NEVADA MINERAL OUTPUT

State, Famous During Glorious Days of Comstock Lode, Still Leads in Silver Production

Washington, Oct. 30.—Nevada is essentially a metal-producing State, metallic products constituting more than 98 per cent. of the total value of the State's mineral output, according to the United States geological survey. Though Nevada is at present of much less relative importance as a mining State than it was in the "glory" days of the famous Comstock lode, it continus to rank first in the production of silver, which is third among the mineral products of the State. The most important mineral product of Nevada is copper, in the production of which Nevada ranks fifth among the States. Gold mining ranks second among the State's mineral industries. The production of copper increased from 86,477,494 pounds in 1912 to 90,693,751 pounds in 1913, but with a decline in value from $14,268,787 to $14,057,531. Copper mining is one of the new industries of the State. It did not begin on an important scale until 1908, with the development of the Ely district in White Pine county. In 1907, prior to the development of the Ely district, the copper production of the State was less than 2,000,000 pounds, but in 1913 it exceeded 90,000,000 pounds.

In sympathy with the general tendency in the decreased production of gold, the output of gold in Nevada decreased from 650,943 fine ounces, valued at $13,456,180, in 1912, to 570,589 fine ounces, valued at $11,795,130 in 1913. More than 60 per cent. of the gold produced in Nevada in 1912 and 1913 came from the Goldfield and Tonopah districts.

The production of silver increased from 14,369,063 fine ounces, valued at $8,836,974, in 1912, to 16,090,083 fine ounces, valued at $9,718,410, in 1913. About 70 per cent. of the silver output is derived from the Tonopah district. To what extent the Comstock lode in Churchill county has fallen from its high estate in the production of silver is indicated by the fact that in 1876, when this famous district was at its zenith, the output was over 17,000,000 ounces of silver, and in 1913 the total production from Churchill county was less than 1,500,000 ounces.

The total value of the mineral products of Nevada in 1913 amounted to $37,842,084, against $39,111,828 in 1912.

20 YEARS FOR ASSASSIN

Four Conspirators in Slaying of Archduke to Hang

Sarajevo, Bosnia, Oct. 30.—(via Amsterdam to London—Judgment was pressed on the assassins of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir-apparent to the Austro-Hungarian throne, and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg.

Gavrio Prinzip, the actual assassin, escaped with a sentence to imprisonment for twenty years. Four of the conspirators were sentenced to death by hanging, one to life imprisonment, two, including Medeljo Gabrinovic, who threw a bomb at the Archduke, but which did not explode, to twenty years; one to sixteen years, one to thirteen years, two to ten years, one to seven years and two to three years.

The other defendants were acquitted.

AUTO RUNS INTO DEER

Breaks Animal's Leg But It Escapes After Accident

Hammonton, N. J., Oct. 30.—As young Laurence Edwards was driving his auto from the county boulevard, the main road from New York and Philadelphia to Atlantic City, two deer dashed in front of his car, four miles south of this place. To avoid striking one of the deer, Edwards swung his car sharply to one side. Just then the second deer dashed to the same spot and the car struck him. The jolt threw Edwards back heavily in his car, bruising his shoulder.

The youth drove to the house of Game Warden William B. Loder, who went to the place of the accident. He found signs that the struck deer had escaped on three legs, the fourth evidently having been broken. In its rush the frightened animal had run into a covey of quail, as a dead bird was found by the warden.

SHIPS' CARGOES A SECRET

Not to Be Divulged Until Thirty Days After Clearance

By Associated Press.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Acting Secretary Lansing said yesterday that Secretary McAdoo's order to collectors of customs not to make public the nature of cargoes of ships departing from American ports until thirty days after they had cleared was issued after consultation with the State Department. He declined to give the reason for its issue, but it is understood that some belligerent ships at sea have been receiving advance information of the contents of cargoes through the publication of manifests. Mr. Lansing pointed out that before the war broke out manifests were not made public as a rule until several days after a ship had cleared.

In some quarters here there was a disposition to regard the order as liable to cause the ships of the allies to exercise more than customary vigilance and scrutiny, searching practically all ships leaving American ports. As the right of search, however, is conceded to all belligerents on the high seas, and shippers send contraband abroad at their own risk, the American government is said not to feel concerned.

Denies Giving Aid to Villa

By Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 30.—A statement made by the officers of the American Smelting and Refining Company denies the charge of Roberto V. Pesqueira, formerly an active agent of General Carranza, that the Guggenheim interests had given moral and financial aid to General Villa.

"This company's representatives," says the statement, "have been particularly careful not to interfere in the politics of Mexico, and to refuse all requests for financial support of any faction."

Coffee Exchange to Remain Closed

New York, Oct. 30.—The board of managers of the New York Coffee Exchange have voted not to open the exchange, as it was proposed, at the expiration of the British moratorium, November 4

FORD HAS WIERD DELIVERY

John M. Ward Says Pitcher of Buffalo Feds Has the Corkscrew Ball

John M. Ward, business manager of the Brooklyn Federal League club, declares that the corkscrew ball—heretofore a fictionary product—has been uncovered by Russell Ford, a pitcher of the Buffalo Federals. It was Ford, by the way, who first used the emery delivery, legislated out of use by the National and American league presidents on the eve of the last world's series.

"Ford has a real corkscrew delivery," said John M. Ward yesterday. "At least I have stood behind him and that is what it seems to be. He throws the bill with a pretty fair turn of speed, as fast, in fact, as the ordinary curve.

"The ball comes with no rotary motion. At least the rotation is so slight that all the seams show. Perhaps it is an optical illusion. A slight wavering of the stitching might account for the phenomenon. But so far as I could observe, the ball came up in a corkscrew motion, falling away spirally as it approached.

"I have never seen anything quite so weird in all my experience. Batters hit inches over or inches under in such manner as to prove their efforts simply guesswork. Why, no catcher yet has been able to receive this delivery. The pitch hits the backstop on the shins as often as it hits his glove.

"Ford has tried to show the new wrinkle to the best pitchers in the Federal League. Mordecai Brown, Tom Seaton and all the rest could not grasp the first idea of its manipulation. This ball is the freakiest of freak deliveries. It may never amount to anything because of its lack of control. But Ford says next season he thinks he will be able to serve the delivery in such manner as to hit his catcher's glove fairly. If he can do that he will have something on every pitcher in professional baseball."

DOCTOR'S VIEW OF FAT MEN

Americans' Surplus Flesh Saps Energy and Ruins Appearance

Washington, Oct. 30.—American men are too fat. They are carrying around a lot of surplus flesh which saps their energy, ruins their appearance and offers no compensation. They should get busy, preferably with the Swedish physical culture system, and lose the fat.

This, in effect, is the conclusion which Surgeon J. A. Murphy makes in his report to the Navy Department. It is based upon his examination of applicants for enlistment.

"The majority of American men and boys are muscularly weak from the waist line up, the legs usually showing up well as regards strength," Dr. Murphy said. "Many are strong, but through excess of weight, usually fat, prove relatively weak."

These types, with few exceptions, have rounded backs, protruding abdomens, drooping heads and flat chests. Any attempt at effort lacks power, because orientation is disturbed and the normal straight line of thrust through the bones and joints is lost.

GRAND JURY REVERSAL

Reconsiders Action on Rebate Charges and Indictment Falls

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—Although indictments charging the Simmons Manufacturing Company, of Kenosha, Wis., and the Western Pacific Railroad Company with receiving and allowing indirect rebates were voted and drawn ten days ago by the Federal Grand Jury, they were not returned when that body met again yesterday.

Learning of the action taken counsel for the two companies produced witnesses who presented the returns of the railroad and the shipper in such a light that the Grand Jury consented to reconsider the decision and on a second ballot the vote stood ten to indict and ten not to indict. Twelve votes are necessary to indict.

In view of the Grand Jury's action the United States attorney's office here announces that it would try to bring suit on the strength of information laid before the court.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

SPEND AN EXCITING EVENING

I. C. E. S. of the Fourth Street Church of God Enjoy Weird "Trip Through Wonderland"

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Booser, 1326 Derry street, entertained the I. C. E. S. of the Fourth Street Church of God last evening. Many weird amusements were indulged in. The star attractions, however, were the "Trip Through Wonderland" and the visit to the "Wizard of Oz."

After the games a piano solo was rendered by Professor Charles Mackey, who has but recently returned from Germany, where he was studying music. Refreshments were served to the following:

Margaret Backenstoss, Ruth Laverty, Jean Hoy, Gladys Cheney, Anna Dugan, Miriam Schaner, Sara Shireman, Margaret Wimer, Charlotte Davis, Ora Davis, Mary Goodyear, Mary Towsen, Ruth Fortenbaugh, Marian Pressler, Robert Houseal, Harold Eckert, Leland Schaner, Edward Wallower, Louis Houseal, Robert Wallower, Ralph Bair, Arthur Gardner, Musser Miller, Walter Zeiders, Ray Houseal, William Musser, Joseph Rowe and Professor Charles Mackey.

SHINY PATES; CABARET GIRLS

Latter Pick Out the Winners at Baldhead Club Banquet

Winsted, Conn., Oct. 30.—One hundred and fifty bald pates, the largest number ever assembled in one group by the Baldhead Club of America, founded by John Rodemeyer, of Canaan, attended the third annual banquet of the club in the Hotel Winchester last night.

As a souvenir each received a bottle of a hair restorer and a box of pins.

Cabaret girls from New York picked out the baldest baldhead, hairiest baldhead, handsomest baldhead, tallest and shortest baldhead, each of whom received a prize in the shape of a "Made in Winsted" product.

Winsted barbers did a big business shaving pates, because no one was eligible unless his bald spot was three inches in diameter. Out of town "baldies" were greeted with a band of music, and a large illuminated welcome sign over the entrance to the Hotel Winchester was decorated with two baldheads, one surmounted with a large fly.

REDEEMS SING SING'S HONOR

"We Don't Want to Give Place Bad Name," Convict Says

New York, Oct. 30.—Since Warden McCormick has been in charge of Sing Sing Prison he has organized baseball games. Several days ago the prison team played a team of young men from the village of Ossining. A large number of men and women were permitted to see the game inside the prison walls.

After the fourth inning a villager put his hand in his pocket.

"It's gone," he exclaimed, as he searched for his money. Several others learned that convict pickpockets had not forgotten how to "make a lift."

When the complainants started for the Warden's office, a young man in convict's uniform, told them their valuables would be restored provided that they would not "squeal."

"We don't want to give the place a bad name," the convict explained, after he returned the money.

"The reckless chauffeur simply mowed down all the pedestrians in his path."

"Was he full?"

"Full and running over."—Boston Transcript.
