NO WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC IN HAITI

By Associated Press

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 26. AMUSEMENTS

"THE FURNACE" AT THE BUTLER TODAY

A careless jest uttered by the giddiest girl in London, a swift-dapping suspicion in the heart of her lover, a religious wedding, the like of which London society had rarely seen, and then "You are my wife in name only, because I know that you married me only for my money. Oh, you have my name now, and you shall have plenty of money so long as you behave yourself. BUT I DON'T WANT ANYTHING TO DO WITH YOU." A nice outlook for a happy married life, one would think. Small wonder that Polly, the adoring little actress, should plunge into a high whirl of love, gaiety, but underneath all her carelessness burned a fire in her wounded heart, whose suspicion still smouldered in her. That was the situation that faced their married life, a veritable hell of misunderstanding. It all was consumed then, phoenix of love, finding happiness together, but how came through the flames, at last, "The Furnace," a master photo-play, a [illegible] special production, [illegible] at the Butler today. [illegible] William D. Taylor, the director of the Paramount production of the Butler today. [illegible] to the program will be a Pathe Weekly and a Pathe Review, [illegible] a comedy program.

BOTTLES FLEW IN REAL OLD FASHION

There were high jinks in the restricted part of town last night. There had assembled a number of men from the mines of the district, which a number of others who on the strike happened down, that were a [illegible] leading to the bar, once became a congested condition and a bartender called "Curley" upon to dispense the seven cheers. The men did not move fast enough so "Curley" proceeded to get busy and reappeared upon the scene with a couple of beer bottles. One he hurled at a Mexican with great force, but the missile missed its objective. Before he could hurl the other he was nailed by Chief of Police Cochran, who instructed him to report before Justice Cuddy at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

"Curley," whose name is Poland, was fined $10 by Justice Cuddy this afternoon, when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

BALLOTING ON IRRIGATION OF HUGE ACREAGE

By Associated Press

MADERA, Cal., July 26.—A proposal to bond the Madera irrigation district for $28,000,000 to provide irrigation for 400,000 acres or more of fertile valley land in Madera county is being balloted on by voters of the district today.

The district lies mostly between the San Joaquin and Chowchilla rivers and it is proposed to secure water through construction of an immense impounding dam near the town of Friant on the San Joaquin. Irrigation engineers and district officials said the Madera project was among the largest in the history of the west. Extensive development of hydro-electric energy is included in the district's plan.

Madera is said to contain a greater proportion of large individual holdings than any other California county. With ample water for intensive farming the gradual breaking up of these holdings is foreseen by proponents of the irrigation project.

A strenuous campaign on behalf of the bonds was made by farmers and civic organizations.

A beauty parlor operator says bobbed hair is now "de trop" and likewise "de classe," yet that does not sound nearly so harsh as some other things we have heard said about it of which we had a better comprehension.

The prince of Wales is reported bored by the duties of his position, but it is not intimated that he is contemplating resigning.
