SEN. NEWBERRY TRIAL ON AT GRAND RAPIDS

(By Associated Press)

GRAND RAPIDS, Jan. 27.—United States Senator Truman Newberry and 134 men prominent in Michigan politics went on trial in the federal court today charged with conspiracy in the 1918 senatorial election.

Senator Newberry and associates were charged with corruption, fraud and conspiracy by the federal grand jury which investigated the senatorial election of 1918. When the indictments were returned November 30 last United States District Judge C. W. Sessions, who assembled the jury, indicated that evidence obtained by the inquisitors showed that between $500,000 and $1,000,000 had been expended fraudulently in connection with the election.

The conclusions of the grand jury were embodied in two blanket indictments. They charged violation of both federal and state laws by secret sums of money far in excess of legitimate expenses in the campaign and violation of the federal corrupt practices act, which penalizes payment of money to voters in the mails "to defraud all the people of Michigan" was further charged against the campaign committee. More than $100,000 of the contributed fund, it charged, was converted to the personal use of some of the campaign managers.

James S. Helme, former state dairy and food commissioner, who opposed Henry Ford for the democratic nomination in the senatorial primary, another clause of the indictment alleged, was compensated by the Newberry organization for aiding the primary race. The alleged purpose was to prevent democratic voters from "lining up" with Ford in the republican primary.

Attached to the indictments was a list of more than two score "overt acts." These contained charges that a number of those indicted had been rewarded ranging from promises of a "good job" to payments of cash ranging from $5 to $2,750 in return for support in the Newberry campaign. One country editor was alleged to have received a "free ride" paper.

The grand jury investigation was conducted by Frank F. Dailey of Indianapolis, former United States district attorney for Indiana. It was ordered by the department of justice October 1, and was based, it was announced, on complaints filed with the department and also published charges of fraud and corruption made by Lieutenant Governor Dickman of Michigan and others.

Senator Newberry and thirteen of the men who directed the campaign back in 1918 appeared before Judge Sessions December 8 and on the advice of counsel stood mute. This was done, it was explained, that the validity of the indictments might be challenged later, should it be decided to attack them. The right to raise technical questions, it was stated, would have been sacrificed by pleas of not guilty. Senator Newberry and each of the thirteen men who appeared with him were held in bonds of $10,000 and $5,000 on the first and second indictments, respectively.

The maximum penalty for the offense charged, is a fine of $10,000 and two years imprisonment.

TERMS OF AGREEMENT MAY BE GIVEN PUBLIC

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The fate of the compromise negotiations on the peace treaty remained in doubt today after the bipartisan conference had long discussed without decision the refusal of the republicans to compromise on Article X. Another meeting will be held Thursday. Democratic leaders, replying to a public affirmation regarding Article X did not present a definite refusal to proceed with negotiations but expressed great surprise, declaring that the Article X compromise had already been assented to by most members of the conference" hours the republicans served notice that they did not agree to the compromise. Under the proposed compromise to be made public by Senator Hitchcock the senate would declare by reservation that the United States could not employ an economic boycott or its armed forces to preserve the territorial integrity of any other country unless congress acted in each specific case.

After the meeting which developed some heated discussions, some senators on both sides professed to see a hope that a compromise might yet be reached. The general attitude of the conferees, however, was not one of optimism.

PIONEER OF OIL MAKES FORECAST

Charles T. Ludlow, the famous oil engineer to whose efforts and to enthusiasm the state is indebted for the beginning of the oil drilling movement, believes the first district in which results will be obtained is the Fallon field. He bases his belief on that production on the ground that Fallon was the pioneer of the movement.

The Fallon Gas & Oil company has drilled to 400 feet and would go much deeper had it not been for the set back which the company experienced with drill casings and delayed deliveries. However, I look for some indications of oil in the next sixty days," said Mr. Gardner. "With everything running smoothly a drill should make 12 to 20 feet a day. In the shale overlying the sandstone at 400 feet they may get a strong escape but the first sandstone will be in the first sandstone at 1,200 to 1,400 feet. The oil bearing sands cannot be expected at less than 2,500 feet but long before that depth we may get gas, as I figure there is a very heavy gas formation in the Fallon basin."

The district employes over forty men and is engaged in drilling operations connected with the oil business and Mr. Ludlow looks for a rapid increase in that number. The Silver State company has a standard rig in place and expect to spud in in ten days. A lease consisting fresh from the southern oil fields, backed by experts of the Standard Oil company of New York, one of the greatest oil firms operating in Texas has an option on a large acreage covering extensively the way to the Fallon field. Two holders, one 50 and the other 80 acres form part of the machinery which will be disposed between two companies, one at Stillwater and the other at Salt Wells. At present 12 companies have been incorporated for the Fallon field and six rigs are operating.
