FATAL RESULT.

Henry Kuhnes Dies From the Effects of a Fall.

Shortly before midnight last night Henry G. Kuhnes, a wood worker, residing near the corner of Main street and Western avenue, died from the effects of a mishap that occurred to him one night early in September. On that night he returned home considerably under the influence of liquor, with the blood streaming from his head. He was unable to explain how he had come by the injury, and soon fell into a protound stupor. Dr. McLaughlin was called and found that the skull was fractured. Trephining was resorted to, and in a few days the injured man was able to tell as much as he could remember of the accident. He said that he was returning home intoxicated and fell into a cellar. The police got wind of the case about a month after it occurred, and made an investigation on suspicion of foul play, but could find nothing to either prove or disprove the man's statement. He progressed so well on the road to recovery that he dispensed with his physician's care three weeks ago. As the family would not consent to a post mortem this morning the immediate cause of his death is not stated, but there is little doubt that it was from concussion of the brain, the result of the accident.

"SHADOWS OF A GREAT CITY."

At the Grand Opera House Tonight and Saturday Evening, and a Special Matinee on Saturday Afternoon.

When L. R. Shewell, assisted by Joseph Jefferson, wrote the "Shadows of a Great City," he produced the most striking melodrama by an American author within a decade. It will be given by a most admirable company, by far the best that ever presented it, including Annie Ward Tiffany, as Biddy Ronan; Miss Edna Carey, as Annie and Helen Standish; Nelson Wheatcroft, as Tom Cooper; H. W. Herman, as George Benson; George R. Edeson, as Jim Farren and W. W. Allen, as Abe Nathans. The scenery representing the haunts of the metropolis will be elaborate and picturesque, and the mechanical effects of remarkable brilliancy. The play has had great success wherever it has been seen, and there is no doubt that during the coming engagement it will attract large audiences. It is under the management of Charles and Thomas Jefferson (sons of Joseph Jefferson) and L. R. Shewell. Get your seats at Carter's.

YE OLD FOLKS,

As They Appeared at Black's Opera House Last Night—They Brought Down the House and No Mistake.

The Spinning Wheel, the Mince Pies, the Dash Churn, Ye Olden Time Home Circle, the Individual and Chorus Singing, the Entire Programme, Kept the Audience in a Roar.

The Old Folks' Concert, given at Black's Opera House last evening, was an unqualified success in every particular. The house was packed, over five hundred seats having been reserved. Every number on the programme was well rendered and received with enthusiasm by the audience. Six times were the "Old Folks" compelled to respond to encores, which is unparalleled in the history of local entertainments. Some of the numbers given last evening, all of the dialogue, and the arrangement of the music in the first two scenes was the work of Professor Aldrich, who was warmly congratulated at the close of the performance on the success of his efforts.

The first number on the programme was a well-arranged medley, composed of fourteen old and familiar songs, so woven together that the transition from one to another was almost imperceptible. To the music "ye old folks" in costumes of a century back, kept time with spinning wheels, etc. The scene represented in this part was very pretty, being the interior of an old time country kitchen. Two of the ancient dames are busy making mince-pies to the music of "Auld Lang Syne." Another is spinning. The old sire is pulverizing herbs with a mortar and pestel. A jolly old fat man is running a dash churn. Another is seated on both sides of a shaving horse making an ax handle. The medley closes with a cadence which gives every singer an opportunity to use his lungs to their utmost capacity, at which time, the old people take a position common in opera, standing and holding aloft whatever may be in their hands. The jolly fat man, in order to preserve the harmony of the position, turned the dash churn bottom side up over his head, submitting to a deluge of milk and butter. The noise of a boiler shop would have been an evening zephyr compared to the roar of the audience when this took place.

Part second represented a home scene in which the old people of the neighborhood have gathered to have an old time "sing." Mrs. R. A. Starkey took the part of grandmother in capital style. Prof. Aldrich took the part of grandfather. The numbers in this part were exceedingly well rendered. "Annie Lourie" was sung by Miss Elsie Lenhart in a manner that brought forth a storm of applause.

Mrs. Starkey sang "The old folks at home" with such delicacy of interpretation and feeling that made it one of the gems of the evening.

Nathan McCutcheon next sang "The Old Wooden Rocker" with a degree of force and beauty that won for him enthusiastic applause.

Mrs. Ernest as Samantha Allen spoke her piece so well that she was compelled to respond to an encore. But Mr. Hypes as Josiah Allen, and Arthur Kennedy as his son Hezekiah, took the bakery in singing Larboard Watch. The audience insisted on its repetition.

"Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," was beautifully sung by Mrs. L. E. Gillett, who characterized her singing by sweetness of tone and purity of intonation.

"For Full Five Hundred Years" was sung by Professor Aldrich and neighbors, and was well received—the chorus work on this number being exceedingly good.

The musical joke was good, but the audience did not have time to digest it. Some were positive that it was one of Liszt's compositions; others thought it was more in the style of Rubenstein—but, for the enlightenment of the public in general, it may be well to state that it was "Yankee Doodle."

"Within a Mile of Edinboro" was sung by Mrs. R. A. Starkey, with beautiful effect.

Part third—"The Carnival of Nations"—was magnificent beyond anything expected by the audience. Although the audience had been sitting for two hours, almost every number in this part was encored. T. J. Kirkpatrick represented Germany in his inimitable way, responding to a persistent encore. Mrs. Erastus Thomas represented Bohemia magnificently. If it were possible to make any distinction in this part, Warren Cushman and Mrs. Williams are entitled to the honors as representatives of Spain. Another number worthy of special mention is "Bonnie Doon," sung by Nathan McCutcheon, the "Scotch Laddie," and Miss Eva Dedo, "The Scotch Lassie." Ireland was represented by Professor Aldrich.

This part closed with a grand march and procession composed of representatives of at least forty nations, to the music of Wagner's Tannhauser March, which was magnificently rendered by a double quartette, piano and orchestra.

Every person in the procession carried the flag of the nation represented. The effect produced by the majestic music, stately march and rich and elaborate costumes, representing many climes, was beautiful beyond description. But the climax was reached when R. A. Starkey as Uncle Sam, and Mrs. Hank as Martha Washington, took the lead to the music of "America."

The performance closed with a beautiful tableau representing the Bartholdi statue, about the base of which was grouped the representations of the nations. Mrs. John Driscol represented "Liberty" in a manner that would have won Bartholdi's approval had he witnessed the tableau.

To Mrs. R. A. Starkey's efforts the success of the carnival of nations is largely due.

At the close of the performance the unanimous verdict of the audience was that it was the best local entertainment ever given in this city, and many requests have been made to have it repeated.

But best of all, is the financial success, by means of which many hungry mouths will be supplied with bread, and many little forms provided with clothing, and sunshine brought to homes where the gaunt wolf has found habitation.

NOTES.

To the courtesy and gentlemanly conduct of the stage men at Black's opera house, the smoothness of last evening's performance is due.

T. B. Manning was a valuable assistant in making up the old people.

Miss Mary Nelson, as pianist, did splendid work as accompanist.

In answer to many inquiries, it is stated that the parties representing Japan were not real Japs, imported for the occasion, but well known residents of this city, whose names will be given to any who will address by mail, enclosing stamp.

Mrs. Chris. Holloway, as the Irish servant, was one of the striking successes of the evening, and deserves special mention.

The audience wanted to remain longer, they were so highly entertained.

It is surprising how fast the head cheese and sausage sells that Hamilton and Brannaman are making. Good meat always makes trade brisk. 57 m

METHODIST MISSIONS.

Meeting of Auxiliary Socities at the Central M. E. Church.

A district meeting of auxiliary societies of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, for Springfield district, of the Cincinnati conference, of the M. E. church, was held in Central M. E. church Dec. 10, 1885, the afternoon meeting commencing at 2.

Mrs. Rev. Wm. Runyan, of Troy, O., president of the Cincinnati Conference Society, presided, and made an address at the opening of the meeting, stating the general objects of the society, and the necessity of the work throughout the south and west particularly.

Miss Clara Allen, of Xenia, corresponding secretary of the conference society, then read her report, showing the organization of the society in the year 1880, in Cincinnati. Following this meeting, flourishing auxiliary societies were organized throughout the conference, and the first year the conference society contributed funds to the amount of $1,821. This sum was increased the next year to the sum of $3,544. The following year, owing to the death of the corresponding secretary and the removal to other homes of several of the most efficient officers, a reorganization of the Conference Society became necessary, and was effected at Hillsboro, Sept. 14, 1884, at the session of the annual conference at that place. Since that period the Conference Society has been in a flourishing condition. During the past year seven auxiliary societies were organized. The total membership, as given in the last quarter, Oct. 15, were as follows: Adult members, 967; juvenile members, 202; total, 1,169.

As the annual report of the treasurer has not appeared, the exact amount of contributions can not be given. In the department of supplies we had contributed amounts to the value of $1,681.81, and to special work the sum of $2,208, making a total of $3,889.81. This of course does not include the regular quarterly fees.

The last annual meeting was held at Grace M. E. church, Dayton, O., Oct. 7, 1885. The reports of the secretary, treasurer, and corresponding secretary were made, and general business was transacted. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, Mrs. Wm. Runyan, Troy, O.; recording secretary, Mrs. J. M. Chancellor, Dayton, O.; corresponding secretary, Miss Clara Allen, Xenia, Ohio. Treasurer, Mrs. L. E. Dale, Cincinnati, Ohio.

A vice president in each district were also elected, but their names have not yet been published.

The next annual meeting of the society will be held in First church, Xenia, Ohio, Wednesday and Thursday of the first week in June, 1886.

Reports were then made by auxiliary societies as follows:

Miss Lillian A. Leonard, secretary of the Central church society, reported the condition of the society: Membership, regular, 106; honorary, 21; total, 127. Organized in February, 1885; paid into the treasury, $23; cash on hand about $15.

Mrs. Happersatt, of Urbana, reported the condition of the society of Grace church in that city. Organized in March, 1885, with 27 members, they have now a membership of 29; paid into the treasury, about $30, and contributed supplies to the amount of about $120.

A general conversational meeting was then held for a short time.

The election of a vice president and corresponding secretary for Springfield district was then held, and Mrs. S. L. Singer was elected vice president, and Mrs. Ella A. Sedwick, corresponding secretary, and the meeting then adjourned to 7:30 p. m.

At the evening meeting, papers were read by Miss Clara Allen, of Xenia, and Mrs. E. A. Sedgwick, of Springfield, and a short address was made by Dr. A. B. Leonard, after which the meeting was closed.

A CHINAMAN IN HARD LUCK.

Robbed of Ninety Dollars Hard-Earned Wash Money.

When the Chinaman is compelled to have recourse to the law of his adopted country, he is certainly in hard luck, at least in this city where there is not one among them that can speak half a dozen sentences in plain United States. Last night one of these reported to the police that Hong Kee, who keeps a "washee" establishment on Center street, was robbed of all his hard-earned shickels. As nearly as could be gathered from the victim's jargon, the affair occurred about ten o'clock last night. The Chinaman had about $90 in a purse, which was wrapped in a newspaper and stowed away in a box under his ironing table. The robbery was committed by a couple of colored men, who evidently had means of knowing where the lucre was kept. It was impossible to make the Chinaman comprehend the questions asked by the police and they could not find out any further particulars this morning. These meager facts are all they have to work up a case on.

WANTED IN DAYTON.

William Evans, Arrested Here for Petit Larceny, Turned over to the Dayton Authorities.

On Wednesday evening a young stranger tried to make off with a razor from John Mills' barber shop on Limestone street. He was chased and captured before he got half a square away by a crowd that quickly gathered. He was turned over to Officer Rizer, who locked him up on a charge of disorderly conduct. The young man gave his name as William Evans and said he was from Dayton. He was evidently very uneasy, and Officers McKay and Rizer quizzed him closely yesterday, and learned that the Dayton authorities were after him. They telephoned to Dayton and found that he was wanted there for stealing a bicycle. The Dayton sheriff came up this morning and carried him off to the Gem City to answer to the charge of grand larceny.

Dolby Bound Over.

Theodore Dolby, the colored musician who slashed Harry Burns across the throat with a razor and well nigh ended his existence, on East Main street, on Monday night, November 23, had his hearing before Mayor Goodwin yesterday afternoon, and was bound over to court in the sum of $400 and remanded to jail in default of bail. The testimony given developed the facts substantially as published in this paper on November 24.

For Abusing His Wife.

Last evening Mrs. William Boyd, residing on Deardorf alley, filed an affidavit before the mayor charging her husband with disorderly conduct. She claims that he is in the habit of beating and abusing her shamefully. She has endured it as best she could until of late he has grown so violent that she was compelled to take legal measures to protect herself. The warrant was served on him by Deputy Marshal Potee this morning.

Mrs. George Hanford and daughter, of New York city, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rocktield.

GOLDEN FLEECE — WARDER & BARNETT — SPRINGFIELD

"Bread is the Staff of Life."
"It is the Cheapest to Buy the Best."
"GOLDEN FLEECE is the Best."

SIX EXCELLENT REASONS:

1st. The purchaser of GOLDEN FLEECE is obtaining the highest and best Roller Flour on the market.

2d. It is absolutely pure and made from carefully selected winter and spring wheats.

3d. During September the firm secured thirty-one thousand bushels of the choicest spring wheat in Minnesota in order to maintain the superior excellence of their established brands of flour.

4th. Flour for family use must retain its moisture to avoid frequent bakings. This we accomplish by our peculiar mode of manufacture.

5th. The bakers find it to their profit to use GOLDEN FLEECE by the larger quantity, and better quality of bread they can make from our flour.

6th. One barrel of GOLDEN FLEECE will make from thirty to forty loaves of bread more than cheaper flour; therefore a loaf of bread made from it is better and costs less than one from lower grade.

All dealers retail at one fixed price.

One trial will convince any family of the superiority of this flour over any other on the market.

Ask your grocer for GOLDEN FLEECE and take no other brand.
