TWO PRETTY PARTY FROCKS DESIGNED FOR GIRLISH WEARERS THIS SEASON

One of the gowns illustrated is designed especially for garden party wear. It is of vanilla charmeuse with the bodice a plain blouse made of tulle. A pleat made on the shoulder falls on each side front and back, showing a small beaded galoon front that encircles the bust.

The bodice seems to be continued by a tunic of the same material, which is lengthened on the left side by a long point. Under this tunic the skirt is draped beneath the hips.

The huge bow of Natier taffeta held up by an enamel buckle, beneath the waist, shows a long sash end falling over the skirt. This end is richly embroidered with gilt thread and vanilla silk.

The other is an evening dress for a young girl in pale rose petal silk voile, the blousing bodice is trimmed round the low neck, from about two inches to the edge with a frill of very wide ivory maline lace, crossed in front to the waist. A pale blue ribbon bow lays flat down and trims the bodice at the chest. Over the shoulder the bodice is cut as a short kimono to show an under little sleeve in maline lace. The belt is a draped pale blue ribbon, trimmed in front with a motif and tassels of white and blue beads.

The skirt is short and round at the bottom trimmed over with a long tunic raised up in the front and gathered round the waist. Three wide gathered frills are the trimming and the last one is finished all round by a wide maline lace frill.

BILLY SUNDAY OPENS UP AT STEUBENVILLE

Evangelist Starts Fall Campaign After Summer's Vacation—Goes to Johnstown and Pittsburgh.

Special to News-Times.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 15.—In good form after his summer vacation which followed his series of revival meetings in South Bend last spring, Billy Sunday, the baseball evangelist, poured the first hot shot of his campaign into 20,000 persons here Sunday. At the conclusion of the meetings, Sunday declared himself well pleased with the first day's work.

At the morning service Sunday spoke on the necessity of revivals, scoring opponents of his methods. In the afternoon he discussed the church militant, appealing to the soldierly qualities of his hearers. The evening sermon was Sunday's familiar excoriation of shams and the modern foibles of present day society.

Sunday's campaign here will last six weeks. Following the meetings here he wil go to Johnstown, Pa., and then to Pittsburgh.

"Here Goes for Another Society Brand Suit."

I AM like a good many young fellows you know. I like to dress in neat stylish clothes. I also like to get the best quality I can without paying a stiff price. That's why I am going to stop in and see Adler's about my fall togs.

You can buy a Society Brand suit or overcoat for $20 and $25, and it fits, looks and wears as well as many that cost a great deal more. The shape is cut and sewed right into the clothes, and it stays even after you're through wearing them.

You can get wool, wear and comfort in Society Brand, because they are guaranteed absolutely.

SUFFRAGIST ASKS FOR SQUARE DEAL

Member of Franchise League Tells Mother Indiana of Her Sons' Indifference.

Hoosier suffragists made the most of the opportunity offered last week by the state fair which gathered men and women to Indianapolis from all parts of the state. The advocates of suffrage were busy pushing their cause and seized the occasion to discuss the issue with willing and unwilling listeners. The Franchise league had a booth at the fair from which the members distributed suffrage literature and badges. The following letter written by one of the women who were in charge of the booth proves that even a woman suffragist has a sense of humor:

FRANCHISE BOOTH, STATE FAIR, Sept. 10.

Dear Mother Indiana—Although your children—my brothers and sisters—differ in sentiment as to the practicability or expediency of equal suffrage, I know your big warm heart expands to every movement that looks to the forwarding of your women children; and by the eternal feminine, mother o' mine, I believe you are casting curious glances over your shoulder at Sister Illinois, who has lifted her daughters to the stature of her sons.

It isn't your fault, dearest. But oh, the obstinacy of your legislature boy. Mother, it seems so strange, so lacking in family pride, that Legislature should take more interest in hogs than he does in his sisters. Can't you reason with him?

I am writing this in the between whiles of sticking pins into yellow "votes for women" streamers and offering those streamers to my brothers and sisters as they pass our temporary abiding place.

Working Hard.

We are all working till we are ready to drop. One of us has just said she thinks she must look like a Billiken with his frozen raucous smile. And sometimes not even a smile will win a moment's hearing for our cause.

Most of your children are polite, if not responsive to our friendly overtures as they pass by. But some——! Mother, I've a painful remembrance of hearing you say in days agone that you wished some inspired citizen would invent a spanker to help out. Then I thought bitterly of the unwisdom of Solomon, but now I'm with you and him. The impishness of boyhood never has struck me so forcibly as it does today.

My colored brothers and sisters are uniformly courteous, even boys of the hobbledehoy are borrowing of courtesy. The women smile understandingly. Yes, they know the negro women are working for the franchise, too. Yes, thank you, they will take a badge and one for the little girls, too. Mother, I'm thinging an appeal for liberty in any direction should closely touch this people, who so bitterly know the meaning of bondage!

Encouraging Expressions.

So many encouraging expressions for the franchise cause are heard! Men come to us asking for badges, saying they are glad to wear them. Some are of other states, where woman suffrage has been granted, and are proud of their states.

This man is big, overbearing, insulting. As a crowning witticism he calls back: "Oh, you and Mis' Pankhurst!" One of us suggests that he read the newspapers concerning Mrs. Pankhurst.

This gentleman says quietly, yes, he will have a badge, adding: "To see if it bears the union label." Oh, I say, that were hardly practicable for the streamers, but I point triumphantly to the pamphlets we are also giving out, which do bear the union label. And I tell him that the "woman movement" stands for all things that are for the bettering of the workers' condition.

Tired, But Proud.

Mother, dear, I am ready to go home. We are all tired but proud of our day's work. Eleven thousand streamers have fluttered, if only briefly, from hands and breasts. We have met more kindliness than coldness, we have laughed with our "arguflers" and smiled with our sympathizers. We are glad to remember one woman's words: "The franchise cause is growing by leaps and bounds."

The resourceful lady has fastened the tent flap, the red and blue balloons are given to little fellows nearby, the machine drives up for us. It waits while I finish this on the outside.

I shall not expect you to answer till next year, or at least till the crops are all gathered. But some night when the littlest children are tucked in bed, take your pen in hand, mother o' mine, and wish our cause godspeed, and tell the legislature boy not to be a goop forever.

With much love and many kisses,
Your daughter, O. T.

GOOD MORNING, YOUR HONOR

IS $10 ENOUGH.

Because her husband gave her only $10 a week to support a family of seven children, Mrs. Alice Buzek, 1230 W. Colfax av., appeared in police court Monday morning against her spouse. According to Mrs. Buzek her husband earns $16.50 each week and spends $6.50 for drink.

Judge Farabaugh was of the opinion that $10 a week was a reasonable sum for the support of the family. The case was continued for two weeks.

BOND IS LOWERED.

Bond in the case of Arthur Peterson, arrested for assault and battery, was lowered from $200 to $50. Peterson is charged with kicking Mrs. Joseph Vogel while she was in a serious condition. Mrs. Vogel is now in Epworth hospital, but it was held by the defense that it was not because of the fact that Peterson kicked her.

Pat Sheekey, arrested for being drunk, claimed that he was being persecuted by his brother, who complained against him.

"I expect I might as well plead guilty," he told the court.

He was informed that he didn't have to do anything of the kind, and a plea of not guilty was entered.

When court was over Sheeky changed his mind and pleaded guilty. He said he was willing to leave town. The case will be heard Tuesday.
