THE SUN. NEW YORK, 1882. Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and affairs the Sun makes a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, before the fact as well as after, about the whines as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent and plenty and when supported by the general approval of the Sun has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women.

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for humankind; and because the deeds and misdeeds of the world, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the news of the busiest world at present revolving in space.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that the Sun is indifferent to his welfare and his rights. No man is so rich that he can allow injures to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years, without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the victory of the Republican party over the Democratic party.
