THE NATIONAL UNION REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President,
ULYSSES SIMPSON GRANT,
Of Illinois.

For Vice-President,
SCHUYLER COLFAX,
Of Indiana.

SHALL WE MAKE THE EFFORT!

The Legislature, at its last session, adopted two Joint Resolutions, entitled as follows: One "Authorizing the appointment of a committee on the subject of the erection of an additional Penitentiary;" the other "Relative to the establishment of an institution for reforming and protecting unfortunate and refractory juvenile females."

The first resolution provides for the appointment of a joint select committee, consisting of three members on the part of the Senate, and five members on the part of the House, whose duty it shall be to inquire into the necessity of an increase of prison accommodations, and visit the various localities of the State with the view of determining the best locality for such prison as it may be advisable to construct, and receive proposals from such localities, with donations of land or other property; and that said committee report the result of all such examinations, together with such proposals as may be made, to the next session of the Legislature.

The second resolution, in regard to a Reform School for juvenile females, provides for a joint committee of two on the part of the Senate and three on the part of the House, who are authorized "to examine sites and receive proposals, gifts or donations towards the establishment of such an institution, and report to the Legislature at the adjourned session." Messrs. Evans, Griswold, Kennon, Jones and Gallup have been appointed as the committee under the last named resolution. We have not seen the name of the committee under the first resolution.

It is right and proper that the public institutions of the State should be distributed in different parts of the State, according to fitness of locality. The public institutions, thus far, have been located entirely in the old settled portions of the State. The Northwest, being comparatively newly settled, has been entirely neglected in the distribution of these institutions. It will be but a few years before this part of the State will be as populous as any, and have the second city in population.

We believe the time has come, when the Northwest should be known as a component part of the State, and have her share in the distribution of the State institutions. We claim that the Northwest is entitled in the location of one of the institutions contemplated by these resolutions. We think it would be a good plan for the several counties of the Northwest to hold a convention and interchange views on the subject of the location of the above institutions, and present proposals to the committees.

We have a favorite location in our own estimation; but our views are large enough to yield our location to any other in the Northwest, that may be deemed the most suitable. Old Fort Meigs is our favorite locality for it. It is high, slightly, healthy and accessible from all parts of the State by railroad. It is a spot cherished in the minds of the people of Ohio, and ought to become the property of the State. It is in every respect suitable for the location. It is near Toledo, a rapidly-growing city, that is destined to become the second city in importance in the State, and is entitled to its location in her vicinity. Let us endeavor, at any rate, to secure the location of one of these institutions in Northwestern Ohio, and leave the particular locality to be determined according to its fitness and other circumstances. If we move energetically in this matter, it will not be difficult to secure one of the institutions. Shall we make the effort?

SEYMOUR AND BLAIR.

The Democratic National Convention, after nearly one week of trading, dickering, buying, selling and swindling, has chosen for its standard-bearers, Horatio Seymour and Francis P. Blair. If they had secured the Union over and remained in Convention until November they could not have selected a weaker ticket. We shall now have a square, stand up fight, for we know the men and know their principles. The Ohio State Journal draws the following graphic portraiture of the candidates. The coloring is none too strong, and the contrast that follows well and truly defined:

The one who heads the ticket, the friend of rioters—proclaiming himself the friend of rioters—who sought to stab the patriotic defenders of the country in the back, never daring to make a front attack, during the struggle for the Nation's life.

The other, who follows, a corrupt, drunken, bellowing, gasconading blatherskite, and lifelong political trickster, who now advises the overthrow of the reconstructed governments by force of arms, the inauguration of a new civil war, and the re-establishment of rebel supremacy through blood and fire.

The unquestioned ability of Horatio Seymour intensifies and multiplies his devilish capacity for mischief, infinitely. There is no limit to the danger which would follow the placing of the reins of power in such hands.

Seymour is the crafty, cold-blooded politician, nominated after five days of the most stupendous wire-pulling and trickery ever known in the history of man.

Grant, the honest, straightforward soldier, was nominated before ever a Convention met, by the irresistible, overwhelming voice of the people, moving by the mighty instinct of almost Omnipotent forecast and power.

Seymour was a peace man of the peace men, when peace meant the disintegration of the Government, and the destruction of the country.

Grant was a war man, and a war man to the purpose, developing his views in the capture of prisoners, arms and munitions of war, in the scourging of traitors, and in the purging of treason with fire.

The contrast is endless in extent. Day is not more bright than Grant's patriotic record; Night is not darker than the strenuous record of his opponent.

The New York Herald, the most sensitive barometer of political movements and political success, and always shaping its policy and trimming its sails in harmony with the strongest battalions, says:

The die is cast. The Democratic Convention has decided that our next President shall be Gen. Grant.

The old fable of the mountain in labor has been fully realized, and the delivery is a ridiculous mouse, as the Democratic Presidential candidate against the conqueror of the rebellion. Seymour against Grant in 1868, amounts to a Democratic surrender or the disbanding of the Democratic party. The ticket of McClellan against Lincoln was a strong ticket, compared with this of Seymour against Grant. It has no prestige but that of defeat. We can give no countenance to this retrograde movement of the Democratic party. The successful movements of the age are progressive, and we must go with them. All the world is going forward, except our Democratic party. It is behind Austria, Russia, Turkey and China; for they all recognize the necessity of shaping their policy to the pressure of living events. Seymour is behind the age, and Blair, as a soldier, pinned to his ticket, makes a mockery of the combination. Grant and Colfax, against such a ticket, will sweep the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, because the blockheads of the Democratic party will have it that we are still living under the regime of poor Pierce and Buchanan.

Seymour, who blandly informed the Democratic Convention that he could not accept the nomination without dishonor to himself and ruin to his party, kicks lower to the dogs, and accepts. He carried on a most consummate flirtation with the Convention, slaughtered all competitors for its honors, and took them himself with all the coy pretensions of modesty and innocence displayed by a coquette. With sanctimonious hypocrisy, and the baldest lies of a beast, he gulled the Convention and brought it to his feet—a thing which he will not find so easy to do with the people in November next.

The Wheat Harvest.

The reports from the harvest fields are generally favorable, but in certain localities the rust has blighted the hopes of the farmers. Such is the fact in many places in the Little Miami valley, while in the valley of the Great Miami river there is little or no complaint of the quality of the crop.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The following article is reproduced from the Blade of the 11th, whose editors say "the writer is a sound, hard-working, influential Republican, who has always supported Mr. Ashley, and who will again, if he is again nominated:"

The Effect of the Renomination of Mr. Ashley upon the Party of the district.

Editor Blade: This is the question to which we call the attention of Republicans of this district. One fact is too obvious to need discussion, and that is, to make success certain the nominee for Congress, whoever he may be, must be able to carry the full strength of his party vote. Without intending it as any personal disparagement to the present incumbent, I will submit a few facts and figures which seem to me, to be conclusive on the subject. For the last three elections Mr. Ashley has not been able to carry the full Republican strength of his party in this district. In 1864, while the momentous issues of the war were undecided, when all true Republicans felt it necessary to support their party nominations to sustain the Union organization, he ran about 2,000 votes behind his ticket, and as it will be remembered, was defeated on the home vote, but his election saved by the vote of the soldiers in the field. If at that election he had received the full Republican vote, his majority would have been 3,000.

Had Mr. Lincoln, who was our candidate for President at that election, been relatively as popular in the loyal States as Mr. Ashley was in this Congressional district, the Copperheads would have elected their President, and the war would have been a "failure" indeed.

Again in 1866 the last Congressional election Mr. Ashley ran behind his ticket in seven out of the eight counties in his district, and in that county (Henry) he ran two votes ahead of his ticket, which exception is said to have been owed by an arrangement in which a certain judge in the U. per part of the district was the loser, and who promises to give satisfaction should Mr. A. be a candidate this fall. At his last election, in Lucas County alone, he wanted 483 votes to make him even with the State ticket; and it should be remembered, on this election, the apostate Andy Johnson rendered eminent services to Mr. Ashley by making his visit to this district, in his proclamation "around the circle." A great many Republicans then voted for Ashley, not because they personally liked him, but because they wished to rebuke Johnson.

I assert that Mr. Ashley has more opposition and less strength in the Republican party in this district than any other good man spoken for. Its position, and I am sure my friends will agree with me.

Facts are facts, and as sensible men we must take them as such, and act accordingly. I have no fault to find with Mr. Ashley's votes in Congress. I have cheerfully supported him at five Congressional elections, and shall do so again if he is renominated, but I would suggest to his friends if we are to have a Republican member in the next Congress from this district, we must nominate a man who can carry the full strength of his party; and this Mr. A. has not done for the last three elections. It does not relieve us from the difficulty to call those Republicans hard names who will not vote for him, for there are hundreds of them in this district who have uniformly voted the Union ticket and will this fall support Grant, who cannot be persuaded to vote for Ashley. The truth is, those who are posted in the matter are satisfied if he is nominated, he will run behind his ticket from 1,000 to 1,500 votes.

It is due from Mr. Ashley that the Republicans of this district should be relieved at the coming election from the embarrassments which his nomination is sure to create. Give us any other nominee of tried and true principles, with good practical sense, and there will be a unity of feeling and concert of action in the Republican party, which we have not experienced for some time, and which will insure our triumph this fall. REPUBLICAN.

In directing attention to the above, the Blade says:

We are aware that the renomination of Mr. Ashley would cost us votes, and that if politics should take such a turn as last fall, it would be difficult to election. * * * Whether it is well to place in the field a candidate who cannot rally to his standard the full strength of the party, is a question for the delegates to consider. It is our desire that they may come together unpledged and free to act for the interests of the party. Let them assemble, not in the interest of any particular man, but with an eye simply to the interests of the party and the great cause it champions. Let them come together determined to place in nomination the best and strongest man that we may go into the contest this all unencumbered and in condition to maintain the credit of the District. Let the question be fully discussed in the right spirit. Let there be on the one hand no personal hatred to bias judgment, on the other no mere man worship. The triumph of Republican principles is what every good Republican desires, and that consideration is the only one that should have any weight. To this end every Republican should be willing to sacrifice personal dislikes, and personal preferences as well.

A question, by a cotemporary, is pertinent enough here: Are Mr. Ashley's services so valuable as to make it worth our while to take even the slightest chance of defeat with him, while with another, as our standard-bearer, success is certain?

DEMOCRACY DEPRESSED.

The Democratic nominations are everywhere agreeably received by Republicans—we may say, almost with enthusiasm. But Democrats are in doleful dumps. Not a cheer, not a beam of facial radiance has yet given assurance of reaction among the Democracy from the first depressing effect.

The Central Chase Association of New York having seen that the Fourth of July Convention has failed to "rise superior to the old and effete policies of the party," do now recommend the support of Grant and Colfax.

The editor of the Kansas Chief thinks General Buckner, of the Louisville Courier, act ungratefully in not going for Grant, as Grant went for him at Fort Donelson.

LINES TO LILY LARKSPUR.

BY CARRERERO.

We've never met—I've never gazed
Upon thy graceful form;
Nor seen the beauty of thine eyes,
Nor known their power to charm.
I've never clasped thy hand in mine,
I've never heard thy voice;
Nor ever listened to those words
Which bid a friend rejoice.

In Perrysburg, on Maumee's shore,
Thy happy lot is cast;
And gentle zephyrs fan thy brow,
As they go dancing past.
The willow droops, its graceful limbs
O'erhang the laughing tide;
The lark is nestling 'mong its boughs,
The Lily's by its side.

Thine is an ideal mould,
An imaginative soul;
Thou makest, from thy gifted pen,
Poetic music roll.
There's poesy in the fountain,
And in the bending tree;
Which, like the fabled fairy's touch,
Is all transfixed by thee.

May choicest blessings e'er be thine—
The bounteous still thy theme—
Thy path be strewn with flowers rare,
Illumined by Love's beam.
Embowered in the shady grove,
Or in the leafy dell,
May the Muses be thy constant guide,
And thou their sweetness tell.

LITERARY NOTICES.

American Journal of Horticulture.

This first-class horticultural magazine, for July, is replete with a variety of excellent articles of value to the horticulturist. It stands at the head of all similar publications, and is an invaluable companion to the gardener and fruit-grower.

Terms—Three Dollars per annum. Address J. E. Tilton & Co., 161 Washington-street, Boston, Mass.

Demorest's Young America.—

This enterprising little magazine, which has already won so large a share of juvenile favor, enters upon its third year with the November No. and also increases its size nearly one-half. This change will effect a great, though doubtless costly improvement, and is due to the success which has attended the two years of its existence, and to the determination of the proprietor to make it acceptable, not only to its present class of young patrons, but also to their older brothers and sisters. The price will remain unchanged, $1 50 per year. Address, W. Jennings Demorest, 473 Broadway, N. Y.

Demorest's Parlor Magazine.

This popular parlor Magazine has won for itself an enviable place in the esteem of American ladies. Its usefulness, the amount furnished for the money, its only equaled by its variety, its high tone, and general literary excellence. In all these respects it is far in advance of its cotemporaries, and thoroughly deserves the high favor it has won. It is marvelous that premiums of real and great value can be added to a magazine of such cost and character, for three dollars per year. It only proves what is so often said, that books and newspapers are the cheapest and best educators in the world. Address W. Jennings Demorest, 473 Broadway, N. Y.

The following gentlemen are candidates for Congress in this District: A. M. Pratt, of Williams; Hon. James M. Ashley and Hon. James C. Ball, of Lucas; and Hon. A. S. Latty, of Defiance. We have already noticed, editorially, Messrs. Pratt, Ashley and Latty, and this week we publish notice of Senator Ball. Mr. Ball is popular, and if nominated will poll the entire strength of the party.—Wauseon Republican.

Democrats are everywhere disgusted and demoralized by the New York nominations. Seymour is bad enough, but Blair is still worse.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WOOD COUNTY

Agricultural Implement
WAREHOUSE.

The Spring season is upon us, and it promises to be a busy one. It is very certain that Farms can not pay the Farmer without rightly directed labor. As helps to Farming, I have numerous which may be made to pay for themselves during the season, and earn those who use them a very large interest on their cost.

Labor-Saving Machines,

As Agent for some of the best Manufacturers, I can offer purchasers unusual inducements.—Every Machine will be warranted, and will perform all that is claimed for it.

Purchasers will always find it to their advantage to get their Machines from a Resident Dealer in preference to a Traveling Agent. A Resident Agent can always be reached to make good any failure in the warranty—with the Traveling Agent it is not always possible. A Resident Agent can also attend to repairs, which is often an important matter to the owner of Machines.

The following well-known Implements comprise a part of my large stock:

EXCELSIOR REAPER & MOWER
BUCKEYE MOWER,
SULKY CORN CULTIVATORS,
WOOD-SAWING MACHINES,
THE VICTOR CANE MILL,
COOK'S EVAPORATOR,
SULKY HAY RAKES,
REVOLVING HAY RAKES,
HORSE HAY FORKS,
THRESHING MACHINES.

HORSE POWERS.

CORN SHELLERS,
FEED CUTTERS,
FARM BELLS,
THE UNION CHURN,
BUCKEYE CIDER MILL & PRESS
&c., &c., &c., &c.

Washington Woolen Mills,
NEAR REYNOLDS' MILLS,
MAUMEE CITY, OHIO.

The Washington Woolen Mills Co.

RESPECTFULLY inform their friends and patrons in Lucas and adjoining counties, that they have on hand the largest and most substantial stock of WOOLEN GOODS ever offered in Northwestern Ohio, consisting of

SINGLE AND DOUBLE SHAWLS,

Plain and Fancy Double and Twist Cassimeres, Balmoral Skirts, Meltons, Tricots, Ladies' Cloth, Plain and Fancy Plaid Flannels, all wool, Plain and Twilled Sheetings, Blankets, Jeans, Stocking Yarn, etc.

Which They Offer in Exchange for Wool or Cash.

Our machinery is all new and of the most improved description. We are prepared to do Roll Carding, Carding and Spinning, manufacturing on shares or by the yard.

Wool for Rolls or Carding and Spinning must be hand-washed and picked, in order to insure good work.

Thankful for the liberal patronage received in the past, would say to our old customers, and all others who may see fit to patronize us, that we have, at great expense, fitted up our Mill with the best machinery that could be got, and secured the services of skillful and experienced workmen, so that we are enabled to do work in a style hitherto unsurpassed in the country.

NEW YORK COLUMN.

Osborn Manufacturing Company,
109 Hooker-street, N. Y.
"OSBORN" BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES.

MANUFACTURED solely by this company at Bridgeport, Conn., under Letters Patent of the United States.

These Cages are of a great variety of styles and finish, and include CANARY, PARROT, MOCKING-BIRD, SQUIRREL, &c.

They are finished in a superior manner; no Paint of any description—which is so fatal to birds and animals, being used in their construction. They are vermin proof. Bird Fanciers will appreciate these points of excellence, to be found in no other cages. They received the highest premiums at the American Institute and New York State Fairs of 1867.

Caution.—All our cages are stamped with our name upon them. Send for circular and price list.
