VIRGINIA VICTRIX!

HER PEOPLE ASSERT THEIR MANHOOD,

And Signally Rebuke Treachery, Unscrupulousness and Corruption.

HEAR OUR ROOSTER CROW

Over a Democratic Majority of Not Less Than 25,000.

The Viper of Appomattox Will Never Again Be Warmed Into Life.

BOODLE CANNOT CARRY ELECTIONS IN THE OLD DOMINION

Nor Can Virginians be Bought by Promise of Place.

BILLY BADLY BOTTLED UP,

AND THE CORK IS IN SO TIGHT THAT IT CANNOT COME OUT.

OLD VIRGINIA NEVER TIRE.

"Despite his titles, power and pelf,
The wretch concentred all in self,
Living shall forfeit fair renown,
And, doubly dying, shall go down
To the dust from whence he sprung,
Unwept, unhonored and unsung."

The battle has been fought and won and Richmond rejoices.

The white men of the citadel of Democracy in the State of Virginia are in the saddle, and they mean to keep their seats.

The cause of good government is safe, and a happier set of men cannot be found within the borders of the State. There were no long faces in the Democratic ranks last night, and there was a proportionate "allgoneness" in the looks of the men who consorted with the negroes in the detestable attempt made by Mahone to sell the State and debase the people by a trade with her enemies.

Nerved by the patriotic desire to preserve her proud history and protect her institutions from the hands of her ravisher, our people became fired by an energy and enthusiasm that has not been warranted by the issues of any campaign since the days of Walker. They saw the dark impending cloud hanging over our city ready to burst and pour its destructive contents upon our people.

They determined to rise in their might and do all in their power to prevent such a dire catastrophe, and the result is shown in the returns published below. There never has been known in the history of the city a braver response to the call of duty. Riparian bickerings ceased; local animosities were forgotten, and the hosts of Democracy, marshaled by determined leaders, buckled on their armor and went to work with a will that knew no thought but success, and acknowledged no labor too arduous to be undertaken in the accomplishment of an end so devoutly to be wished.

An unscrupulous foe had to be met, a foe man enough to trump up frivolous charges against judges of election, arrest them for alleged offenses committed a year ago, and drag them before United States marshals; a foe that descended to the use of tissue-ballots to carry their points; a foe that right here in the city of Richmond had leaders that went so far in their incendiary speeches as to threaten bloodshed, and cause the peace-loving officials of the city to take armed measures as a precaution against a violation of law and the disturbance of the peace.

Through all these breakers and dangers the Democratic ship has been guided by hands so steady, and piloted by eyes so keen, that she has been landed safely in the harbor of success, without any outbreak or violent breach of good order.

And all this done with the weapons of truth and justice. A brave fight has ended with a glorious victory.

RUMORS RIFE.

Early yesterday morning, the usual campaign liar commenced his work, and a rumor reached Captain Angle, of the Second police station, that a body of military from Washington had arrived in the city. He got in a buggy and went down to the depot, to find, just as he expected, that there was no foundation for the report. Later on it was reported that a row had broken out in Jackson ward, and this too, was untrue. At night an excitement was caused by the report that a mob had attacked the precinct at shoemaker's, and were attempting to steal the ballot-box, and that twenty-five policemen had gone to the scene. Mounted on a fleet horse, the TIMES reporter went out, to find all quiet. There were divers and sundry rumors, equally unfounded, that exploded upon investigation.

ARRESTS MADE.

There were several arrests made during the day on both sides. Mr. Preston Belvin, Henry M. Smith, Jr., and James R. Branch were arrested at First precinct in Jackson ward by a warrant sworn out by a negro magistrate for interfering in the election, but it appearing that they were simply discharging their duty, they were at once released.

ELECTION INCIDENTS.

Mr. B. Taylor McCue was arrested yesterday morning, at Joges' precinct, on the Brook turnpike, for threatening the judges of election.

The arrest was made under the following provision of the Code:

Section 145. Disturbance of election; how prevented.—If any person conduct himself in a noisy, riotous, or tumultuous manner, at or about the polls, so as to disturb the election, or insult or abuse a judge or a clerk of election, the constable, or any other person authorized to make arrests, may forwith arrest him and bring him before the judges of the election, and they, by warrant under their hands, may commit him to the jail of the county or corporation for not exceeding twenty-four hours; but they shall permit him to vote if he be so entitled.

The judges, though, were kind to McCue, and got a magistrate, Mr. R. E. Tiller, to issue the mittemus sending the prisoner to the jail at the County Courthouse. This gave him the chance to get out by being bailed by another magistrate, of which opportunity he availed himself.

At the different precincts, particularly in Jackson Ward, a wagon brought to each a number of baskets of sandwiches. The baskets received at Fourth Jackson bore a card on which were the words: "The compliments of Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee to the Democratic workers at Fourth Precinct, Jackson Ward," and similar compliments to the others.

Among the most unique features of yesterday's fight in the city was the manner in which fraudulent voters were dealt with in Jackson ward.

An old darkey would come up to the voting place and announce his name, probably a fictitious name, he was told that he was dead. An astounding statement truly to a man standing alive in the full possession of his senses! "Yes, uncle, Sam Johnson is dead and his name was stricken off the books, so you can't play your little game here."

"But look yer, Boss," the old negro would rejoin, "how de debbil is I dead, if I is standin' right yer now?"

This argument did not prove, however, that Sam Johnson was not dead, and the old fellow, unable to prove his identity, would have to leave without casting his ballot.

The truth of the matter would be in such cases that the man was really dead, and another negro, not knowing that the books had been purged of impossible voters, would attempt to cast the vote for him, and then go to his own precinct and put in another ballot for himself.

Richmond never saw a more quiet election or better order in the streets. And when it is considered the interests at stake, the energy with which both sides were fighting, and the expected outbreaks, it is all the more remarkable. Only two or three men were arrested for being drunk and disorderly, while the average daily arrests for inebriety is between twelve and fifteen. The bulk of the arrests was for attempting to illegally vote.

It is actually a fact that many ladies were afraid to come on the streets yesterday, believing from all that had been predicted, that there would be trouble from the negroes.

But the city was in fact more orderly than it is usually. Much credit is due to the efficiency of the police for this.

READING THE RETURNS.

In order to gratify the anxiety of the public, the TIMES had complete arrangements for the display of the returns upon a large canvass by means of a powerful oxy-hydrogen calcium lantern, under the skillful manipulation of Professor W. C. Taylor. Thousands of Democrats had their hearts delighted as they read the good news that rained into the TIMES office (in which a private wire had been run), and was quickly transferred to the canvass. Cheer after cheer went up from the throng, and the TIMES felt more than rewarded for its spirit of enterprise in looking out upon the sea of happy faces that were upturned in front of its office. The arrangements made for the reception of the news were of such a complete character that they placed the paper foremost as a depot of news from all quarters of the State. They were perfected regardless of expense and with an eye single to reliability and correctness. When the proud majority of 5,475 for the Democrats of Richmond danced on the canvass, a wild shout went up from the crowd.

Where all have done so much it is only necessary to say to all, Well done! Richmond is proud of her Democracy. Foster that pride, and remember the party.

Below the full vote of the city is given:
