NEWS FROM THE SCHOOLS

The high school, the normal class and grades seven and eight had the pleasure yesterday afternoon of hearing a most interesting address from Mrs. Hugh H. Brown on Ancient Greece. The picture was given in the assembly room and filled a most pleasant and profitable hour.

Mrs. Brown avoided the time-worn phase of Greek political and military supremacy, and took as her theme the intellectual superiority and influence of the Greeks. The discussion was made more valuable by the use of a large number of pictures taken in and near Athens, scenes which the speaker has herself visited. The most striking picture of all was a superb painting of the famous acropolis. The address was much appreciated and warmly applauded by students and visitors.

Now that the basket ball season is over for the boys, they have turned with enthusiasm to outdoor sports, track work and baseball. The students in the manual training department are making hurdles and other paraphernalia for the track team, serving thus a double purpose, providing at cost articles needed by the athletes and saving valuable instruction in the use of tools.

Two musical plays have been or depart. It is the intention of the music teacher to select the better play and train rehearsals soon for presentation this spring.

Tonight's basket ball games will close the season at home. The girls team has still one game to play at Yerington this month.

It is planned to have the high school coming issue of the "Prospector" out about March 16. For the first time in two years the pages will be enlivened by cuts, a picture of the building and several cartoons. The literary material is already finished and nearly ready for the press.

The number of cases of pinkeye and chickenpox has greatly decreased. As fast as new cases develop they are referred promptly to the health officer for attention and advice. A few pupils have, by Dr. Richards' advice, been sent home during the week, while others have been allowed to return to school.

Los Angeles papers are telling young men to stay east and freeze up with the country. An exchange remarks that there is not much choice between that and hanging to the tree-tops in Los Angeles till the floods go by.
