Local Dettings.

To Our Patrons.

Parties interested will bear in mind that on Monday, the 20th instant, the September Term of our Circuit Court commences. This will occasion trips to Leonardtown, and we extend a polite invitation to all comers having unsettled accounts with us to give us a call and pay respects, if nothing else.

Our Full Page

contain a full report of the preliminary hearing of Benjamin Bisce, colored, charged with the murder of Capt. Robert Dixon, and also an article on Earthquakes.

Postponed.

The tournament and ball for the benefit of the Catholic Chapel at Mechanicsville is postponed until the 15th of October. Saddle, bridle and whip can be seen at J. T. Ballenger's store.

Head.

A handsome crayon portrait of the Rev. Father Neal, painted by Miss Aggie Armstrong, of Washington, and donated to St. George's church, will be raffled for 25 cents a chance. Persons desiring a chance can obtain the same by calling at the church or forwarding the money to Mrs. J. B. Armstrong, Piney Point, Md.

Appointment.

Thos. F. Jordan, Jr., colored, of the second district, has been appointed Steward of the Oyster Police Steamer Gov. Thomas. The place of a good paying one and those who know him say that it has been given to a good man. Capt. Loker informed us also, that in a short time the colored cook (a Baltimorean) now on board, would be replaced by a St. Mary's colored man.

Webster & Son's Fertilizers.

We wish to call the attention of the farmer to the advertisement of Webster & Son's, Cambridge, Md., in another column. These gentlemen are manufacturers of experience and long standing, and also practical farmers, thus guaranteeing to the farmer something worth his money. Their ammoniated and phosphoric acid is derived from purely animal matter, thus making a superior grade. To try it is to like it.

Good Hales.

Last week, Messrs. Thomas C. Price & Co., sold for Mr. Charles V. Hayden, of this neighborhood, eight hogsheads of tobacco at the following prices: 3 hogsheads for $1 each, 3 for $1.10, 1 for $1.15. Messrs. Dudley, Carpenter & Co., have sold for Mr. Jas. T. Abell, of Newton, six hogsheads, acting Mr. A. & B. These sales show that fair tobacco, well handled, will sell for good prices and pay farmers for its cultivation.

Merry Visitors.

Last Monday, a crowd, fantastically dressed, led the Sage, marched up in the village and succeeded in awakening our sleepy citizens and, unintentionally, very much frightening the prisoner, Bisce, who thought they had come to lynch him. They were, however, not on lynching but pleasure bent, and, we hope, enjoyed their harmless escapade. We have the pleasure of an acquaintance with some of the party and know them to be pleasant and polished gentlemen, who, like wise men, now and then, relish a little nonsense.

Quine Plague.

Mr. James T. Abell, of Newton, furnishes us with another remedy for the hog cholera. He has tried what he recommends and cured by it eighteen out of nineteen diseased hogs. Mr. L. W. Knott, of the same neighborhood, after losing five or six, also tried the remedy and lost no more. Mr. Abell's hogs were all black, but after taking the medicine and recovering they turned iron-grey. Mr. Abell's prescription is: "Take strongest tobacco obtainable, pour water into it and boil, making a strong decoction. In this soak corn and feed to hogs." If the animals are not so far gone as to refuse to eat, this remedy, Mr. A. contends, will cure them.

Mechanicsville Items.

The Railroad company has settled up all of its indebtedness between Brandywine and Mechanicsville, so states Mr. Leach, the contractor. The hands, who upon his refusal to become responsible for the wages, quit work, have returned. The repair upon the old part will soon be completed. It will then be seen what the company intends to do towards extending the line further.

The late dry spell injured tobacco crops very much. It is not considered possible for a full crop of either corn, or tobacco to be made.

The Rectory in this village is completed, and the Rector, the Rev. Dr. Dashiell is moving in.

Mr. J. T. Ballenger has had erected a counting-room adjoining his store.

Mrs. Mary Greenfield died at the residence of her husband Mr. George Greenfield near his village on Saturday the 4th, instant. Aged about 70 years. A large circle of relatives, friends and acquaintances mourn their loss.

The primaries here on the 4th inst., were sparsely attended.

Prize Fight on the Patuxent.

A reliable gentleman friend informs us that some days ago Miss Lyles, colored, of the 6th district, sent a challenge to another dusky damsel of the same section—Miss Sewell—to meet her at or near St. Johns, and determine in the prize ring which was the better woman. Concluding that the place was not suitable for their purposes the ring was finally moved to Sandy Bottom, and there on that famous old fighting ground, they fought it out. Our informant states that the mothers of the pugilists were their seconds. Eight rounds were fought and both parties severely punished. When the ninth round was called it was apparent that Miss Lyles was getting the better of her antagonist and her mother, seeing this, also took a hand. Then, in the expressive language of an eye witness, "the fur flew." Miss L. was the conceded champion of the Holly wood section and now claims the championship of the county.

Personal.

Mr. Robt. J. Heard, of Catonsville, Baltimore county, is visiting his family in this district.

Dr. Brooke, of the Baltimore Sea, is on a trip to our county. Tuesday, he visited the jail and interviewed Bisce.

The majority of our school-going friends have left for their respective Colleges and Academies. They will be much missed. Marie, the eldest daughter of Mr. J. Simms Fenwick, who, for sometime past, has been quite sick, is fast recovering. Harry Combs and others of our neighboring sick ones are also improving and will, we hope, soon be well again.

Mr. E. J. Lockwood, of Washington, a pleasant and clever gentleman, who has nearly completed his course of study and will soon be made a minister, is visiting at Mr. J. T. M. Raley's. We have met Mr. L. and though much impressed by his conversation, are not yet ready to accept his doctrine that the way to bliss is by the Lusty Route.

St. Inigo's Items.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

The earthquake shock which was felt here about 10:30 p. m., 31st ultimo is the severest that has been experienced since the shock which occurred in 1811 when the town of New Madrid, in Missouri, was partly destroyed. During the recent shock, houses rocked violently, bedsteads were thrown down, ladies fainted, children screamed, young men turned pale, and old men's knees acted similar to Belshazzar's when the fingers of a man's hand wrote an unknown sentence on the wall of the King's room. It seems that we are nearing the end of that period spoken of by St. Paul, "The last days," and the appearance of Him of whom the prophets have spoken with no "uncertain sound," and whom heathen sages as Confucius and Zoroaster have dimly foreseen. The weather is much cooler than it was a week back.

A few farmers are pulling fodder and cutting tops.

Sweet potatoes are being shipped to Washington and Baltimore. Fair figures are realized per bushel.

A goodly number of persons will have a small killing of hogs this season. The disease continues hereabouts, and it is of the most malignant type. This stage of the disease forcibly impresses us with the idea that the Creator by his power (omnipotence) "intensifies evils that are in existence already, instead of creating entirely new plagues."

"Mr. Beckler's Bride."

Under the above caption, an article copied from the Washington Post in our issue of the 26th ult., contains several erroneous and misleading statements. I notice they also appear, substantially at least, in the Enterprise, and in the Baltimore American, and which, in the continued absence of the parties from the city, you will please allow me to correct.

In the first place, the personal description of the young man is wholly incorrect, and casts an unjust reflection on the good tastes of both ladies concerned.

There were no wedding trousseaus prepared by either of the ladies, nor were they expecting to be married at any definitely fixed time.

The married couple did not remain in Baltimore several days after their marriage (Thursday, August 12) but were both at their respective homes in this city in two hours thereafter, and did not meet again until the following Monday after the truant young man had informed the other young lady of his course. He did not send her a trifling note with this information, but went in person, as he did several times, unsuccessfully, for the same purpose, and which accounts for his visits to her after his marriage—save in the visit to the roller coaster, which was by previous arrangement and in company with another lady.

No one more deeply regrets to the publicity of this purely personal affair than the aggrieved lady herself, which entitles her to increased sympathy from all. All the good qualities ascribed to her and to her honored family are justly merited, and prove the great sacrifice impelled upon the young man at the shrine of his first and earliest love.

Z. S. BECKLER, WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.

A Strike at California.

Your correspondent has long since advocated a strike for labor instead of wages, being of the opinion that the many strikes through the country have been to a large percent the cause of the hard times, and it seems that a strike has originated at this place in our public schools. For about eight years has the present incumbent performed her duty as teacher of said school, with credit to our county as well as the little trusts, always pleasing the large majority of both patrons and pupils. But as usual all good enterprises find some opposition, and as there are but few exceptions to this general rule, do not wonder at this. At last a real strike for said school has been made, and a petition to the patrons has been resorted to, with, I learn, 13 out of 16 for the old teacher. For some reason unknown to your correspondent, at a meeting in the school house on Saturday last the trustees, failed to appoint a teacher. This seems not to be confined to California.

nia alone, as there is a considerable strike in the Jarboville colored school taught by the eminent Mr. P. H. J. Houshond. Who the applicants are for said schools I am unable to define, and though amid the vacillancy of a civilized world the peoples' choice may not be made.

The operation of this section seems to be making a strike on their boats, getting them ready for the opening season of that business which they seem to be looking forward to with much enthusiasm, but not being an oysterman myself am not able to conjecture the condition of said water product until it is on the table.

There is another strike, and as usual I keep the best for the last. The widower of this section seems to be making a heavy strike. He does not confine himself to Price alone, but adds to the pleasure of the Washington ladies who have been visiting friends on the Patuxent. As he is entertaining, together with good looks, fine bugle, and a fast horse, is sufficient to charm any fair lady, but with a sigh he had to say good bye, with the words, I shall think of you at sunrise and ten times as often as it sets beyond the westward horizon. Though the wide blue waters separate us, a trip to Washington is soon expected as gloves are worn with fingers out short.

The crops in this section are generally good. Hon. J. P. Crane has been forced to build a barn, 30x80 feet, to house his large crop of tobacco, which has added to the industries of this section. The Judge seems to be making many improvements on his place, which makes him a useful man to his community. Time forbids more at present.

THOMAS JEFFERSON, [COMMUNICATED.] CALIFORNIA, Aug. 30, 1886.

Messrs. Editors—If you have any supplements on hand you will please send me a few of them, as they may have a tendency to turn at least the thoughts of the Editors of the Enterprise to my solicited discussion, though they seem so indisposed to anything except a throwing of mud, and then it must be made up of dirty water, while I cannot, if all foreign nations are at war, so I have perfect peace at home guaranteed. Somewhat like the American Eagle, I followed my beak to be pulled, but when the same native attempted to pull out my pin feathers, with the pride of my own heart and respect for my little family, I had to brawl. Take water or come to time!

Respectfully, L. J. WISE.

The Dixon Murder. On our fourth page we give a full report of the preliminary hearing in the Dixon murder trial. The prisoner, it will be seen, asserts that another man committed the murder and that he (the prisoner) was set ashore at Huggins by this man. The theory now generally adopted, regards this statement as false and assumes that Bisce was the only man aboard. The Sea, of Sept. 7, contains an account of the inquest and brings out facts tending to prove the correctness of this idea. It says: "An examination of the skull revealed a comminuted fracture of the blow that caused it must have been a powerful one and inflicted with a heavy club. The blow was received on the left side of the head, and the fracture extended upward to the temporal bone into and through the occipital to the medium line, and then extending entirely through the parietal bone. A V-shaped piece of the temporal bone, an inch or more long, was driven in and detached from the main bone. The condition of the body was such that the jury could not determine whether the thrust was cut or not, but those who saw it when first found are positive that it had been. The opinion of Captain George Dixon is that there was no other hand aboard the sloop but the negro Bisce. He says he was in Washington when his uncle sailed from that port, and saw him when he got under way and started down the river, and is positive that Bisce was the only hand aboard the sloop."

His uncle was in the habit of having but one hand, one being all that was needed to work the sloop. Capt. Robert Dixon was well known in Alexandria, and if he did stop in that city and take on another hand some one or more of the inhabitants must have seen him, and could easily prove the truth or falsity of Bisce's statement.

Court begins next Monday week.

The post-office at Piney Point has been moved to Mr. Swann's store.

The recent democratic convention was remarkable for its unity of purpose and the consequent harmony prevailing.

T. Edward Loker has been re-commissioned and has qualified as Registrar of the 1st district.

The pressure of other matter upon our columns this week has compelled us to omit several correspondences and locals.

The Female Academy, near this village, resumed classes, last Monday, with 16 scholars and 36 day pupils.

A revelation to a 6th district friend, that $300 had been buried under a barn, has nearly been the cause of the overturning of the barn but has not yet resulted in the upturning of the dollars.

The question of jurisdiction in the Dixon murder case has not yet been determined. Some lawyers contend that it should be tried in St. Mary's; others, that Virginia is the proper place for the trial.

Our thanks are returned Mr. Albert Edekin for a copy of the Augusta Chronicle; an unknown friend for the Tacoma (Wash. Terr.) Ledger; and Rev. P. A. Her Jenkins for a present of mammoth apples.

Among the recent arrivals at our Hotels, are, at Moore's, Mr. A. L. Jackson and lady, and G. A. Davidson and lady, all of Washington; at Fenwick's, Misses Jennie Kane and Nora Barrett, both of Washington.
