

THURSDAY MORNING, June 29th, 1882.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.—Though the glorious 4th is not quite as glorious as it used to be, and is developing less and less of interest every year in the popular heart, still we hope never to see it pass altogether unremembered.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS.—Judge Miller, of the Anne Arundel Circuit, decided favorably the Senate Reporters' case, awarding them their money, and strange to report, in the singular case of the House Reporters, he denied the petition for mandamus.

ACCEPTED.—It was alleged by the Hamilton prophets when Mr. Fernandis was appointed to the Presidency of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal that he would not accept it because it was appointed because it was known he would not.

A SAD PICTURE.—Rev. Dr. Lecky and W. Bacon says there is more polygamy in New England than in Utah, and that it is more open and shameless.

NOT A CANDIDATE.—Gen. Beale, who was announced as a republican candidate for Congress in this district on the authority of Col. Taylor Suit, says that the announcement was unauthorized and that he neither has time, taste, nor inclination to enter the field of politics.

BAD NEWS.—It is the opinion of the Maryland delegation in Congress that there is no reasonable ground for expecting the passage, during the present session, of the Maryland and Delaware Ship Canal bill.

BALLOON'S MONTHLY ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE.—The July number of Ballou's Magazine will be read with great interest, as the stories and poems are of such a high order of merit that no one can fail to find something that will entertain a family circle.

(For the Beacon.) CHARLOTTE HALL, June, 1882. Messrs. Editors:—In the issue before the last of the Beacon we notice the absence of the new paintings of most of our weekly correspondents, and infer that the new crop of the school year is in progress.

THE MARCH OF THE MARCH.—The march of the mummy, which has been the subject of so much talk, is taking a holiday, not permanently, or for a few days, but for a few days, at least, it is a subject, his blood-imparting, is not heard any more upon the iron path, a path, if the projected enterprise be fulfilled along which are hidden harvests of benefits richer than those of Egypt.

As you expressed it, Messrs. Eds, surely the great work will not be abandoned, with the result we advanced. Rumor has matters will be righted "pretty soon" and though we expect no benefit, save in its general good to the State, we cheerfully wish that may quickly push on to the goal, for what is a country without a railroad?

Let the great world spin forever, down the ringling groves of change. The hum of a busy world, that comes from a distance, lengthens the hours into days with us under the burning orb of the present, and our eyes thirst for the beautiful scenes we have marked upon the programme of our Summer pastimes.

What a lovely scene!—the Ark and Dove and the Peggy Stewart!—What a lovely scene!—the Ark and Dove and the Peggy Stewart!—What a lovely scene!—the Ark and Dove and the Peggy Stewart!

But we think no other place can boast of sweeter singing birds, than this gentle oak, especially the mocking bird, whose ravishing notes from the morrow will be "farrowing all the orient into gold."

Literally freight the air with a melody that could be transferred to the human voice, the world, it would surely be done. There is not a day so urgent that deters us to pause and listen; there is such a sweet lesson of patience and patience to be had, even in the voice of the little twitterer.

For this at least is a lesson of the simple and steadfast faith of the earnest and sincere. Birds and flowers are inspired sermons to us, they point us to the Source of all that is beautiful and good. Sabbath spent among them with earnest soul communing with this Source, is a happier answer to the divine command, "keep holy" than many of our hurried attendances upon a special custom—a grand day when faithful "exercised" where the careless lips and thoughtless heart make up the piety.

midst of a wind and rain storm, prophetic perhaps of the final victory that is to follow. However, better a storm anywhere with, than a calm without a sunset. Monday of so-called "peace" has been given us, and the plaudits of the resources that he has placed within his grasp, is positively a crime.

To the Traveling Public.

Having leased the property known as Moore's Hotel, Leonardtown, Md., for two years, commencing the 1st of January, 1882, I respectfully inform the public that its management will now be under my exclusive direction and that no pains or expense will be spared to maintain the high reputation as a public resort it has obtained in the past and to increase it in the future.

To The Public!

The public are cautioned against employing a man named Barton, called himself Daney, professing to be employed by J. F. Lucas, Washington, and representing himself as his agent for tuning pianos. J. F. Lucas has no knowledge of Barton and has given no authority for representing him either in St. Mary's county or elsewhere, and those employing him do so at their own risk. He therefore disclaims all responsibility for damages that have been done to instruments by Barton or Bartolo.
