

Saint Mary's Beacon,
LEONARDTOWN, MD.

THURSDAY MORNING, May 17th, 1883.

POLITICAL NOTES.—Mr. Holton has at last achieved his triumph. He has displaced Ditty and secured Sallman. Mr. Ditty was an earnest friend of the colored people, and his retention in office was strongly championed by them, but Holton proved too strong for both. Mr. Sallman is personally very highly spoken of.

The threatened trouble in the ranks of the Baltimore democracy appears to have been satisfactorily adjusted by the selection of five acceptable gentlemen to name the judges and clerks for the primaries. It turns out to have been a very small tempest in a very little teapot.

The meeting of democratic Editors last week in Baltimore makes an exhibit which they have good reason to be proud of. The proceedings were marked throughout by conservative and harmonious courses, and their utterances contrast very much to the disadvantage of the selfish vaporings which outcropped in the interview season among the would-be leaders.

"THE PRESIDENTIAL CONTEST."—Under the above heading, our neighbors of the Enterprise, both of whom are recent converts from democracy to republicanism, denounce the democratic party as "working for gain, position and patronage," as presenting "a picture highly unworthy of the endorsement of any honest, consistent, patriotic citizen," a picture, they go on to state, "that is revolting, if not supremely disgusting, to all faithful, upright citizens of our republic." Surely, these are hard sayings to apply to late comrades. It is the inconsistency, however, of the democratic party that most disturbs our brothers, and it is upon this they chiefly ring the changes and pour forth the vials of their rhetoric. And this suggests us to ask, in view of their late and present relations with different political parties, if they would not be better engaged in explaining their own than in questioning the consistency of others? Presently, curious people will be heard demanding, of whom speaketh these prophets?

MISLEADING.—Without, we are sure, being intended to mislead, the figures, nevertheless, furnished by Dr. Sutton in his tariff card published in the last Beacon, are misleading. The Dr. takes the Agricultural Report of 1880 and furnishes from it the money value of the chief products of the farm industry of the United States, which foot up a grand total of $2,458,491,755. "Of this amount," the Dr. says, "products were exported to the value of $262,493,689, the balance being consumed at home. In other words," the Dr. goes on to say, "we find a home market for 89.32 per cent. of our chief crops and a foreign market for 10.68 per cent." Admitting the accuracy of these figures, how, we would like to know, do they discover the amount or the value of our farm products sold to and consumed by the manufacturing interests and their employes? This is the only question between us on the home market issue. It is not what is consumed on the farm and never shipped, but what is sold and sold to the manufacturing interests and their employes, that is the real bone of contention. The enormous amount which is necessary to feed over forty million of people, with all their stock, is therefore entitled to be deducted from the Dr.'s figures, and if you do this, what becomes of the Dr.'s per centage? How much of corn raised in St. Mary's county, for instance, seeks a market elsewhere, and especially the market afforded by the manufacturing industries? The number of bushels can be counted on the fingers. Dr. Sutton also contends, that every single article we now buy "is cheaper than it was in the 50's, and all farm products are higher." Neither of these statements can be proven, and both can be disproved. Let him interrogate the first man he meets who was housekeeping in the 50's and is housekeeping now, or examine and contrast the books of any merchant doing business then and engaged in the same occupation now, and he will find out his mistake on the first point. With regard to the second, we have this to say, that a bushel of wheat, for instance, which now nets the farmer a dollar, in the 50's, owing probably to the Crimean war, a foreign demand, by-the-by, commanded two dollars, and even a higher rate than this. Whether other farm products were also higher then than now, we have not the time to investigate, but we venture the assertion, that few or none of them were lower.

THE PROPOSED CONVENTION OF COLORED MEN.—Some of the colored politicians are protesting against the proposed Washington convention of colored men, referred to in our last issue, on the ground that the men who called it, (Frederick Douglass was of the number) are not recognized political leaders of that race. These protests are based upon the narrow view that nothing can be accomplished for the black man outside of politics. The men who planned and called the convention have exercised a right in so doing that belongs to them as free citizens of this country. Some of them have demonstrated that there is a higher and nobler work for the colored man than working in the harness of machine politics and waiting for a small office.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT.—Prof. W. G. Sumner, of Yale College, who is regarded as the ablest statistician in this country, and who has devoted his life to the study of tariff and other economic, makes the following remarkable statement, which may be found in the editorial columns of the Baltimore Daily Sun, of Friday, last. The professor undertakes to show, from the point of view of the consumer paying prices increased 43 1/2 per cent. by our high tariff, how much and how little net profit has accrued to the country from the artificial stimulus thereby given to manufacturing industries. He says:

"The capital invested in manufacturing in the United States in 1880 was $2,790,000,000; the wages paid to 2,700,000 hands was $948,000,000 an average of $1 1/7 per day; the value of the material used, was $8,400,000,000; the value of products, $8,300,000,000. Deducting from the value here set down for products the 43 1/2 per cent. of value added by the tariff, Prof. Sumner finds that the value of our manufacturing products in the markets of the world in the census year was but $8,700,000,000. The difference between these two statements of product value, or $1,600,000,000, is the amount of the tax which the tariff imposes. The Professor then proceeds to argue that it would pay the country better to hire all the laborers engaged in manufactures to stand idle and allow the capitalists 10 per cent. on their capital. As shown by the census, the wages paid in the census year amounted to $948,000,000, and ten per cent. on the $2,790,000,000 capital invested is $279,000,000, making the aggregate of the wages paid and interest on capital but $1,227,000,000, while as shown above, the cost of the tariff stimulus was $1,600,000,000. Hence the profit in hiring manufactures not to manufacture, according to Prof. Sumner, would be $378,000,000. Reasoning in the same manner in regard to pig-iron, he finds that the country would have realized in this census year a profit of $2,800,000 by hiring all persons laboring in the production of pig-iron at full wages to remain idle, and paying 10 per cent. profit on the capital invested in its production, provided the 3,700,000 tons produced that year were permitted to be bought in a free market here or elsewhere. Similarly, it would save the country $34,878 to pay 10 per cent. on the value of the pig-iron to make it, and the people could afford to pay the soap manufacturers $5,000,000, the castor-oil manufacturers $34,000, the glucose manufacturers $136,000 annually to close up their shops and pension their hands on full wages."
