ISLAND CITY NEWS ITEMS

Bodies of the Victims of the Storm Are Still Being Found.

ELEVATOR B AGAIN IN WORKING ORDER

Smallpox Situation Is Beginning to Be Alarming—Mallory Company to Build a Big Shed.

Galveston, Texas, January 10.—Reports of the occasional finding of dead bodies of storm victims continue to come in from various points near the city, thus indicating that the work of burying the dead has not yet been finished. In several instances bodies have become exposed that have been buried in shallow graves near the beach. The recent rains have washed away the earth and portions of the bodies protrude. Five instances of this kind were reported yesterday.

Elevator B at Work.

Galveston, Texas, January 10.—Tuesday, for the first time in over three months, the engines were started up at elevator B. All the machinery was set in motion and the sound of the big wheels was a welcome change from the silence that has reigned at the plant since the storm, broken only by the hammers of the men engaged in repairing the elevator. The standing up of the machinery was merely to test the inside work already completed, for while the elevator is now in readiness to receive grain it is not likely that any will be accepted until the conveyor is finished, as until this is done the plant will not be in shape to make any shipments of grain. As a consequence it is hardly likely that announcement of its readiness to ship grain will be made before February.

Several weeks' work remains to be done before the conveyor will be ready to supplement the work of the elevator. It will be necessary to inclose the conveyor, which will likely be done this week, after which practically all that remains to be done will be to install the machinery.

The Smallpox Situation.

Galveston, Texas, January 10.—The people of Galveston are becoming considerably alarmed over the spread of the smallpox. A flag is up at a rooming house on Tremont and H, the doctors having diagnosed a case of smallpox there at 10 o'clock this morning. The sufferer from the disease is Miss Lola Seels. This is right in the heart of the city and the roomers were allowed to leave the house and seek other quarters. The vacators are about the busiest men in town today. Fifteen hundred vaccine points were received today by one druggist, and one doctor reports having vaccinated fifty persons last night after supper. The health department is having no trouble in inducing the people to become vaccinated and they are only too willing to submit to it to insure safety from the disease.

Conchi's Passenger List.

Galveston, Texas, January 10.—The Mallory steamship Concho is due to arrive next Saturday with the following list of cabin passengers: Mrs. F. B. Morton, San Antonio; P. S. Miller, San Antonio; W. C. Frederick, San Antonio, Miss L. Bevan, Los Angeles; Mr. C. Bevan, Los Angeles; Captain W. A. Ellis and wife, Los Angeles; Mr. E. E. White, Los Angeles; Mr. George May, Los Angeles; Mrs. L. Keeler, Monterey; C. Carlomica, Mexico; W. A. McClaren, Monterey; W. W. Hamilton, Albuquerque, and also fifty steerage passengers.

Mallory Line to Build a Big Shed.

Galveston, Texas, January 10.—The Mallory Steamship company will in a few days advertise for bids for the construction of a shed on their leased property at the wharf, which, when completed, will be one of the largest sheds in Galveston. It will cover a space of 200,000 square feet and cost about $300,000. Their old building was damaged to the extent of about $25,000, but this constituted only a portion of the loss that the company suffered by the storm, as the interruption of traffic for the month succeeding the storm caused considerable loss, and the steamship Alamo was grounded north of the channel, necessitating the expense of having her floated.

The Death Roll.

Galveston, Texas, January 10.—The funeral of Mrs. Agnes Waters, wife of Special Officer George Waters of the police department, took place at 10 o'clock this morning from Levy's undertaking establishment. The deceased had been ill ever since the storm, and her death, which took place yesterday morning at Sealy hospital, was not unexpected.

At 11 o'clock this morning J. H. Keaghey, an old and well known cotton weigher, expired at his residence on Avenue K between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets. The funeral will occur tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the late residence of deceased.

SECRETARY OF STATE REPORT

SOME PECULIAR LEGISLATION IS POINTED OUT.

Foreign Corporations Have an Advantage Over Those Which Have Their Homes in the State.

Austin, Texas, January 9.—Secretary of State Hardy's report to the governor made its appearance today. Among other things it contains a statement showing a very extraordinary increase in the receipts of his department since January 1, 1899, over that of the most preceding two years, or any other period of two years. The increase consists chiefly of two items, to-wit: franchise taxes collected and the charter and permit fees.

In the statement of finances, the items of trade mark and railroad leases are included in the items of certified copies and certificates.

The receipts of his office since January 17, 1899, to December 31, 1900, inclusive of both, were twenty-three and one-half months, are $294,642.41, being an excess of $117,653.34 over the receipts for the preceding period of twenty-five months, to-wit: from December 1, 1896, to January 1, 1899. The total receipts from January 1, 1899, to December 31, 1900, were $293,161.49, whereas the receipts for the preceding twenty-five months were $176,989.07.

The records of the department show that for the period from January 17, 1899, to December 31, 1900, pardons had been granted in 798 felony cases, including in this number 415 restorations to citizenship, some of which were granted after the expiration of terms of imprisonment; that there were granted remissions of fines, imprisonment penalties and forfeitures in 145 cases, and commutations of death sentences in four cases.

Mr. Hardy calls attention to the peculiar condition of the statute with reference to charter fees and franchise taxes, drawing a comparison between those laid upon domestic and those laid upon foreign corporations.

He says: Article 2439 of the Revised Statutes on domestic corporations, for profit, provides a filing fee absolute of $25, and in addition to this, $5 for each $10,000 or fractional part thereof, above the first $10,000, and nowhere places a limit on the maximum filing fee. The same article on foreign corporations fixes a fee of $25 on capital stock of $100,000 or less, and a fee of $50 on a capital stock of more than $100,000 and less than $500,000, and on $500,000 and less than $1,000,000 a fee of $100, and if it exceeds $1,000,000 a fee of $200. This is a maximum filing fee on foreign corporations. It will be easily seen, therefore, that this article discriminates against domestic corporations on the point of charges made for filing fees. As for instance, a foreign corporation with a capital stock of $2,000,000 would have to pay a filing fee of $200, while a domestic corporation with a capital stock of $2,000,000 would have to pay a filing fee of $1025. Illustrating with smaller capital, a foreign corporation with a capital stock of $200,000 would have to pay a filing fee of $50, whereas a domestic corporation with a capital stock of $200,000 would have to pay a filing fee of $125. It occurs to me that this inequality that ought to be remedied. It is not believed that it was ever the intention of the lawmakers of the state to facilitate the operation of larger amounts of capital in this state by foreign corporations than by domestic ones, and while upon this subject it might be possible to call your attention to the equality of the franchise taxes paid by domestic corporations and foreign corporations. Article 5246, as amended by the Twenty-Fifth legislature, provides a minimum franchise tax on domestic corporations of $50, whereas upon foreign corporations the franchise tax is graded according to the capital stock. It occurs to me that the rule applied to foreign corporations could be likewise equitably applied to domestic corporations on franchise taxes. I feel quite satisfied that such changes in this statute would not only be more just to the industries in the State conducted by corporations, but would also be beneficial to the State's revenues arising from this source.

Several instances are pointed out wherein foreign corporations have the advantage of domestic concerns, and amendments to the statutes are suggested.

Attention is called to the fact that there is no time set by law for the holding of elections for State and county officers.

On the subject of the anti-trust law the report says:

Section 8 of the anti-trust law is the chief section that has reference to the duties of the secretary of state, and contains the form of what is known as the anti-trust affidavit. That portion of the section next after the affidavit proceeds to direct the secretary of state upon the failure of the corporation to comply with the statute, to certify to the prosecuting attorney of the district or county wherein said "corporation is located," etc.; then it proceeds to prescribe the duty of the prosecuting attorney. With this latter feature, as to the duty of the attorney, of course I am not officially concerned, and presume to make no suggestion, but call attention to the fact that there is nothing in all of our statutes that shows in what district or county a foreign corporation operating in the State under its permit "is located." Therefore, there is no direction to the secretary of state as to how he shall certify the failure of foreign corporations to comply with this act. As a matter of practice, simply as the best I could do, I have certified these facts as to foreign corporations to the attorney general himself.

Again, I call attention to the fact that section 8 makes it the duty of the secretary of state to address to an officer named in of each incorporated company doing business in this State a letter of inquiry as to whether the said corporation has all or any part of its business or interest in or with any trust, combination or association of persons or stockholders, as named in the preceding provision of this act, and to require an answer under oath of the president, secretary or treasurer or any director of said company. A form of affidavit shall be inclosed in said letter of inquiry as follows," etc. Here then follows the anti-trust affidavit. It will be noted that the provision of section 8 quoted, preceding the affidavit, does not say that such letter of the secretary of state shall require said officer of the corporation to make oath in the language of that affidavit, and the first line of section 8, after the conclusion of the affidavit uses this language: "And on refusal to make oath in answer to said inquiry," etc. The point is that the statute does not explicitly require the given corporation to take the oath prescribed in the blank form. The question has therefore arisen: suppose one of the officers named in the statute of a corporation should simply send to the secretary of state within thirty days after the making of his inquiry an answer, simply saying, for example:

"In answer to the said letter, I say that the corporation (naming it) has done none of the things prohibited in the anti-trust act of May 25, 1899" (or any other simple words to similar effect, and should swear to it).

It occurs to me that that portion of section 8 preceding the affidavit, and that portion following it, falls to certainly fix upon such president, secretary, treasurer or director of a company the necessity of making such oath as is prescribed in the blank form of affidavit quoted in said section 8.

Many prominent citizens and lawyers who heard the trial in December are of the opinion that unless the government can get much stronger evidence than has been introduced it will be useless to again call the cases.
