ANDREW ROACH, Esq., of this place was nominated for Presidential Elector for this District.

The Weekly Nebraska Press.—This is the title of an enterprising Republican newspaper, published in Nebraska City, with which our former fellow-townsman, S. H. PRICE, Esq., is now connected. Mr. PRICE is a practical printer, a thorough newspaper man, a sound Republican, a pungent and racy writer, and an active and energetic business man. His experience and ability will, we are confident, infuse life and earnestness into the columns of the Press. He bears with him to the West the well wishes of hosts of warm friends in Ohio for his success as and prosperity. The Press is edited and published by the firm of IRWIN, PRICE & MILLER, and, besides the weekly, a tri-weekly edition is issued.

LETTER FROM GRAND RAPIDS.

[Correspondence of the Perrysburg Journal.]

GRAND RAPIDS, OHIO, July 22, 1868.

ED. JOURNAL: It has been some time since we have seen anything in the JOURNAL relating to matters and things at the Rapids, and as a number of your readers are interested in whatever pertains to the prosperity of our village and community, a word at this time may prove acceptable.

A great point of interest at this time with us is our school. It was organized some years ago on the Akron plan, but has never been conducted in such a way as to give it a permanent and efficient shape. Our people, however, feel a deep interest in it, and a vigorous effort is now being made to place it on a permanent basis. The country is new to a certain extent, but the improvements are substantial, and the residents are by no means destitute of good taste. This fact is made plain by their nicely painted houses, by the shrubbery, fruit and ornamental trees surrounding their homes, and by the attention given to the refinements, in connection with the substantials, of life.

In order to add to these attractions and benefits, the Board of Education, at a recent meeting, elected as Principal of the school, Rev. W. WRIGHT, of Xenia, Ohio, with a view of occupying the position permanently. He comes well recommended, having had charge of a Seminary at Xenia for a number of years; and in addition to the usual branches taught in a school of this kind, music, both vocal and instrumental, will receive special attention. It is the intention of our Board to make it a first-class country school or seminary. Previous to opening the Winter Term of the public school, Mr. WRIGHT will open a select school for about ten weeks, for the benefit of those who may wish to teach the coming winter.

Since the change in the name of the village, other changes have been made. Our mail and express route has been changed from Weston to Tontogany, which makes the route shorter to the railroad, and cheaper. The Postmaster has been changed. A Johnson man now occupies the position. At least, it is supposed that any one who takes office at this late day must be a Johnsonian.

At the last meeting of the Village Council it was ordered that a "Lock-up" be built, for confining "obstreperous" fellows, who have heretofore disregarded the laws, when under the influence of benzine or some other boozing fluid. It was useless to undertake to punish them, as we had no place of confinement nearer than Perrysburg, and if sent down there, they would be turned loose on a writ of habeas corpus, or by aid of some other corpus. Now, the corporation will run this thing to suit themselves.

Wheat is all out, and the threshing machines are now busy. A very heavy crop; and that "good time coming" is now about to come.

Phrenological Journal.—For August, contains Portraits and Biographical Sketches of Ole Bull, Napoleon III, Bismark, Ludwig II, Bavaria; the Prussian General Moltke; Visher, the German Esthetic Scholar; Garibaldi, H. Patterson on Phrenology; Faith in God; Murder of the Innocents; Self-Culture, Health or Disease, Industry and Stability, Poets and Poetry, etc. A very interesting number. $3 a year, or $1 50 for half a year. Address, S. R. WELLS, New York.

A STUBBORN COMPLAINT.

It is a common complaint with sufferers from Chills and Fever, that the remedies they use do not afford them permanent relief. But it is a gross error for any such to think they are incurable. There is a medicine which will break up this distressing disease and drive it out of their system forever. Mishler's Herb Bitters is a specific for this disorder and while it is harmless and effectual (which is not the case with quinine) it also acts gently upon the nervous organization of the system, and is very pleasant to the taste. It is a nervine and specific for all nervous ailments and contains nothing nauseating, and its effects upon intermittent and remittent fevers is speedily seen in the complete and absolute restoration to vigorous health of the patient. Mishler's Herb Bitters is a splendid tonic and alterative, and is in great demand in all malarious regions and ever-shaking districts. Sold by all druggists and dealers. Dr. S. H. Hartman & Co., Proprietors, Lancaster, Pa.

THE MORNING RIDE.

BY LILY LAKESIDE.

Fair and pure as a lily was she,
Or any angel of love and light,
The sunshine gleaming across the curls
That fell round her head so young and bright.

She gracefully sat on her snow-white steed,
Which daintily stept in its noble pride—
Proud of the burden I could but heed,
Forgetting, that morn, all else beside.

She was journeying over an unknown road,
I was to guide her safely through;
Tho' I rode by her side for miles and miles,
Where they quickly vanished, I never knew.

I knew not then from whence she came,
If rich or poor, I could not tell;
I knew not e'en her own dear name,
I only knew I loved her well!

I could but gaze on the picture fair,
And choke down the words I dared not speak,
As I jealously watched the snowy plume
That droopingly kissed her downy cheek.

As under the trees we rode along,
The dew-drops fell on her golden hair—
The wildbirds hushed their joyous song,
To gaze on her face so sweet and fair.

But it ended at last—that morning ride;
Of my whole life, it is a cherished part—
And I longed, as I looked on her wearied face,
To fold her to rest on my throbbing heart.

Years have passed since that Summer morn
Broke over the earth with its golden ray,
But in my heart, as a blessed thing,
It is treasured there for aye and aye.

Once more we are journeying side by side,
But it will not end so soon, I ween;
The sunshine falls on our glided life,
Without a shadow or cloud between.

In my own I clasp the little hand,
Which then I would have trembling took;
I kiss the eyes, the cheeks, the lips,
On which I then scarce dared to look.

Fair and pure as a lily is she,
The crowning joy of my happy life;
I fondly caress her golden curls,
And press to my heart my own sweet wife!

L. Leppleman, of Fremont, Ohio, dealer in musical instruments, has some of the fin st Pianos ever brought to Northwestern Ohio. One of these superior instruments was recently received by our fellow townsman, L. M. HUNT, Esq., and its purity of tone and excellence and beauty of finish are unsurpassed.
