NOTICE.

I HEREBY notify all persons not to trade for or take an assignment upon a note executed by me to B. Ryan, about the 12th or 13th of January, 1841, for three hundred dollars, due about the third day of January next. Said note was obtained from me by fraud, and I am determined not to pay the same unless compelled by law. At the time I executed said note to said Ryan, I was in the habit of having [illegible] for me, but I was deceived in my agent, and I was induced to sign the note under the impression that it was a receipt. I therefore warn all persons not to trade for this last mentioned note, and I hope every person will do so, as I am not to pay the order in any person but myself.
