GATHERING FOR BATTLE.

GOVERNMENT SHIPS CONGREGATING IN RIO HARBOR.

An Early Naval Battle is Looked for. English Ships Want to Escape Yellow Fever.

Associated Press.

Rio de Janeiro, March 5.—Extensive drilling with search lights tonight indicates that many ships are lying outside the harbor. It is thought that the insurgent fleet has at last arrived and that it will enter the harbor tomorrow at early hour. In that event an early battle between the opposing fleets is expected. The rebel ship Aquidaban is absent from the harbor and her movements are unknown. Seventy-four cases of yellow fever were reported today.

LATE RAILROAD NEWS.

THE KATY INJUNCTION SUIT.

Special Dispatch.

Houston, Tex., March 5.—Another chapter in the interminable litigation of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas and International and Great Northern over the leases and operation of the Galveston, Houston and Henderson railway was opened here in the United States court and bids fair to continue during the week. The Missouri, Kansas and Texas is applying for a preliminary injunction to restrain the International and Great Northern from hindering and obstructing the passage of the cars of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas over the Galveston, Houston and Henderson railway between here and Houston, as per contract entered into by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway and the Galveston, Houston and Henderson railway last July. This contract the International and Great Northern railway company had no authority to make on the ground that the International and Great Northern have a lease of the Galveston, Houston and Henderson railway for ninety-nine years, and that the stipulations of that lease give them exclusive control and right to operate the Galveston, Houston and Henderson railway. The validity of this lease is the main ground of contention. The officers of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway company for a preliminary injunction restraining the International and Great Northern railway from interfering with the passage of its trains over the Galveston, Houston and Henderson railway pending final hearing of the case on its merits. The entire day was consumed in reading and presenting in court all papers and documents in the case since the inception of the suit.

Interest is expected to begin tomorrow and as there is a strong array of talent engaged in the case the hearing will be of unusual interest. United States Circuit Judge McCormick and United States District Judge Bryant are hearing the case and seem inclined to give the attorneys full latitude to go into the matter at extreme, the outcome of which is watched with interest.

ALLISON'S PETTION DENIED.

Associated Press.

Austin, Tex., March 5.—Chairman Coldwell tonight handed down his decision denying the request of the Atchison for a boycott against the South-western on passenger business. After a hearing at length the causes of discrimination which have been published, the court says that the Atchison is entitled to relief under the association act, because the Southern Pacific has been guilty of such action as to render it subject to punishment under the association rules.

RAIN IN SOUTHERN TEXAS.

Associated Press.

San Antonio, Tex., March 5.—This place received with a two inch rain last night and reports from various points of the county today the rainfall general.

WHO WOULD NOT GO?

Could we but know
And that ends our dark, uncertain
Here in these happier hills and meadows
Beyond the spirit's utmost ken,
Oh if that country could we surely
Who would not go?

Might we but hear
Loving angels' high imagined chorus,
Or at intimes, with wakeful eyes and
Glimpses of the realm before us,
Or for one moment given to see and
Ah, who would fear?

Were we quite sure
Of the peerless friend who left us
Gone to some celestial stream as pure,
Love that here were love-lit
Not mortal coil were we quite sure,
Who would suffer?
—E. C. Stedman.

THE YOUNG TYRANT,

THE SCEPTRE IS A LITTLE BAUBLE THING,

Pen Sway Is More Powerful than That of the Great White Czar, but He Fears Not Bombs.

"Kid in the house may be a well-spring of joy," said the married man, "there are times when I'm forced to agree with the author of the sentiment.

"For instance, I've got a boy who insists on sleeping in his mother's room. He never comes near me after it is time to go to bed, and for six months I have been able to coax him into my room only three times. His crib is beside his mother's bed, and there he sticks night after night. I like to have the little fellow with me occasionally but he ignores my wishes.

"The other night I was detained at the office until late in the evening, and I was good and tired. I haven't been thoroughly jagged out in five years. I was all that I could do to pull my shoes off before I tumbled into bed. I had struck the pillow when I heard the patter of little bare feet in the hall. The door opened and that blessed child came in and announced that he was afraid to sleep that night. He climbed into bed, snuggled down close to my side and demanded that I tell him a story. I mumbled off some old story, and he kicked me in the shins and said that I should 'tell it right.' He insisted for the great big bear, the middle-sized mamma bear and the very little baby bear, and when I had told the story right with the bears and tell that story right over and over again fifteen times. If I fell asleep while relating the adventures of the bears he found a way to wake me up, and if I stopped talking he made me talk so that you could hear a block.

"For six months he refused to sleep with me, but on the night on which I was weaker than I ever was before you couldn't keep him out of bed with a club. Such experiences as those make married men sick for the joys of bachelorhood."

THE NEW SOUTH.

Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Wednesday matinee Mr. Joseph Grismer and Miss Phoebe Davies will appear at Greenwall's opera house in their great success, "The New South," of which the New York Herald says:

American dramatists have turned their attention to the South so much of late that it has come to be almost a foregone conclusion that each new drama will be located down in the land of Dixie. Messrs. Clay M. Greene and Joseph Grismer have not departed from the rule in placing the scenes of their new play, "The New South," which was produced for the first time in New York at the Broadway theater last evening. "The New South" will be a success. There was a large audience, a great deal of applause and several curtain calls, including one for the authors.

GOSSIP OF THE PLAYERS.

The Flying Ship is the title of a new and original spectacular novelty by Lottie Blair-Parker, author of "White Roses." The new play has a novelty in stage effect, introducing an air ship, which has never been used in a play heretofore.

The Wards-James company is the strongest and most reputable dramatic dramatic organization of its class. Both of the artists who appear at its head are representative Canadians, and today now stand higher in the esteem and admiration of the American public. Their engagements are always gratifying and instructive to the student of the legitimate drama, and their productions are in the highest sense artistic and enjoyable. Their reappearance will be anticipated with much pleasure.

THE SOUL'S DESTINY.

THEORY OF TRANSMIGRATION WELL ILLUSTRATAD.

A Good Story Told in the Back Parlor of John Chamberlin's Jovial Resort in Washington About a Dutchman.

If there is a good story born in Washington, it is a two-to-one shot that the cradle will be in the back parlors of John Chamberlin's. Dr. Edward Bellue came over from Philadelphia last night, saw the Post, and set therein entertaining a choice group of friends with tales of the far East. In the edge of the group sat a man from Pennsylvania, who had come over from Pottsville on some government contracting business. He was all ears and eagerness. His name was Strauss. Finally the restraint became too great and he broke loose.

"Doctor," said he, "vot is dot new religion I hears all about China? My wife has got it fery bad an I don'd understand it."

"Tell me the name," said Bellue. "Is it Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Shintoism, Taoism, Confucianism, or what?"

"No, it is no dose, but der name is like a tramp's migration of der soul, ain't it?"

"O, you doubtless mean transmigration of the soul."

"Yah, dat's it. You dell me apout dot."

Certainly, transmigration of the soul is a very pretty poetic doctrine of metempsychosis which our friends of the theosophical society have borrowed from the far East—

"Here, here, doctor, tell me vot dot means so I can understand vat you vas talking about."

"All right. I will tell you in plain language. Take yourself, for instance. You live to the allotted age of three score years and ten, and then you pass away. Your soul goes into the body of a bird—a canary, we'll say—and from your gilded cage you fill a lady's boudoir with melody, living a life of luxury and fed from the dainty fingers of beauty——"

"O, dat is beautiful, beautiful. I like dot."

"And then you die again and your soul goes into a lovely flower garden, and you fill the air with fragrance and delight the eye with you exquisite color and delicacy of petals——"

"Ah, dot is fine. I like dot relichun."

"As I was saying when you interrupted me, you live the life of a flower until one day a donkey gets into the garden, and, attracted by your loveliness, he eats you, and your soul passes into the donkey——"

"Yah, yah."

"When some former acquaintance of yours comes along, strokes your long ears and says: 'Why, Strauss, is it you? How little you have changed.'"

A YOUNG MAN WANTED TO DIE.

Special Dispatch.

Houston, Tex., March 5.—Tonight at about 10 o'clock John Meyers, a young stepson of John Roessler, took seven and a half grains of morphine with suicidal intent. Physicians will endeavor to save his life. No cause for his act can be divined.

NATURAL OBSTINACY.

"I believe I am naturally obstinate," said a woman recently. "The things I am expected to do I can't bear to do and am sure to leave till the last minute. I can't think what else it can be but obstinacy, and a natural disinclination to do the things that I have to do."

Natural obstinacy must be a common complaint. More than one person stands guilty to it. It is so much easier to do the things that are not forced upon us, and the general wear and tear in the former case are much greater. Surely the woman who has the greatest strength is to be envied, if one is to believe all that one hears. And the one who keeps up a round of going without a time for rest in between are the minority, few and far between.—Brooklyn Citizen.

TRAMPS AND DIFFUSION OF SMALLPOX.

London Lancet.

An interesting account of the spread of smallpox by vagrants in the county of Lancashire during the last two years has been given by the medical officer of health of that county. The disease, after spreading in Yorkshire during the early part of 1892, was introduced by vagrants into the borough of Warrington, and then distributed to Ashton-under-Lyne, Wittington, Gorstone and many other districts. In 1892-93 smallpox was on seventeen occasions introduced into the borough by vagrants, while Warrington was infected thirteen times in a similar manner. In the whole of the administrative county in 1892 612 cases of the disease broke out in twenty-eight districts, and in one-third of this number it was primarily introduced by tramps or frequenters of common lodging houses. Up to the end of last year 1093 cases had occurred in seventy-six districts, and of the total districts attacked during the last two years vagrants appear to have introduced the disease in 30 per cent. Frequently the disease first appeared in common lodging houses, and the other lodgers immediately left the house, thus spreading the disease. In some instances tramps suffering from smallpox have been found in public thoroughfares. It is urged that some further power of controlling vagrants is needed to prevent the distribution of smallpox throughout England.

FACTS ABOUT DISEASE GERMS.

The Strangest of the "True Fairy Tales" of Modern Science.

From Harper's Weekly.

Among the well known diseases whose bacterial origin is already placed beyond reasonable doubt are erysipelas, tuberculosis, diphteria, tetanus, typhoid fever, croupous pneumonia and influenza. The facts discovered regarding some of these during the past fifteen years are among the strangest of the "true fairy tales" of modern science. For example, the microscopic organisms of croupous pneumonia, as discovered by Dr. Sternberg, lurks in the mouth and is harmless there, awaiting, as it were, an opportunity when a condition of lowered vitality of the system, as from exposure to cold, shall enable it to take up its active abode in the lungs and begin a development whose results will be manifest in an inflammation of those organs. Again, it appears that the bacillus of tetanus, or lockjaw, is abundant everywhere in the soil and may reach us on the surface of vegetables or be taken into the stomach without injury. Even on the surface of an open wound it cannot develop, it being one of the bacteria that cannot grow in the presence of free oxygen. But if introduced into a deeper wound away from the air it may develop rapidly and produce the painful and often fatal disease tetanus. This is explained the fact, always before a mystery, that even slight and seemingly insignificant punctures wounds are more likely to produce this disease than are open lesions that otherwise are far more serious.

It is an interesting and highly suggestive fact, as showing the power of resistance of the human body under normal conditions, that a bacterium capable of producing such a disease as this may be so abundant all about us and yet so infrequently find an opportunity for malignant activity. But the same thing appears to be true in greater or less degree of all the other bacteria that may develop in the human body. Even when introduced into the body they are harmless, unless they find the conditions there favorable to their development. Thus there are probably very few persons who have not at one time or another inhaled the bacillus of tuberculosis or its spores, but the lungs of only the relatively few furnish a favorable soil for its development. These susceptible persons develop the disease. The others are said to be immune as regards this particular bacillus. But susceptibility and immunity are relative terms, and a person whose tissues at one time resist the microbe may at another time succumb to it. The exact nature of the "inherent vitality" which we are accustomed to speak of as giving the tissues power to resist the micro-organisms we understand as little as our ancestors understand the real cause of the contagious diseases. Perhaps the microscope will help to enlighten us in this regard in the next half century.

H. Walker, whose residence is unknown, to be and appear before the District court, to be holden in and for the county of Tarrant, at the courthouse thereof in the city of Fort Worth, on the second Monday in April A. D. 1894, the same being the 9th day of April A. D. 1894, the number being 6246, then and there to answer the petition of Wm. Walker, filed in said court, on the 17th day of December A. D. 1893, against the said H. W. Daniel, W. E. Sims, T. H. and J. E. Eggleston, A. G. Riley, W. S. Dancy, R. T. Fitzgerald, J. W. Burns, Adam Harder, T. Leagle, Albert Byers, C. O. Harris and J. M. Wiley, and alleging in substance as follows, to-wit: Suit on one note dated April 1, 1890, for $4673.33 13 due two years after date with interest at 10 per cent and alleges that defendant had to pay attorneys fees, if sued on or placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, executed and delivered to plaintiff by defendants T. H. and J. E. Eggleston, payable to the order of plaintiff at Mechanics National bank, Fort Worth, Texas, and secured by a vendor's lien and deed of trust on 7 31-100 acres of land being a part of the L. Moses survey in Tarrant county, Texas, said note is subject to credits, credits amounting to $2312.32. That said Eggleston divided said land into lots No. 1 to 36, and that plaintiff has released from said lien lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33 and 34, and the said Riley assumed the payment of the balance due on said note and also extended and delivered to Henry Lemmon his note for $250, which is a lien on said land but subject to plaintiff's lien; that said Riley said and conveyed all of said lots to defendants A. D. Martin, who assumed the payment of the balance due on said note, and that T. H. Eggleston sold and conveyed lot 28 to F. W. Burns and Adam Harder and that the same is subject to the lien of plaintiff; that J. E. Eggleston sold and conveyed to defendant H. W. Daniel lots 29 and 30 the same being subject to plaintiff's lien; that defendant Wiley is claiming some interest in said property adverse to plaintiff's lien. Plaintiff prays judgment for balance due on said note with interest and attorneys fees and for foreclosure of its lien on all of said property of 7 31-100 acres except said lots released by aforesaid as against all the defendants and for costs of suit.

Herein fail not, but have you then and there before said court this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

W. Dublet and W. E. Sims, whose residence is unknown, to be and appear before the District court, to be holden in and for the county of Tarrant, at the courthouse thereof, in the city of Fort Worth, on the second Monday in April A. D. 1894, the same being the 9th day of April A. D. 1894, the number being 6246, then and there to answer the petition of W. Glen Walker, filed in said court, on the 17th day of December A. D. 1893, against the said H. W. Daniel, W. E. Sims, T. H. and J. E. Eggleston, A. G. Riley, W. S. Dancy, R. T. Fitzgerald, J. W. Burns, Adam Harder, T. Leagle, Albert Byers, C. O. Harris and J. M. Wiley, and alleging in substance as follows, to-wit: Suit on one note dated April 1, 1890, for $4673.33 13 due two years after date with interest at 10 per cent and alleges that defendant had to pay attorneys fees, if sued on or placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, executed and delivered to plaintiff by defendants T. H. and J. E. Eggleston, payable to the order of plaintiff at Mechanics National bank, Fort Worth, Texas, and secured by a vendor's lien and deed of trust on 7 31-100 acres of land being a part of the L. Moses survey in Tarrant county, Texas, said note is subject to credits, credits amounting to $2312.32. That said Eggleston divided said land into lots No. 1 to 36, and that plaintiff has released from said lien lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33 and 34, and the said Riley assumed the payment of the balance due on said note and also extended and delivered to Henry Lemmon his note for $250, which is a lien on said land but subject to plaintiff's lien; that said Riley said and conveyed all of said lots to defendants A. D. Martin, who assumed the payment of the balance due on said note, and that T. H. Eggleston sold and conveyed lot 28 to F. W. Burns and Adam Harder and that the same is subject to the lien of plaintiff; that J. E. Eggleston sold and conveyed to defendant H. W. Daniel lots 29 and 30 the same being subject to plaintiff's lien; that defendant Wiley is claiming some interest in said property adverse to plaintiff's lien. Plaintiff prays judgment for balance due on said note with interest and attorneys fees and for foreclosure of its lien on all of said property of 7 31-100 acres except said lots released as aforesaid as against all the defendants and for costs of suit.

Herein fail not, but have you then and there before said court this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, R. H. McNATT, Clerk of the District Court of Tarrant County.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, in Fort Worth, this the 5th day of March A. D. 1894. R. H. McNATT,
Clerk District Court, Tarrant county, Texas.
(Seal) JNO. C. BRANUM, Deputy.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

In the District court, April term, A. D. 1894. To the sheriff or any constable of Tarrant county, greeting: You are hereby commanded, that by making publication of this citation in some newspaper published in the county of Tarrant, for four weeks previous to the return day hereof, you summon Frank Fields, whose residence is unknown, to be and appear before the District court, to be holden in and for the county of Tarrant, at the courthouse thereof, in the city of Fort Worth, on the second Monday in April A. D. 1894, the same being the 9th day of April A. D. 1894, the number being 6207, then and there to answer the petition of William Markwald, filed in said court on the 20th day of December A. D. 1893, against the said Frank Fields, C. M. and M. R. Scott, W. L. Kyle and Thomas Searry, and alleging in substance as follows, to-wit: Suit on four certain promissory notes dated February 25, 1890 with interest from maturity at 12 per cent per annum and 10 per cent attorney's fees if sued for collection, executed by defendant C. M. Scott, payable to the order of plaintiff in the city of Fort Worth, Texas, being one principal note in the sum of $625, due January 1, 1894, and three interest notes for $50 each, due one each, one January 1, 1892, 1893 and 1894, respectively, said notes are secured by a deed of trust executed by defendants C. M. and M. R. Scott to plaintiff on 47 1-4 acres of land situated in Tarrant county, Texas. That on April 20, 1891, J. M. and Reed Moody by deed conveyed said land to defendants Fields and Searry, and that assumed the payment of said notes and they are liable jointly to pay the debt due on the trial of this suit. That defendants Fields, Searry and Kyle have or claim to have some interest in said land, but that such claim is inferior to plaintiff's and subsequent and subject to plaintiff's said lien. Plaintiff prays judgment for his debt, interest, attorney's fees and costs of suit and for foreclosure of his said mortgage lien on the above described land and possession as against all the defendants.

Herein fail not, but have you then and there before said court this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.
