HORNSILVER SHOWS GREAT ACTIVITY IN DEVELOPMENT LINE

Hornsilver is rapidly forging to the front as one of the coming big industries making camps of southern Nevada, and the big noise which has only just started is rapidly gaining a momentum. It is freely predicted that there will soon [illegible] be the scene of unusual activity, in view of the fact that large development has been inaugurated by the Orleans Hornsilver Mines company, not to mention a half-dozen other properties that are receiving attention. Prospectors have been here for the last several weeks, and such rapid progress has resulted that it now looks as though the coming winter would witness the development to the shipping stage of a number of substantial producers.

Sinking of the main shaft on the Orleans mine, which was recently taken over by purchase by the Orleans Hornsilver Mines company, is progressing most satisfactorily. Work has started at the 600 level and during the present week, or since machine drills were brought into use, the shaft has been sunk an additional 20 feet. Announcement has been made by Manager A. J. D'Arcy that sinking will continue to the 700 level without interruption and that when the ore is cut at that depth there will be another advance in the price of shares which have been proving a popular buy of late. When the initial offering was made to the people of southern Nevada shares commanded 25 cents, but the improvement has been such that the board of directors decided to advance the price to 35 cents. It will remain at this price until the ore is encountered on the 700 level, at which time it is announced it will be advanced to 50 cents or more.

Operations have been started on the Jacks mine in the State Line section of the Hornsilver district, while a deal has just been concluded in the vicinity of the Gold Mountain property, and so operations are prosecuted throughout the district it becomes quite evident that this mineral region is going to prove extensive.

The Jacks property was recently taken over by Zob Kendall and associates, and lies three miles south of the Orleans on a parallel vein of readily [illegible] and with excellent values. Edwards & Murphy have taken over the Contact group, situated two miles northeast of the Jacks, which completes a triangle of six miles that shows strong mineralization.

[illegible] men from all sections of the state have been flying the Hornsilver district a great deal of late, [illegible] the [illegible] weeks, and it now seems a certainty that a real old fashioned mining boom is in the ascendency. Goldfield will be the feeding point for the camp, of course, of course, it is expected that a thriving little community will spring into existence.

The Orleans Hornsilver Mines company is carrying forward operations with two shifts of miners. In addition to the shaft sinking that is under way, operations are being prosecuted in different parts of the mine and numerous mineral finds of prominence have been made during the past couple of weeks.

GOVERNMENT LIKELY TO CALL ELECTION TO DECIDE PROBLEM

VICTORY AGAIN DEVELOPED BY SHAFT SINKING

Operations were resumed yesterday upon the Victory property in the Divide district, which is managed by the Rosamond Mining Divide. John Salisbury is in charge of operations and is engaged for sinking preliminary to undertaking development.

Practically all of the work previously performed on the Victory was to the west of the Divide fault, the drives being mined from the northwest fault. It is planned now to run a cross cut from the east vein of the fault, or north the Divide. Operations are being carried on in the bottom of the shaft working, but it is expected to resume workings within a short time with a view to picking up the vein formation of the east shoot that was encountered in the Divide which and from which a fair tonnage of better than $100 ore was extracted previous to a year ago. This shoot proved to have a length of 25 feet and the ore was 18 inches wide. It is now believed that only the top of this shoot was entered.

Victory shares now being called on the San Francisco exchange belong to the old company but it is stated that application for listing shares of the new company has passed the board of governors and that the first call will be made in the course of a few days.

The Golden State Mines company shares were listed a few days ago on the New York stock, and the initial offering brought 25 cents but the price readily climbed and it topped 37 cents.

The property has been a producer at intervals for several years, and the physical condition of the mine is said to be better at present than at any time in a long period.
