NEWS OF STEELTON

MEN OF TRANSPORTATION GIFT RETIRED MEMBER

C. A. Ford, in Appropriate Speech, Tells of Esteem for Ferdinand Roller Held by Former Steelton Workers—Handsome Presents Given

A large number of employes of the transportation department of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, chaperoned by S. A. Ford, superintendent of that department, last evening surprised Ferdinand Roller, a recently retired engineer in the local yards, and his wife, at their Camp Hill home, and gave each a present to show the esteem of the railroaders.

C. A. Ford acted as spokesman for the men, and in their behalf presented Mr. Roller with a handsome rocking chair and a Bible. The gift to Mrs. Roller consisted of a magnificent cut glass vase filled with carnations and clematis. The men then spent an enjoyable evening.

Mr. Roller entered the employ of the steel company in 1875 and was one of the oldest shifting engineers in its employ when he was retired a short time ago.

ENTERTAINMENTS BY SOKOL

Proceeds Will Be Devoted to Sokol Funds

Rehearsals on a play to be rendered by the Croatian Sokol on the evening of December 26 in Croatian hall, South Second street, have been commenced. The proceeds of the entertainment are for the club fund and not for the Croatian Red Cross as reported. Preparations are also under way for the annual New Year's entertainment which will be held in the same hall on the evening of January 1. Extensive programs are in course of preparation for both entertainments. Handsome costumes and scenes depicting life in Croatia will be features of the two affairs.

The choir of the First Reformed church will hold a special rehearsal this evening of music to be rendered on Christmas Day.

POUND DONATION FOR ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

Request Is Made That Gifts for Steelton at Stough Tabernacle To-night Be Marked Plainly "For Steelton Associated Charities"

The pound donation which will feature the meeting at the Stough tabernacle this evening has greatly interested residents of the borough, particularly since the gifts will be given to the Associated Charities of Harrisburg and Steelton for use among the poor of both places.

Steelton donors are requested to mark each package left at the tabernacle with a tag stating that it is for the Steelton Associated Charities. Should there be any liberal-minded person in the borough, or vicinity, unable to go to Harrisburg this evening, such persons are requested to leave or send their packages to J. A. McCurdy's drug store, Trust building, Front street. In the case of orders for coal or wood, the donors of such gifts are also requested to send the slips to the same drug store.

The demand for assistance since the advent of zero weather has greatly increased and the local charities committee is in need of all contributions which it is able to secure at this time.

AGED PERSONS AT SUNSET SERVICE

Autos This Afternoon Convey the Infirm to Tabernacle as Special Guests

FIRST SPIN FOR MANY OF THEM

Dr. Stough in Last Night's Sermon Pleads for More of Spirit of St. Paul in Modern Preachers—Ridicules "Rock of Ages"

Many automobiles this afternoon about 2 o'clock drew up to the entrances of the Stough tabernacle, with aged men and women as their passengers, conveying them there to take part in the "Sunset service," arranged by the Stough party for the benefit of persons in the sunset of life.

A number of the old persons experienced their first automobile rides in being transported to the tabernacle this afternoon, and the faces which had been pale from long confinement within doors were flushed as they had not been for many days. Comfortable chairs, in the front of the building, furnished by women active in the campaign, awaited those of the decrepit visitors who could not sit on the board benches.

Carnations for Guests

In addition to the invalids conveyed to the tabernacle in automobiles, large numbers of aged men and women went there on foot, and these all had seats in the front rows. Five hundred carnations were distributed among the old folks.

Although in other cities there have been cases discovered of old persons feigning debility, so as to get automobile rides to and from the tabernacle, it is believed that all men and women who benefited by this afternoon's generosity were genuine invalids, since great care was taken in the selection of names of those on whom the auto owners called to carry to the service.

Donations to Be Received

To-night at the tabernacle there will be an admission fee charged for the first time. It is a fee that thousands will willingly pay, for it is to be in the form of articles of food or clothing for the needy poor of the city. The donations will be heaped on the platform, and are expected to come in great quantity.

The food and clothing thus collected will be turned over to the Harrisburg and to the Steelton Associated Charities for distribution. Articles intended for Steelton will be so marked, and all others will be used for the benefit of the poor of this city.

Humor in Last Night's Sermon

Dr. Stough in his sermon at the tabernacle last night sought to reach his crowd rather by using humor and sarcasm than by employing pathos, and his sermon was full of the comedy which he had put aside for the past week or so of more sober preaching. He took his text from St. Paul's defiance of political authority in the cause of righteousness, and secondarily from the martyrdom of John the Baptist.

"When Paul went preaching," said the evangelist with a side glance at the ministers' section, "he might have talked about the works of Rome and Greece. He could have talked about Socrates and all the ancient poets, and have spoken about babbling brooks and all such sweet nothingness. But what did he do? He preached righteousness, that's what he did. Righteousness, righteousness!

Good Night Nurse!"

"Why, if you want to stir up the devil among officeholders like these here in Pennsylvania, just preach righteousness to them. Talk on ballot stuffing for instance. Couldn't a fellow raise the devil in Pennsylvania on that subject alone? Suppose you preach on the subject of the necessity for a political pull to get on Capitol Hill. Good night nurse!

"Those are subjects, which if a preacher would let loose on them, he'd loose his pastorate inside of thirty days. I know, because I've tried it. I've just splattered and splashed a little here on that matter, but some of the splashing hit all right, and I heard about it.

"Temperance is another good subject to preach on. What would happen if they preached temperance to that official at Washington who, it is said, tried to make a speech at Detroit and was so drunk that the lights had to be turned out and the audience dismissed

Paul Had Hard Task

"Even in my place, it is easy to preach against sin compared with Paul. When the man who you are preaching to could cut off your head, it takes a lot of nerve to stand up and hand it out in packages as Paul did. He never got a call to the first church of that city, not on your tin.

"I believe to-day, with all due respect to my brethren of the ministry, that we need to put more of the spirit of St. Paul in our preaching Don't tel me that John the Baptist made a mistake. He made a mistake if it was to save his neck, but it would be better for the gospel if more Christians made mistakes like that. Would that God gave me more the spirit of St. Paul and of John the Baptist."

At this point in his sermon the preacher digressed in order to give his opinions of the well-known painting, "Rock of Ages," which he called the greatest travesty on religion" he has ever seen.

"Rock of Ages" Called a Lie

"That picture of the beautiful young lady in a night gown—notice they never take old maids for such pictures—hanging on to the stone cross with a 'clam and plackid' expression on her face is a lie. That is no more the Rock of Ages than Plymouth Rock is. No wonder people have gotten an idea that this is a finger-nail religion and that they are likely to let go at any time.

"If I were to paint the Rock of Ages I would have electric wires coming down to the cross from the skies and having the girl take hold of the cross as you take hold of a battery. When she takes hold of the rock the rock takes hold of her. As soon as you take hold of the Lord he will take hold of you, and hold you tight."

Usual Number of Converts

The evangelist appealed particularly to the railroad men to hit the trail, telling them of the perils of their lives on the road and warning them that to put off a decision may be dangerous.

There were about eighty trail-hitters, the average number, including representatives of the railroaders and of the Harrisburg Rotary Club, members of which were also among the guests of the evening.

Mrs. Throne Greatly Better

Mrs. Beulah Throne, who was shot three times and seriously wounded by her husband on Sunday afternoon, is reported as much improved to-day at the Harrisburg hospital and physicians now believe that she has a chance of recovery.
