

AFRAID OF WORK.—No, my dear young man, this "journey of life" does not lie all the way through verdant valleys and flowery meadows. The way is not thronged with generous-hearted friends and rich uncles ready to die and leave you their money.

It is not always bright with the sunlight of pleasure. You will not find a bed of roses to recline on every time you are weary. Don't expect it, or you will very likely be disappointed. You will find that about the time the path gets past the school house it switches off into some rather rough country. You will very probably find some rough hills to climb and some deep gullies to cross. The briars will tear your nice clothes and the stones will wear out your fine boots, and you will have blistered heels and stone-bruises in plenty before you get through.

There is only one way to avoid all this. That is to sit down, a whining beggar by the wayside, despondent and self-despising. But if you are going through, you must brace yourself up for hard climbing. You will find plenty of roses by the way, but they grow among thorns, and if you would gather them you must not be afraid of a few scratches. There are plenty of pure springs and cool fountains, too, but they flow from the mountain side and you must climb to them.

All the fruits worth having are near the top of the trees. You can have your game suppers and your quail on toast, too, but the game is wild, and the birds roost high, and you can't put salt on their tails to catch them. You can have all this, we say, but just as like as not when you get it you'll have no teeth to chew it with, so you must build too much on that.

Yes, young man, the glaciers of life are hard to climb and you'll never make the trip without a guide. The name of the guide is "Work." Tie yourself to him, young man, and he'll pull you through all right. He is rough and rugged, as all mountaineers are, but don't be afraid of him on that account. Don't despise his honest garments. He is a brave, true-hearted fellow, who has led thousands safely through, and will do the same for you, if you trust him.

HAIR STANDING ON END.—The earliest notice of this fact will be found recorded in Job iv., 13, 14, 15.—"In thoughts from the visions of the night, when deep sleep falleth on men, fear came upon me, and trembling which made all my bones to shake. Then a spirit passed before my face. The hair on my flesh stood up." &c. The Rev. Doctor Andrews, of Beresford, Chapel, Walworth, told me he once saw a remarkable illustration of this fact from the same cause—excessive fear. William Probert, who had been concerned in the murder of Weare, for which Thurtell was hanged in 1824, was indicted at the Old Bailey, in 1825, for horse stealing, and being found guilty June 23, was there executed. Dr. Andrews had been requested to attend this man and found him in a state of stupor which prevented reflection, almost, indeed, perception; but on the morning of the execution his mind cleared, and he was anxious to listen and join in the prayers. On leaving the cell, and going to the room where he was pinned, he became somewhat excited, and the instant the executioner put the cord on his wrists to bind his hands, his hair—long, lank, weak, iron-grey hair—arose gradually and stood perfectly upright, and so remained for some short time, and then gradually fell down. The fact is accounted for by the circumstances that the blood retires to the heart, and the extremities being left without due circulation, "the skin contracts, and the effect is to raise the hair." But this I doubt. That such is the result of sudden fear, and that it has been known for ages, is very certain.

BREAKING DOWN.—Men often have their hands full, are overworked with business and drive hurriedly along at it, but they may not be overworked. We cannot always tell when we are overworked. A man does not always know himself, no more than he knows the strain on the main spring of his watch will break it. But there comes a time when it breaks—a click, a snap, and the watch stops. Men break down in this way. They go on, day after day, the pressure bearing harder each successive day, until the vital force gives out, and the machine stops. It is a great pity that the indications of this state of things cannot be seen beforehand, and if seen, regarded. It is one of the last things that men will admit to themselves, much less to others. They flatter themselves that it is only a little weariness of the flesh, which will pass off with a few hours' rest, when, in fact, every nerve, power, and resource are exhausted, and the system is driven to work by sheer force of will. When the oil on the shaft or in the oil box is exhausted, every revolution of the wheel wears on the revolving part, and soon will ruin it. The same is true of the human body.

"A bribe!" exclaimed the honest official, starting back, as though stung. "A bribe and to me! Good gracious, man! do I look like a man to trifle with my trust? You have grossly insulted me, and I despise you and your venal offer! Stay one moment," he added, as the third tourist alarmed at the storm of indignation that he had evoked, was hastily taking himself off in a very "sorry-that-I-spoke" kind of mood—"stay a moment. Don't be in quite such a hurry. Look here!" and so saying, the honest official lowered his voice and drew nearer to his tempter. "Suppose, now, I was such a man as you took me to be, what would you be ready to stand?"

A GOOD MAN'S WISH.—I freely confess to you that I would rather, when I am laid in the grave, some one in his manhood would stand over me and say, "There lies one who was a real friend to me, and privately warned me of the danger of the young—one no one knew it, but he aided me in time of need. I owe what I am to him." Or would rather have some widow, with choking utterance, telling her children, "There is your friend and mine. He visited me in my affliction, and found you, my son, an employer, and you, my daughter, a happy home in a virtuous family." I say I would rather that such a person would stand at my grave than to have erected over it the most beautiful sculptured monument of Parian or Italian marble. The heart's broken utterance of reflections of past kindnesses, and the tears of grateful memory shed upon the grave are more valuable in my estimation than the most costly cenotaph ever reared.

A citizen who was doing some marketing had his attention attracted to a boy about twelve years of age who seemed anxious to get hold of one of the many big water-melons piled up in the Central Market. It seemed like a good chance to sow a seed in the boy's mind, and the citizen beckoned the boy and queried: "My son, would you like to steal one of those melons?" "Yes, sir," was the prompt reply. "You would, eh? I am sorry to hear that. If you would steal one of those melons, my boy, do you know what the result might be?" The lad scratched his head, surveyed the pile again, and answered: "I expect the plaguey thing would be green all the way through!"

KEEP BUSY.—There is much truth in the old proverb, "An idle brain is the devil's workshop." Boys and girls, you want to keep working and then you will get so many good thoughts into your heart, that there won't be room for any bad ones.

You can see this even in nature: Willst the stream keeps running, it keeps clear; but if it comes once to standing water, then it breeds disease and all manners of filth. The keys that men keep in their pockets, and use every day, wax brighter and brighter; but if they be laid aside, and hung by the walls, they soon grow rusty.

A candidate for the office of Auditor of Public Accounts was suddenly called upon for a speech. On rising he commenced: "Fellow-citizens, you have called on me for a few remarks. I have none to make. I have no prepared speech. Indeed, I am no speaker; I have no desire to be a speaker—I only want to be an Auditor."—Yankee Reporter.

[La Fayette Journal.] SUCH REPORTS DO ONE'S HEART GOOD.—Mr. Frank Wilke, North and 9th streets, stated, that it was not only highly praised by his customers, but the St. Jacobs Oil has not failed to give satisfaction in a single case.

A colored preacher, in translating to hearers the sentence: "The harvest is past, the summer is over, and we are not saved," put in: "De corn has been cribbed, dere ain't any more work, and old Satan is still foolin' wid dis community."

An unkind word from one beloved often draws the blood from many a heart which would defy the battle-ax of hatred or the keenest edge of vindictive satire.

When Sheridan was asked what kind of wine he liked best, answered—"Other people's." There are a great many Sheridans now-a-days.

Rheumatism
Neuralgia, Sprains,
Pain in the Back and Side.
There is nothing more painful than these diseases; but the pain can be removed and the disease cured by use of Perry Davis' Pain Killer.
This remedy is not a cheap Essence or Petroleum product that must be kept away from fire or heat to avoid danger of explosion, nor is it an untried experiment that may do more harm than good.
Pain Killer has been in constant use for forty years, and the universal testimony from all parts of the world is, it never fails. It not only effects a permanent cure, but it relieves pain almost instantaneously. Being a purely vegetable remedy, it is safe in the hands of the most inexperienced.
The record of cures by the use of PAIN KILLER would fill volumes. The following extracts from letters received show what those who have tried it think:
Edgar Gedy, Cuyahoga, Miss., says: "About a year since my wife became subject to severe rheumatism, which she could not get any relief from. I have procured my strength, and am now able to follow my usual habits."
Charles Powell writes from the Soldiers' Home, London: "I had been afflicted three years with rheumatism and violent spasms of the stomach. The doctors at Westminster Hospital gave me no relief. I tried your PAIN KILLER, and it gave me immediate relief. I have procured my strength, and am now able to follow my usual habits."
G. E. Walworth, Saco, Me., writes: "I have used your PAIN KILLER for rheumatism, and have found it a most relieving remedy for the same."
Barlow Bennett says: "I have used your PAIN KILLER for thirty years, and have found it a most relieving remedy for the same."
Mr. Burdett writes: "I have used your PAIN KILLER for rheumatism, and have found it a most relieving remedy for the same."
All druggists keep PAIN KILLER. Its price is so low that it is within the reach of all, and it will save many times its cost in doctors' bills. 25c, 50c, and $1.00 a bottle.

Cheapest and Best!

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE.

Large Size Extra Getting up Clubs. Photograph Album. Extra Copy for 1882.

Full-Size Paper Patterns!

A Supplement will be given in every number for 1882, containing a full-size pattern for a lady's, or child's dress. Every Subscriber will receive, during the year, twelve of these patterns, worth more, alone, than the subscription price.

Peterson's Magazine is the best and cheapest of the lady's books. It gives more for the money, and combines greater merit than any other. In short it has the Best Steel Engravings, Best Colored Fashions, Best Dress Patterns, Best Original Stories, Best Work-Table Patterns, Best Music, etc., etc.

Its immense circulation and long established reputation enables its proprietor to distance all competition. In 1882, it will contain a brilliant succession of Splendidly Illustrated Articles. The stories, novels, &c., in "Peterson" are admitted to be the best published. All the most popular female writers contribute to it. In 1882, about 100 original stories will be given, and in addition Six Copyright Novels, by Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Jane G. Austin, Marietta Holley, Lucy B. Hooper, and Mrs. E. L. Cushing. The COLORED STEEL FASHION PLATES In "Peterson" are ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household, Cookery and other receipts; articles on Art Embroidery, Flower Culture, House Decoration—in short, everything interesting to ladies.

TERMS (Always in Advance) $2.00 a Year. Unparalleled Offers to Clubs.

The Sun.
NEW YORK, 1882.

The Sun for 1882 will make its fifteenth annual revolution under the present management, shining, as always, for all, big and little, mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, Republican and Democratic, depraved and virtuous, intelligent and obtuse. The Sun's light is for mankind and womanhood of every sort; but its genial warmth is for the good, while it pours hot discomfort on the blistering backs of the persistently wicked.

The Sun of 1882 was a newspaper of a new kind. It discarded many of the forms, and a multitude of the superfluous words and phrases of ancient journalism. It undertook to report in a fresh, succinct, unconventional way all the news of the world, omitting no event of human interest, and commenting upon affairs with the fearlessness of absolute independence. The success of this experiment was the success of The Sun. It effected a permanent change in the style of American newspapers. Every important journal established in this country in the dozen years past has been modeled after The Sun. Every important journal already existing has been modified and bettered by the force of The Sun's example.

The Sun of 1882 will be the same outspoken, truth-telling, and interesting newspaper, by a liberal use of the means which an abundant prosperity affords, we shall make it better than ever before.

We shall print all the news, putting it into readable shape, and making its importance, not by the traditional means, but by its real interest to the people. Distance from Printing House Square is not the first consideration with The Sun. Whenever anything happens worth reporting we get the particulars, whether it happens in Brooklyn or in Bokhara.

In politics we have declared opinions; and are accustomed to express them in language that can be understood. We say what we think about men and events. That is the only secret of The Sun's political course. The Weekly Sun gathers into eight pages the best matter of the seven daily issues. An Agricultural Department of unequalled merit, full market reports, and a liberal proportion of literary, scientific, and domestic intelligence complete The Weekly Sun, and make it the best newspaper for the farmer's household that was ever printed.

Who does not know and read like The Sunday Sun, each number of which is a Gold-cord of interesting literature, with the best poetry of the day, prose every line worth reading, news, humor—matter enough to fill a good-sized book, and infinitely more varied and entertaining than any book, big or little?

If our idea of what a newspaper should be pleases you, send for The Sun.

Our terms are as follows:

For the daily Sun, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post paid, is 55 cents a month, or $5.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents per month, or $7.50 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of The Sun is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the Weekly Sun, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free.
