ANNOUNCEMENTS.

ALADDIN AND HIS WONDERFUL LAMP

Aladdin, of the story in the "Arabian Nights," was a penniless youth, who came into possession of a magical lamp, after which piece of good fortune Aladdin had a ground-floor cinch on things.

When Aladdin wanted a thing, all he had to do was to rub the lamp and wish, whereupon the Genii appeared, and delivered the goods.

In this community, the nearest thing we know to Aladdin's wonderful lamp is the CLASSIFIED columns of The News-Times.

Because of the 50,000 daily readers of The News-Times, the WANT AD works like Magic in result - producing power.

Everybody is getting the WANT AD habit—it is the short road to getting what you are looking for in nearly every emergency.
