TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

We desire to say that THE UTAH COUNTY DEMOCRAT has now been running nearly six months. Although our subscriptions are payable in advance, many citizens seemed to fear the paper would not last and were consequently chary of paying for it. We accepted the situation and therefore have a number of subscribers on our list who have not remitted. We feel it proper to request a settlement from such at the earliest possible date. If THE UTAH COUNTY DEMOCRAT is to continue and enjoy even a slight measure of prosperity, we must receive what is due us.

The following item from the Salina Press is commended to the careful and prayerful attention of members of the craft in this vicinity: "Should a good dentist visit Salina at present he could have anything he wanted. Dozens of persons are nursing toothache and cursing the town because it has no dentist. We are sure that work to the amount of $10,000 awaits the coming of a dentist. The Press force can charge enough work which will amount to half these figures."

Martin Reizec, an Austrian who has been employed in a coal mine at Price, was brought down to Provo last Friday evening with a broken leg caused by being caved in in the mine. Dr. S. H. Allen reduced the fracture, but owing to the serious nature of the case is uncertain whether or not he can save the leg.

We clip the following from the Salt Lake Herald of Sunday in regard to the Utah Sugar company, an institution of which all Utah county is justly proud: "The Utah Sugar company's stock is climbing skyward. Sales at considerable blocks were made during the week at $3 above par, the highest price ever scored by it."

Herman S. Martin took the position of cashier of the First National bank of Provo today, succeeding Mr. D. A. Swan. We regret to learn that Mr. Swan and wife will remove from Provo to make their home in Salt Lake. They will be missed by many friends, both in business and social circles.

The second grand assembly ball will be given in the Lambert dancing academy next Friday evening, February 3rd. Darton's full orchestra will be in attendance. The personnel of the committee guarantees a good time and fine crowd. Supper will be served at the well known and popular Fleiner's restaurant.

The writer this week had the pleasure of visiting the training quarters of Lawrence Farrell, who is to meet Billy McCoy at Ogden on the 13th. We are pleased to find Farrell in excellent condition and working hard. He promises to be a great favorite with Provo sports at the forthcoming contest. J. T. Clark is now acting as Farrell's manager.

An attraction announced for this city tonight is Miller & Freeman's capital musical farce, "At Gay Coney Island." This, the first play to deal with events as seen at the hilarious Sunday resort adjacent to New York, still holds first place as to the fidelity of its portrayal of character and picture. Of course, there are innumerable features indigeneous to plays of this description and in this instance they are declared to be of an unusually high order of merit. It is also claimed for this attraction that not a stick of the house scenery is employed. Remember, at the opera house tonight.

Hobson as a Kisser.

And as a daring and competent naval officer has obtained a world wide reputation, but it is no greater than that of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway as a caterer to the comfort and safety of the general traveling public. Being the short line between Omaha and Chicago, and running the fleetest trains between those points, it is natural that they should have obtained that reputation.

Our trains are all lighted by electricity, heated by steam and solid vestibuled; consisting of palace day coaches, elegant chair cars, modern library cars, superb sleeping cars, and a royal "Ala Carte" dining car service, running over a rock ballasted, steel rail track, on special fast time, give you a service for comfort, safety and convenience not to be obtained by any other route. Salutations.

Says Donovan to Flannigan:
"You are so awful nice;
You stood behind a horrid gun
And slaughtered Dons like mice,
So we'll kiss you," says Miss Donovan.

Says Flannigan to Donovan:
"You are so patriotic
I can't refuse your sweet salute
For fighting Dons despotic;
So come again," says Flannigan.

But soon so many girls had kissed
The gunner's brassy cheek
No time had he right fittingly
Unto each lass to speak, but said:
"Meet again, kiss again, Flannigan."—F. R. Stagleton in Chicago Inter Ocean.

Cabby's Revenge.

A stipendiary magistrate in a town in Yorkshire, who was not given to err on the side of leniency, once had before him a cab driver who was charged with furious driving. After some severe comments on the man's conduct a heavy fine was imposed.

A few days after the trial the magistrate, who had been detained rather longer than usual in the court, was suffering alongside his train, when seeing an empty cab handy, he hailed the driver and directed him to proceed to the station, telling him that he was pressed for time. The driver, however, needless to say, kept to a very gentle trot.

"I say, I say, my man," exclaimed the fare, with his head out of the window, "drive faster than this."

"It can't be done, sir," replied the driver. "You see, if we drive faster we're had up afore the beak, and we gets fined, so we has to be careful."

He had not after his pace, and he did the "beak" earth his trade.—London Tidbits.

Remorse.

The boy stood on a rustic bridge,
A picture of mute despair;
The moon rose over the distant ridge
So full and round and fair.

The boy was inward tortured sore,
As recked he off the past,
And to himself he swore a swore,
That "this would be his last."

He plainly saw his father's birch,
As rose and fell his chest;
At last he gave a mighty lurch—
The fishes tell the rest.

The Man-i-the-Moon peeped o'er the ridge,
A witness from afar;
The boy stole softly from the bridge—
He'd smoked his first cigar.
