MIDLAND TRAIL BEST IN STATE

Unusual at this season of the year is the accessibility to automobile of the country traversed by the Midland trail between Tonopah and Los Angeles, according to a report from the south in the hands of Miss Carmen Jewett, secretary of the Nevada Automobile association. Describing conditions after the recent storms, the report says:

"A few motorists drove over the Midland trail between Tonopah and Los Angeles and reported that the road was not blocked with snow or mud at any point. Even Westgard pass, located between Big Pine and Goldfield, which attains an elevation of 7,500 feet, was passable immediately after the storm, although reported to be muddy.

"The storm did not materially damage the roads across the other two passes between Big Pine and Goldfield and the entire route is open to Ely. The roads from Bishop north to Mono lake and Reno are not passable on account of snow in the higher altitudes."

MANY CLAIMS FOR REWARDS OFFERED

There are many claimants for the reward money offered by the government and the [illegible] company, as the governor's office has already received a number of applications for the money as a result of the murder of St. Clair.

In one instance an attorney filed a claim for the fireman on the engine who advised Young Bell to go to the sheriff and give himself up. This claim sets up that this advice being followed, resulted in the capture of the other bandit, the real murderer. It is further stated that the locomotive fireman was unable to personally conduct the bandit to the sheriff's office, being on duty.

In another claim the governor's office is advised that the sheriff and deputy of White Pine county should be granted the state reward, they making the arrest. In this case it is doubtful as but a short time ago the attorney general ruled in the Hardy case that a peace officer was not entitled to state reward as he was fulfilling elective duties.

In all instances the claimants have been advised that attorneys are not necessary to present claims as the matter is to be adjusted to the right parties. All claims and there will be plenty of them will be sifted down to the real parties who should receive the state's money. —Reno Appeal.

DID NOT SIGN PETITION FOR PAROLE OF FULCHER

To The Tonopah Bonanza: I have just noted in your issue of February 28, in the communication in reference to the parole of one D. W. Fulcher, who was convicted for check forgery, that the writer states that "the trial judge, prosecuting witness, and others signed a petition for parole."

As I am the one who signed the complaint, this would indicate that I had signed the petition. I did not sign any petition and this statement is not true.

L. W. HORTON,
Asst. Cashier First National Bank.

Two complaints were filed. One by S. A. Liddell charged Fulcher with stealing an automobile. The other by Lloyd W. Horton, alleged forgery.—Ed.

EUGENE O'BRIEN AT BUTLER TONIGHT.

"The Broken Melody," Eugene O'Brien's latest picture, will be the featured attraction at the Butler tonight. It is a charming study of two artistic temperaments—Stewart Grant, a painter, and Hedda Dana, a singer, who came together through diverging ambitions for worldly greatness, and separate for a period while each go their roads that lead to game. But love eventually unites them, both wiser but no sadder because they find that the fame they have won apart may be shared together. Action in "The Broken Melody" varies between Europe and America, beginning in the famous section of old New York known as Greenwich Village, from thence to Europe and back again to America. It is a simple love story done with charm and distinction, and should appeal to all lovers of good drama. It was written by Ouida Bergere and directed by William P. S. Earle, and the star has been given a notable supporting cast. Added to the feature will be the latest Pathe News. Tomorrow, Wallace Reid in "You're Fired," and a Bray Pictograph.

NEVADAN DIES ON COAST.

George Lyman Dealy, who was born in Carson City and lived for many years in Reno, died of chronic appendicitis at the Alta Bates hospital, Berkeley, on Monday evening. He was about 45 years old.

Mr. Dealy came to Reno about 1880 with his parents who carried on the Lake House for several years.
