

Saint Mary's Beacon.

LEONARDTOWN, MD.

THURSDAY Morning, Aug. 19th, 1886.

The Mexican war fever is simmering down somewhat. This Government will gain its point without having to resort to war.

Mr. A. S. Abell, the proprietor of that excellent newspaper, the Baltimore Sun, has just celebrated his eightieth birthday. He is still hale and hearty.

The Republican State Central Committee has been called to meet in Baltimore at noon to-day. It will arrange the dates and places of the Congressional nominating conventions.

On the 1st day of October next all classes of mail matter may be sent with a special delivery stamp to any postoffice in this country. The stamp costs 10 cents and postmasters are required to deliver such mail matter immediately upon receiving it. Fourth-class postmasters will be allowed eight cents for every special delivery package they send out.

Monday last, in the presence of a large assemblage and with imposing ceremonies the DeKalb statue was unveiled at Annapolis. Secretary of State Bayard made an address which was received with tremendous applause and Col. J. Thos. Scharf delivered an eloquent oration. If ever a man deserved a monument the Baron DeKalb did, and it is peculiarly appropriate that it should be placed on Maryland soil. The epitaph ordered by the Continental Congress in 1780 recites that DeKalb, "fell leading on the troops of the Maryland and Delaware lines against superior numbers—animating them to deeds of valor, and pierced with many wounds." Every school boy is familiar with the Baron's history but we regret that our space will not permit us to publish the eloquent speeches of the gifted men who last Monday spoke in his praise. Americans cannot too often recall the noble deeds of such a gallant man.

(Correspondence of the Beacon.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 16, 1886. Messrs. Editors:—The recent announcement of Hon. A. M. Keiley's appointment to an important and dignified position under the Egyptian government, has caused considerable surprise in political circles here. It is said at the State Department that Mr. Keiley's appointment was decided upon immediately after the resignation of Judge Batchelor, the former incumbent of the office. The salary attached to the office is about $8,000, and is paid by the Egyptian government.

The Cutting case continues to be the leading topic of discussion. It is understood that the question was very thoroughly discussed at the last Cabinet meeting, but nothing of importance regarding the matter has been given to the public. The State Department officials are more than ordinarily reticent on the subject and nothing can be learned at the War Department. It is believed, however, that although Mr. Bayard has made no further demand upon Mexico, that he is still firm in the position that he has taken, and that it has been decided to await the decision of the Supreme Court of Mexico, to which an appeal has been taken, before taking further steps in the premises. The Secretary of War left upon his summer vacation on Thursday last, and as one of the officials remarked, "That doesn't look much like war, does it?"

Pending the settlement of the Cutting matter orders have been given by the Mexican Government postponing the commencement of work upon the new legation building here, the plans of which were recently approved, and work was to have been commenced at once.

The reappointment of Mr. James C. Matthews, the new Recorder of Deeds for the District, after his name had been rejected by the Senate, was a surprise to every one. As by the terms of Mr. Fred Douglass' resignation he was to hold the office until his successor had qualified, he has continued to draw the salary regularly until Wednesday last, when the office was formally transferred to Mr. Matthews.

A prominent ex-United States Senator, who was interviewed by a reporter of the Washington Critic, made the statement that "whenever the Senate of the United States—which has equal co-ordinate power with the President in the matter of appointment of officers—rejects the nomination of a person whose name has been sent in by the President for appointment to a certain office, such rejection is advising the Executive that the Senate does not consent to the appointment; and by this official act of that body the person whose name was rejected is constitutionally disqualified from performing the duties and receiving the trusts and profits of that certain office while the recorded judgment of the Senate remains unreversed. That is the whole case in a nut shell, and there is no law or precedent to gainsay it. The President must have acted in these matters without consideration or consultation."

The statue of General Rawlins, which was formerly placed upon a reservation at the intersection of New York Avenue and 18th Street, is about to be removed to the small triangle at the southeast corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 9th Street. The transfer of the statue was brought about by the Army of the Tennessee, as it was thought that the memorial to so distinguished an officer should have a more prominent site than had been afforded it.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland have all of their plans arranged, and left for the Adirondack wilderness, in Northern New York, early this week. They are engaged rooms at the celebrated summer hotel of Paul Smith's, upon the Upper Saranac Lake, and will probably spend four or five weeks at least in the woods.

MARRIED. On 10th inst., JAS. B. FERGUSON to Miss REBECCA A. CHESEBINE.

DIED. In this district, on the 11th inst., WILLIAM L. ANGLY, aged about 20 years. At the residence of her parents, in Medley's Neck, DELLIE NORRIS, aged about 8 years.

On the 18th inst., LILLIAN E., daughter of Frank N. and Laura Holmes, aged 10 months and 10 days. Just at the age when children are most interesting, her death is a sore blow to her parents. The writer knows how dear a little one grows to the heart and sympathizes truly with the parents in their affliction. At the residence of her parents, in Leonardtown, on Tuesday, August 17th, 1886, J. L. U., second daughter of Dr. Charles and Rosa Combs, in the 18th year of her age. May she rest in peace.

Not only her immediate family and relatives, but also a wide circle of acquaintances and friends mourn with heartfelt sorrow the death of Miss LILLIAN COMBS. On her Heaven bestowed its choicest gifts with no chary hand. A kind heart, a cultivated mind, rare beauty, all were hers. A few short days ago, warm with fond hope, the pride of loving hearts, she brightened with her presence the social circle and a happy home. To-day, in many hearts there is an aching void, and the family gathering a vacant chair. When just budding into womanhood, with life at its brightest, was she called away. Death's partings, ever sad, are doubly so under circumstances like these. What the heart then feels words can never express and to attempt it were idle. For the bereaved ones, we have the sincerest sympathy, and ours is the earnest hope and the firmest belief that the sweet soul, Death last Tuesday plucked now blooms, full blown, in Heaven.

OBITUARY. To the memory of MARY E., wife of F. L. Mattingly, and daughter of George W. and Sarah M. Mattingly, who died on the 17th day of her age.

Farwell, dear one, 'tis hard to say Thy will, O Lord, be done, Though still we feel the need of reward, Her crown of glory won. But O we miss her pleasant face, Our hearts throbb with pain, To think that she has passed away To ne'er return again.

How sad the home she once adorned! How sad the very air! Which seems to tell our weary hearts No, no, she is not there! But O a gleam of comfort comes— These promises so bright— To walk in God's own light. There safe and free from all earth's care, Where sickness is unknown, She rests upon the arms of Christ In His eternal home. Then cease to weep, heart-stricken friends, Thy loved one is not dead, But waits in God's hand where she leads.

THE WHITE. An improved big arm Sewing Machine. The advantage of a high arm, admitting the passage under it of bulky garments without unfastening or soiling the compacting by them, is too well known to require description. It will last a life time and its range of work exceeds that of any other machine. WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS. Among the many advantages of the White machine are its simple, self-setting in every sense of the word—always right. It has the least complicated, the most simple, durable and complete shuttle ever made, simplicity in threading being an especial feature. The shuttle tension is so arranged that you can increase it or decrease it without removing the shuttle from the machine or disarranging the work. All wearing parts of the White are made adjustable, so that any lost motion incident to long usage can be easily taken up, thus avoiding the delay and expense in duplicating parts. The simplicity in threading the White is unequalled by any other machine, and we would particularly call attention to the fact in either the upper or lower thread, there is no hole to thread through excepting the eye of the needle. For Family Use, Dress Making, Tailoring, the White is without a peer. T. Lee Harden, Agent, COMPTON, Md. July 29.
