 80; crop, 8,856. Year—1891-1892, acreage, 20,019; condition, 75.7; crop, 6,938. Year—1892-1893, acreage, 18,120; condition, 73.5; crop, 6,717.

We are nearing the average frost period for the cotton belt and the weather reports are watched very closely. Today's map shows warm weather and no early frost indications. Aside from demand and supply, the bureau and frost possibilities are at present the only prominent factors in shaping prices, and with these disposed of, the silver question will be the absorbing topic. Futures show a net gain of 5 points on the closing prices of yesterday. Our spot market is quoted firm, 1-16 advance. Sales 12,000 bales.

McELROY & COMPANY.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 7.—(Special.)—McElroy & Co. say:

Futures—Our expectation of a quiet market during the intervening period before the bureau is being realized. Liverpool closed firm 2-64 higher, with sales of 7000 bales. Our market opening advancing 9 points, closed at net gain of 6. Spots were in good demand at 1-16c advance, with sales of 2300 bales. Of course, the principal topic of thought and speculation is the probable effect of the bureau report to be published on Tuesday. We look at it in this light. On most occasions there is room for doubt whether the bureau will be favorable or unfavorable and in such cases brokers are well supplied with orders to buy or sell as the report may be bad or good.

In the present instance everybody is convinced that the figures will be decidedly unfavorable and instead of giving orders for execution based upon the condition, nearly everybody has bought cotton in the full conviction that it must be bad. The inference we draw is that after the report is published there will be few buying orders while those who bought in advance will be anxious to realize the profits which the late advance makes their contracts show. If there should be no further improvement the disappointment would have the effect of sending the longs to sell out and it can be readily understood that the bears will assist in any selling movement on the part of the longs. This is our reason for believing that a decline will follow the publication of the bureau and our reason also for advising our friends to take out their profits on Monday should any further improvement take place.

It is a most noticeable feature that spot cotton at 8 1-16 is selling higher than December futures.

A London letter received today, gives us some interesting news regarding the late activity in Manchester. The mills there are reported to have done a larger business with India during the past four weeks than during any like period of the last four years. This letter states that it is an open secret, however, that this large business has been done mainly on speculation in the expectation of a rise in exchange, which would make the silver rupee more valuable, and not on the usual trade basis of actual consumptive demand.

In regard to the Indian crop our correspondent reports it to be very good and cites as proof the free offerings of cotton from India to Liverpool during the late advance.
