OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

MEMORIAL TO CONGRESS

By the Grange of Lafayette County, Missouri.

To the Hon. F. T. Crittenden, Representative in Congress from the 7th District of Missouri.

Dear Sir: We the undersigned having been appointed a committee by the Lafayette county grange, Patrons of Husbandry, at the July meeting, to prepare and forward you a memorial, asking that immediately on the assembling of congress steps be taken to relieve the citizens of the United States from the dire calamities which now hang over them, in consequence of the pernicious and unjust financial policy of the federal government, beg leave to set forth, that: The contraction of the currency of the United States, the demonetization of silver, and the large amount of interest paid in gold to the holders of government bonds, which bear nearly in the neighborhood of taxation, have so completely paralyzed the business of the country that hundreds of thousands of its laborers are out of employment, their families reduced to want and beggary.

In view of these facts, and others which might be recited, which are evidence of general distress throughout the country, we deem it necessary that silver should be restored to its place in the currency and be made a legal tender for debts, both public and private. That a sufficient amount of treasury notes—"greenbacks" say one hundred millions—should be issued, to take the place of the national banks, which are now withdrawing from the field of circulation, in the process of closing up their affairs. The policy of the government in the matter of the resumption act of the session of congress of 1875, threatens a ruinous contraction of the currency, and if persisted in will be productive of the most disastrous results to the industrial interests of the country. We demand, as a means of relief, that congress shall at its next session repeal the act of 1875, and that the currency be so expanded as to meet the demands of the country, and that the interest on the bonds be made payable in lawful money, instead of gold as now provided by law. We further demand that congress shall pass such laws as will prevent the speculators from locking up the money of the country in their vaults, and thus compelling the people to borrow of them at such rates of usury as they may dictate. We believe that if congress will pass such laws as we have indicated, prosperity will take place without a single dollar being stolen from the people by the bondholders. We believe such laws as we have indicated would be productive of the greatest good to the country, and we pray your honorable body to pass them.

Fraternally yours,

POWER OF PRAYER.

Judge R——, relates the following incident as occurring in his practice:

He was trying a petty case, in which one of the parties was not able to pay counsel fees, and undertook to plead his own cause. But he found, in the course of the trial, that the keen and adroit attorney who managed the case for the plaintiff was too much for him in legal strategy, evidently making the worst appear the better cause. The poor man, Mr. A——, was in a state of mind bordering upon desperation when the opposing counsel closed his plea, and the case was about to be submitted to the justice for decision. "May it please your honor," said the man, "may I speak a few words to the jury before you decide?" Surprised and doubtful, the judge saw no objection. Whereupon Mr. A—— went down upon his knees, and made a fervent prayer, in which he set the merits of his case before the Lord in a very clear and methodical statement of the particulars, pleading against fraud and perjury in the most earnest and pathetic manner. He concluded by asserting that the lawyer had misrepresented the facts, and then added, "I tell you it is so, and so—for the end of the chapter. Arguments which have the appearance of logical array to the understanding of men, he had no ability in addressing to the Lord, being a stranger to Him, and better versed in praying than pettifogging. When he arose from his knees, Esquire W——, the opposing counsel, had disappeared, and the plaintiff, with the exception of the costs of the court, demanded his entire except the fees of his attorney. A business man, who was a witness in the case, said that he was so much impressed with the fervor of the prayer, that he forgave payments will take place without a single dollar being stolen from the people by the bondholders. We believe such laws as we have indicated would be productive of the greatest good to the country, and we pray your honorable body to pass them.

Fraternally yours,

MRS. CUSTER TO HOOD'S BRIGADE.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 1, 1877.

Gen. Hood:

I have repeated a series of readings from Dickens, to crowded houses, for the benefit of the Lee Memorial Association. While in Baltimore, I met a gentleman who had served in your brigade, and he was so much pleased with your letter to Mr. Robert Lee, that he invited his brigade to meet me. I read your letter to them, and it was received with three cheers! Such a letter was just what they needed, and thanks for the kindness prompted you to write it. The generous response to your appeal for the orphans of your dead comrades, shows how well they remember their leader, and how they still love and honor him who led them to victory on many a hard fought field. Your letter did more good than any thing else could do, and I know you will be glad to hear of it. I am sure it will be a great pleasure to your wife to see it in print, and I hope you will see it there soon. Very respectfully,

ELIZABETH B. CUSTER,
122 Madison Av., N. Y., City, Aug. 28.

The virtuous, republican Pittsburg Gazette thus dolefully exclaims: "In the war was a dream, and the rebels were persecuted saints, what use is there in fighting in human freedom or equal rights?"

The English never weary in their efforts at solving the mysteries of the North Pole. Sir Allen Young intends to have the steamer Pandora refitted for another start for the Arctic regions next spring.

Plevna contains a population of 17,000 souls, with 19 mosques, 2 churches, 1,600 houses inhabited by Mussulmans, and 1,100 by Christians, and under Turkish rule these Christians have no rights which the koran-guided government respects.

The Baxter City Enterprise has absorbed the Messenger, of that place, Mr. Charles E. Stokes having purchased the latter. It will be known as the Enterprise-Messenger. It would have been better independent, but we wish Clarley luck, anyhow.

A correspondent recently wrote to the Brandon (Miss.) Republican to know the difference between a radical and an independent. Here is the answer: "A radical is a republican politician who is not ashamed of the name, and an independent is a republican who is ashamed of the name, and who denies being a radical when talking to democrats, but admits it when talking to republicans. In other words an independent is a cross between a mean democrat and a mangy republican, who cannot be trusted by either."

The stalwart republicans seem to have Grant in training for 1880. We wish they would put him on the track, just to show them how Tilden and Hendricks could walk the dog of himself and any other republican that might play wheeler to him.

"The proof of the pudding's in chewing the bag." It protection is the only policy which will keep the workingman from starvation wages, how is it that at the end of fifteen years of its most unchecked sway in the history of the country, there are more starving workingmen than were ever before known?

Tide for October.—From 25th to 29th, variable, generally clouding and threatening, with heavy rains and severe gales in places. From 30th to 31st clear and cold. The warmer periods will be about the 5th, 10th, 17th, 23rd, and 27. The cooler periods will be about the 12th, 19th, 24th and 30th.

The decrease of the public debt thus far has been at the rate of $35,284,000 a year. This is about three times the yearly amount attained by England since 1815. If we can hereafter decrease the debt $10,000,000 a year and pay the interest we shall be doing well enough, and the country will be more prosperous.

The increased facilities for sending fresh meat to Europe, have caused the shipments of beef, this year, thus far, to reach a value of $8,082,966, against only $1,755,101 for the same period last year; and of mutton $413,500 against none in 1876. The live sheep sent in 1877 are valued at $61,110; in 1876 nothing; live cattle this year, $9,060,966; in 1876 an insignificant small quantity. The bulk of these shipments have been made from New York, although Boston, Portland, and Philadelphia have made contributions. The total shipment of butter from the 1st of last January to September 29, consisted of 12,250,626 pounds, against 5,819,075 last year, and of cheese 89,[illegible] against 53,806,550.
