TONOPAH IN HISTORICAL COLLECTION

RENO, July 10. The Nevada State Historical society has received a large number of photographs from Mrs. M. L. Shelley which are of historic interest being scenes in numerous old mining camps especially Virginia City, Aurora, Goldfield and Tonopah. One Tonopah scene was evidently taken on the Fourth of July as all the buildings are decorated with flags, shows a float enclosed by a tiny corral in the street, the top front decorated with flags and bunting and bearing a sign "Butler's Dance, Tonopah." Standing near the base of the float is a dance wagon with a canopy roof on which is painted the inscription that Mr. and Mrs. Knight Tonopah.

There is a picture of what was said to be the oldest house in Nevada at the time the photograph was taken. It was the old house in Genoa and is said to have been built in 1857 by John Reese and George Kinsley Mormons from Salt Lake City and used as a trading station and stockade, being surrounded by a barricade 15 feet high for protection against the Indians.

There is a photograph of the old Rock, in the Rye Patch, Old Get Man On Earth, near the County Farm, Pershing, resident of Lovelock, not name is given.

There is also a picture of "The Old Rat of Gold Mountain," sitting in front of his candle stone hut. It is probable that this man was a noted character in his day and will be remembered by many oldtimers who were in that section when he was living.

A parchment certificate of Louis W. Markley has been received by the society. It was sent by Clarence Markley son of the famous miner to Donald Warren, editor of the 1920 Nevadan, and the etching was presented to Mr. Warren for the Historical society. The information came from Clarence H. Markley that the original steel engraving from which the etching was produced was made during the gaiety days of the Comstock at a cost of $1,000. The etching is 18x24 inches and is in good state of preservation.

Secretary Hamilton's hat is now the property of the society having been presented to that institution by Charley Bull, who grabbed it when it was knocked from the head of the owner by George Springmeyer during President Wilson's visit to Reno some months ago. Just some will may not be familiar with the story may gain a wrong impression as to Springmeyer's intent. It should be noted that the secretary wore the only straw hat in the parade on a very cold day and as the train was pulling out Mr. Springmeyer in a spirit of fun knocked the straw hat from Mr. Hamilton's head and grabbed a felt hat and put it on the secretary's head. Charley Bull grabbed the hat as it rolled to the ground and kept it until he presented it to the Historical society.

Two small souvenirs recently given to the society by W. H. S. Hempton are a piece of pink mineral deposit from one of the geysers in New Zealand, and a button from a soldier's uniform found in a redoubt at Pokeno, 40 miles south of Auckland, presumed to have belonged to the 14th Waterloo regiment, which served in India and the Maori war.

DAINTY LILA LEE AT THE BUTLER TODAY

The producers of "A Daughter of the Wolf," Lila Lee's latest Paramount Artcraft, which will be exhibited at the Butler theatre today pronounce it the greatest achievement of her career as a motion picture star.

The story is unique and furnishes the delightful little star with one of the best vehicles yet afforded her for the display of her talents. In the role of the little child of the Great North Woods, she is said to be excellent and gives a vivid and true-to-life portrayal. The story itself abounds in thrills, fights and gripping situations and depicts the adventures of the little daughter of a rough fur smuggler known as Wolf Ainsworth. She goes with him to the city across the border where he disposes of his furs, and there she falls in love with a rich young man. Their fateful separation, his search for her and the events leading up to their meeting, how her father and his gang who suspect the lover is a "revenooer" are just on the point of killing him when the revenue officers break in upon them, the thrilling fight and capture of the gang vividly enacted by the star and splendid cast makes this picture well worth seeing. Included in the program is the world's greatest comedy, comedian, Larr Semon in "The Fly Cop," the funniest comedy you ever saw.

Tomorrow "The Summer Girl in Pictures," Marguerite Clark in "Easy to Get." Said to be the best picture Miss Clark has turned out in a long time. The cast includes Harrison Ford as leading man. Also Ruth Roland in "The Adventures of Ruth."

Dont forget the big five-reel Mack Sennett Supercomedy "Down on the Farm," Monday.
