THE funeral of Mrs. Lydia Porter, whose death was mentioned Monday, will take place in the Christian Church this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. W. S. Priest officiating. The deceased was the widow of the late Edward Porter, and was fifty-nine years of age. Hers is the second death in the family during the past month or so, a daughter having died about four weeks ago.

BILL MACON, colored, was fined $50 and sent to jail thirty days, at Paris, for raising a row with Dr. John Warnock, formerly of this city. The doctor is depot policeman at that place, and had warned a brakeman of some threats the negro had made. This did not suit Macon, and he tried to do up the doctor. The Bourbon News says Warnock snapped a pistol at Macon a couple of times, but luckily for William it refused to go off.

District Sunday School Convention.

The district convention of the Sunday schools of the Christian Churches in Mason, Fleming and Robertson counties was held at Mayslick last Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The discussions were spirited, the singing fine, led by Elder Alex C. Hopkins, State Sunday School Evangelist, and the basket dinner on Saturday was such a luncheon as the sisters of the church know how to spread. The committee in charge of the tables follows: Mrs. Hugh Warder, Mrs. H Forman, Mrs. L. A. Clay, Mrs. Dr. Browning, Mrs. Frank Pogue, Miss Lissie Chinn, Mrs. Eneas Myall, Mrs. Jonas Myall, Mrs. Will Myall, Mrs. Sanford Mitchell, Mrs. Andred Fox, Mrs. Dr. Wheatly, Mrs. Captain Fox, Mrs. Ben Longnecker, Mrs. Julia Longnecker and Mrs. Gibson.

The following visitors were present: Mrs. Fitch, with Sunday school from Elizaville; Elder Morrison; Elder and Mrs Priest, Maysville; Mrs. Willett, Mrs. Clark and Mrs Winn Wells, Helena; Mrs. Mary Slack, Fern Leaf; Mrs. Sallie McDonald, Washington; Mrs. Sam Riley, Maysville; Mrs. King and Miss Mollie Chandler, Fleming County; Miss Lula Woolums, Fayette County; Mrs. Orville Mitchell and Miss Mary Author, Mason County.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

GERMANTOWN.

Miss Ella Poe, of Elgin, Ill., is visiting Mrs. T. J. Winter

T. M. Donald left Tuesday morning on a prospecting tour in the West. Thinks he will go as far as Los Angeles, Cal.

The Misses Frisle, our popular teachers, will eat Thanksgiving dinner at their home in Ohio.

Maurice Browning thinks of taking a graded course in our academy.

Rev. A. Penn, of Pendleton County, preached in the M. E. Church, South Sunday morning and night. Rev. H. C. Wright, the pastor, is holding a successful meeting in Pendleton County, having had twenty-five additions up to Friday night last.

Mrs. Lulie Johnson and her two sons, accompanied by Mr. P. B. Johnson, will remove to Covington this week to reside. Thus one by one the old and valued citizens of our town are deserting us. For nearly sixty years the family mansion they are leaving has been the hospitable home of preachers, friends and relatives and strangers. It was built by R. P. Dimmitt deceased, father of Mrs. Johnson, and has been occupied by him or his children continuously to the present time, and we have no doubt but the warmest affections and tenderest memories of Mrs. Johnson will linger around the home of her youth and the "spot where she was born"

In the year 1811, in the tan-yard of William Currens, just north of this place, two young men began life's struggle—James Savage and Robert P. Dimmitt. The former married one of the daughters of their landlord in 1818, settled in Germantown where he lived and died.

The latter married another daughter of his landlord in 1822, and settled near Orangeburg, in Mason County. After living there a few years he returned to Germantown, moved in a small farme house on Main street and sold dry goods. His business increased and with the aid of his father-in-law in 1841 he erected the present brick mansion where he and his companion lived and died in a ripe old age.

On one of his trips east for goods he brought with him from Baltimore a relative, Miss Caroline Davis, about the year 1827. She was married soon after to Jacob Dimmitt, and in later years to the late George Cox, of Maysville.

One day while leaning over his bench at work, at the tan-yard, he saw two little girls playing around a vat. One of them fell in, and he reached the spot in time to catch the floating hair and save the life of her who afterwards became his bride.

The tan-yard lives only in name, the green grass grows over its ruins, as well as over the resting place of its busy actors, and but few of us who played there in happy boyhood days remain to recount its history.

We might add that Mrs. Cox ran off with her first husband, and was married at Aberdeen. People knew the way to Aberdeen then as well as now.

The residence of Cleon Insko, near Bridgeville, burned Monday morning before day light. He barely saved his wife and children, losing all their clothing and household goods, save three beds and a sewing machine. The house of William Berry, of the same neighborhood, caught fire on Saturday last and was extinguished after burning a large hole in the roof. Fires have been very frequent of late, and it behooves everybody to be extremely careful during this excessive drouth.

"Mother, I'll never shoot this gun again," said Albert, as the darkness came around him last Saturday, and he laid his gun down. Whether he promised to live a better life or not, our informant did not state.

MAYSLICK.

John Moore, a very exemplary young man of Germantown, has set in with Jones Myall, to learn the blacksmith trade.

David Lawrence, who has been keeping the Laytham toll-gate for two years past, has moved to Robertson County. When last heard from was not expected to live.

Willie Thompson is home from Michigan to attend his sister's wedding.

Chas. Moore, of Germantown, made us a social call Saturday.

A good many killed hogs last week.

The Anarchists have been trying their hand in this place. On the night of the 17th instant some unknown parties placed a lot of powder under a tenant house, but not enough to accomplish their purpose. No damage done.

Frank Mullican, of Robertson County, was here last Saturday trying to sell some stock hogs.

Mr. J. A. Jackson and son returned from their trip to Bourbon County last Saturday.

Last Saturday we had a fearful snow storm. It turned so dark that the lamps had to be lighted.

The Sunday School Convention held last Friday and Saturday was a very pleasant affair, under the management of Alex. C. Hopkins, Sunday School Evangelist.
