Our Choice of Current Records

BY HARRY DENNY

Victor Records.

45303—I'm an Indian—Fanny Brice; O, How I Hate That Fellow Nathan—Fanny Brice. When Fanny Brice performs you are always sure of three things—good singing, good comedy and good orchestration. You get this delightful and entertaining combination in both of these Bricesque numbers. In the first one she is a Yiddisher squaw and in the second she is a Yiddisher spinster, with a deep and vitrolic dislike for one Nathan. O, Yo!! How she positively now hates him! Both numbers include some exceptionally clever work on the part of the orchestra.

87335—Messe Solennelle—Enrico Caruso. It is fitting and proper, so it seems, that the very last record which the immortal tenor made should be the Crucifixus from Rossini's Solemn Mass. It is especially fitting that this record should be given the public at or near the Easter season. No matter what our religious faith may be—no matter what its quality or degree may be, this record with its ancient story of death for eternal redemption of mankind brings us out, for a few minutes at least, of this cold, practical and materialistic age and gently impresses us with the old ideals of love and sacrifice. This is not the best record Caruso ever sung, but it carries with it the simple grandeur of old Latin words set to solemn but melodious music.

18866—Three o'Clock in the Morning—Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra; Lola Lo—Joseph C. Smith and his orchestra. Joe Smith has the happy knack of decorating any musical composition his orchestra attempts. Three o'Clock in the Morning is just the type of waltz the hundreds of thousands of waltzers have been crying for—smooth, steady and with a swinging melody that is unusually good. Lola Lo is something decidely new— a Hawaiian fox-trot. Naturally the strings predominate but they give to the dance a very likeable and flexible quality. Two very good numbers.

18863—Hortense—All Star Trio and their orchestra; Never Mind—All Star Trio and their orchestra. "It's Zippy!" That the way I heard a flapper describe Hortense the other night. Slang is occasionally expressive and Hortense is certainly in brisk tempo but it is mare of a conglomaration of tunes that were old when the flapper's mother was a girl. "Turkey in the Straw," "Jingle Bells," "Wait for the Wagon" and "I Swan" are the tunes that time just cannot dim. Never Mind is the sort of a fox-trot the young folks will go mad about, as it is full of quirks and adroit conceits wherein the various groups of instruments get in some very tricky committee work.

A-3543—Sally and Irene and Mary—Frank Crumit; Boo-Hoo-Hoo—Frank Crumit. Sally and Irene and Mary were three small town queens who left their native city to play on Broadway. As some one said, "I'll bet they are the only three queens that ever gave a full house a run for its money." Hear Frank Crumit and you'll like it—plus. Boo-Hoo-Hoo (You're Gonna Cry When I'm Gone) is just about the best crybaby song you ever heard. It's chuck full of weepy tearms—tears of anticipation and bitter realizations—but you'll enjoy it a lot just the same.

A-3552—Ka-Lu-A—Shannon Tour Quartet; Lalawana Lullaby—Billy Jones and Ernest Hare. At last a really good quartet number! Here is something that is unusually well done—even to the smallest detail. Like notes of a multitude of tiny silver-throated bells the music of the celesta is threated through the loom of Ka-Lu-A. The accompaniment of the Hawaiian guitars played by Ferera and Franchini give a background to the incomparable singing of the Harmony Four that is refreshing and delightful. Lalawana Lullaby is an Indian lullaby and is a song that appeals to one's taste. An especially fine bit is evident as the notes of the first chorus die away and a muted violin interpolates the air of Godard's tender pastoral melody, the "Berceuse," from Joselyn.

Okeh Records.

4540—The Woodland Flirt—Sibyl Sanderson Fagan; Dance of the Robins—Sibyl Sanderson Fagan. Miss Fagan, as an imitator of birds, is simply unbeatable. Her whistling in these two selections is very realistic; you almost see and hear the woodland scene; stately trees, green grass and alternate patchworks of cool shadows and golden sunlight and then you hear the bird voices—cooing softly, calling gently, cheeping sleepily and ecstatically running up the scale in a paean of praise of peace, happiness and sunshine—and plenty of nice worms.

MARKETS

INVESTMENT SHARES DULL ON EXCHANGE

Woolworth Is Spectacular Feature With Gain of 10 Points.

NEW YORK, March 25.—Investment shares were dull at nominal changes, but a few selected issues registered material gains in today's brief session of the stock market.

Woolworth was the spectacular feature, jumping 12 points and closing at a net gain of 10 points on reports that the directors were considering declaration of a large stock dividend.

Equipments, motors and oils also eased, partly on week-end realizing. The only noteworthy movement among rails was the strength of Missouri, Kansas and Texas preferred, and another setback in Ann Arbor common and perferred. Sales amounted to 435,000 shares.

The foreign exchange market was listless, but British and allied rates continued to react. Dutch bills hardened and German marks held their nominal recovery from the mid-week's collapse.

Changes in the weekly statement of the clearing house were unusually narrow, actual loans and discounts contracting by about $11,000,000, with a decrease of slightly less than $1,600,000 in cash holdings. The one item to show pronounced change was net demand deposits, their decrease of $87,789,000 more than offsetting the previous week's gain.

WHEAT FLUCTUATES ON BROAD MARKET

CHICAGO, March 25. — A broad market with wheat prices fluctuating rapidly and the close near the low point marked the short Saturday session on the Chicago board of trade. Wheat closer with net losses of 1¼ to 2; corn was off 1 to 1⅜; oats finished ¼ to ½ lower; lard from 12½ to 15c higher and ribs 30 to 32½ up.

In the wheat pit eastern bears attacked the May option at the start and were helped by some local traders. There was some excellent support for July when these tactics brought the later month to around $1.17 and the first and subsequent declines were checked. May received support at around $1.31 and the local shorts generally scurried to cover when this developed.

Corn was weak from the start and May went into new low ground for the present movement. Oats merely fluttered up or down in the wake of corn.

CARE IN DRIVING TO REDUCE RATES

Insurance Expert Tells How Insurance Premiums for Autos May be Cut.

NEW YORK, March 25.—When the motoring public shows a concerted movement toward greater care in driving, then will automobile insurance premiums come down.

That is the message, smacking of advice, from A. B. Roome, New York insurance expert who has been investigating methods tending to reduce auto insurance rates.

Until that "minimum of carelessness' in driving is attained, Roome says, lower rates will have to be achieved by other means. Such are:

1. Making the motorist stand a fixed portion of the loss.
2. Requiring a bill of sale with each purchase.
3. Federal registration for the life of the car.
4. Vigorous and prompt enforcement of traffic and theft laws.
5. Installation of approved theft devices.

Owner Part Insurer.

"The most promising means we have found to lower insurance rates is making the assured a co-insurer of his car," says Roome. "That is, making him stand a fixed portion of the loss. This increases the care taken by the owner.

"On the co-insurance basis the reduction in premiums is about 75 per cent, where theft, fire and collision insurance also are taken out. On theft insurance alone the reduction is 20 per cent.

"But as this form of policy is only optional with the companies, insurance brokers in their desire for business have not been pressing it. It should be made mandatory on all companies.

"Theft devices are useful only in that they delay the get-away. There are 75 such devices which have been approved by the Underwriters' laboratories in Chicago and for use of which a reduction of 15 per cent is made in the premiums.

"But after all, the quickest reduction in rates would come with the elimination of carelessness on the part of the car owner."

ALLIES' DEBTS TO BE PARLEY ISSUE

Series of Conferences Will be Held on $11,333,194,000 Debt to U. S.

BY HARRY HUNT.

Special to The News-Times.

WASHINGTON, March 25—Washington will again draw the international spotlight, early in April, with a series of conferences with European nations on what they are going to do about their debt to Uncle Sam.

These conferences will be attended by representatives of both major and minor nations—from Great Britain, France and Italy to Esthonia, Finland and Lithuania.

The indebtedness of the various countries to the United States represents, in the aggregate, more than $100 for each man, woman and child in this country, the total including overdue interest being $11,333,194,000.

Although the senate has held up temporarily, on a question of constitutionality, the confirmation of two members of congress—Senator Smoot and Representative Burton—as members of the foreign debt refunding commission, arrangements already are under way for taking up the adjustment of these loans officially at the earliest possible moment.

British Debt First.

The three members of the commission already confirmed are Sec'y of Treasury Mellon, Sec'y of State Hughes and Sec'y of Commerce Hoover. Whoever may finally be confirmed in the two remaining places, these three will be the guiding spirits of the American commission.

The British debt will be the first to be taken up. Beside being the largest, it is the only one that offers any considerable hope for early cash.

The British debt to the United States, on money and credit advanced during the war is $4,166,318,358.44. In addition, there is an item of $509,173,937 overdue interest.

Advances to Great Britain, like those to other countries, were made at various rates of interest.

To clarify the whole transaction, it is now proposed the total debt be refunded by Great Britain issuing bonds with a uniform interest rate and more advantageously spaced maturity periods.

Negotiable In Market.

Such bonds, taken by this government as security for the loan, would not necessarily have to be held till maturity for Uncle Sam to get his money back. They would be negotiable, and as market conditions justified, could be sold to private investors just as our own government bonds would be sold.

The refinancing or refunding of the French and Italian loans will call for more finesse than Great Britain's. No one in official circles expects any result with these that will produce actual money at an early date. However, they can be gotten together into the form of unified loans, at a fixed interest rate and a single maturity date, which will simplify computations and negotiations at such time as full or partial repayment is possible.

After these will come Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Serbia, Rumania and a dozen smaller fry among nations. Each will send to Washington financial representatives to assist ambassadors or ministers in getting their debt to Uncle Sam refunded and extended.

FIND EX-EVANGELIST KILLS SELF IN RIVER

NEW YORK, March 25.—Police today reached the conclusion that Dr. Dewitt C. Tremaine, first an evangelist, then known as an authority on executive management and factory production, was a suicide.

Despite the fact that after his disappearance March 13 his clothes were found last Saturday on the Jersey shore of the Hudson, his family insist that the police are wrong and that Dr. Tremaine is alive. Mrs. Tremaine admitted, however, that her husband recently had become despondent because of his small income.

Dr. Tremaine recently was manager of personal work for the Associated Industries of Indiana.
