

A LONG GOOD-BYE.

The day was heavy with wind and rain
When last we said good-bye;
When I and my love shall meet again
There will be a cloudless sky.
I clasped your hand, but I made no sign;
I could not speak nor stay;
Yet something flashed from your eyes to mine
I dream of night and day.
And strangers stood in the dreary street
And marked each glance and tone;
When I and my love again shall meet
We shall be all alone.
There's many a truth breaks equally;
There's many a love may equal;
I know wherever our trust may be
We two shall never fail.
And death may sweep our years apart,
And all but faith shall die;
As my own heart I trust your heart—
A long, a long good-bye.
—Mary Kendall.

CARDINAL GIBBONS ON CHRISTIAN UNITY.—Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, in reply to a letter from the editor of The Independent asking his views, "as a Catholic," upon the movement now going on in the Anglican Church, having for its object the "reunion of Christendom," writes: "I have leisure at present to pen but a brief reply. Allow me to say that I cannot conceive any practical plan for the ecclesiastical union of all who bear the Christian name which does not recognize—

"First, Some authority, living and acting, that can definitely say what is or is not divine revealed truth, since upon Christ's revelation His church must be grounded.

"Second, The obligation, strict and essential, of receiving in its entirety Christian revelation, since Christ's work in giving a revelation would be, to say the least, useless, if each individual were left free to accept or reject that revelation, or any part of it, as his whim might dictate.

"Third, That since Christ left a revelation, He must have left some authorized interpreter of it; otherwise, it would be but a puzzle given to unlearned and unstable might wrest to their own destruction."

"Fourth, That since the mission of Christ's Church is to 'teach all nations,' to observe all things, whatsoever He has commanded, there must be some teacher in Christ's name, and 'as one having authority,' to guide His people unerringly in the way of truth.

"In the Roman Catholic Church of the sixteenth century, when Luther went out from her, these great requisites of Christian unity were found, and they are found as well in the Roman Catholic Church of today; elsewhere I fail to find them.

"In separation from the See of St. Peter, the centre of Catholic unity, I can only see discord. In all this broad land there is no one who longs for truly Christian union more than I do; no one who would labor more earnestly to bring about so happy a result.

"May the Father of mercies grant that those other sheep, for whose sake His Divine Son died, that are not yet of His fold, may speedily come home to it, that henceforth there may be 'one fold and one shepherd.'"

"Marriage makes a man 'one with his kind.' It should give a stronger impetus to all that is best and noblest in his nature, confer on him new powers, open to him new possibilities. By it man finds comfort on him new powers, open to him new possibilities. By it man comes into his kingdom, a sovereign, yet a subject, governing and serving at the same time. He should prepare for it by stern self-subjection, by holding his vassal passions in leash, by weaving the woof of a fair fabric of life. Then may he search for his pearl in the sea, and give her love, loyal and lordly, intense and immortal. And the woman should be soft-souled and sweet-spirited, visiting all that is base and unworthy with noble scorn and corrosive contempt, to merit a love that is strong and tender and eternal. For she can bind or loose, chide, help or hinder in the fierce fray of life.

"Camphor is made in Japan in this way: After a tree is felled to the earth, it is cut up into chips, which are laid in a tub or a large iron pot partially filled with water, and placed over a slow fire. Through holes in the bottom of the tub, steam slowly rises and heating the chips generates oil and camphor. Of course, the tub with the chips has a closely-fitting cover. From this cover a bamboo pipe leads to a succession of other tubs with bamboo connections, and the last of these tubs is divided into two compartments, one above the other, the dividing floor being perforated with small holes to allow the water and oil to pass to the lower compartment. The compartment is supplied with a straw layer, which catches and holds the camphor crystals in deposit as it passes to the cooling process. The camphor is then separated from the straw, packed in wooden tubs and is ready for the market. The oil is used by the natives for illuminating and other purposes.

"Why don't you keep your hands clean?" asked a down-town parent of his nine-year-old son the other day. "Oh it takes too much time, and times are hard now," was the reply.

THE DANISH GOVERNMENT has repeatedly considered the question of assisting the natives of Iceland to leave a clime which almost every other year threatens them with annihilation. The chronic want of fuel is even more distressing than intermittent starvation; there is no coal, and trees absolutely refuse to grow. Yet when Henrik Olaf discovered the island in 872 its west coasts for hundreds of miles were covered with stately beech forests. Greenland, too, once deserved its name, and the traditions of the Zend Avesta speak of a time when northern Asia was a land of gardens and meadows. There is no doubt that Labrador once contained five times its present population, and the chances are that before the end of another century the country will have no permanent population at all.

Last July seventy Esquimaux made a descent on Mogford harbor (Labrador), and had to be shot down like wolves to keep them from ravaging the scanty provision store of the settlers. In Astoria 115 persons out of a population of fifty two families perished with hunger in the course of the last winter. At Hopdale forty squaws and twenty-eight people died of starvation in the month of June alone. In Newfoundland, too there are hundreds of starving families, and its entire north coast threatens to become uninhabitable. Is our planet undergoing refrigeration by the progressive cooling of its crust or has forest destruction thus modified the climate of the northern hemisphere.

GEORGE A. SHERIDAN was once addressing a meeting in New Orleans to denounce William Pitt Kellogg. He made a long and powerful speech, and he wound it up with a peroration of singularly vivid force. I can't recall his exact words but here is the substance of them: "If every drop of water that flows through the mighty Mississippi from its icy source in the far Northwest were turned into golden coin, and the whole vast flood were emptied at my feet, I would not consent to stand in the shoes of William Pitt Kellogg. If every grain of shining sand along the shore could be transformed into a glittering diamond as large as a walnut and as pure as air, and the whole boundless wealth thus represented could be cast down in one great mountain before me, I would not take the bribe to change places with William Pitt Kellogg."

Just here a man standing right in front of the platform called out: "You are a d—n liar, George! You'd weaken!" The meeting adjourned.

A lamp shade is made of strips of satin ribbon and lace insertion of equal widths. The pieces should be an inch longer than the procelain shade and made pointed at one end by turning under the corners and catching them together on the wrong side. The pieces are then neatly overhanded together and a lace edging to match the insertion sewed in the center of the ribbon, is attached to each point. A fine cord made of silk is run in at the bottom of the lace, to draw it around the neck of the procelain shade. A tassel is fastened on the ends of the cord, and it is tied in a bow on one side. Ribbon of any other color can be used for this shade, but a buff or a pink color will be found the prettiest.

A smart Irishman has done a rather remarkable thing in holding a corporation to the letter of its contract. The Illinois Central Railroad Company bought some land near the Wisconsin border on which an Irishman had a cabin and a three years' lease. The company gave him three hundred dollars for his lease and agreed to move his cabin to any place he might designate. When the workmen appeared to haul away his cabin they asked him where he wanted it placed. "On the banks of Lake Kilmarnock, in Ireland," was the answer. At first he was thought to be joking, but he soon convinced the railroad company that he was in earnest. He still lives on the company's land and keeps the $300.

There is no treachery in silence; silence is a hard argument to beat. Don't mistake habits for character; the men of the most character have the fewest habits. The man who is thoroughly polite is two thirds a Christian anyhow. Flattery is like cologne water—to be smelt of, not swallowed. I have noticed that the man who is always telling what he will do when he gets there, never gets there. When a man has a great deal to say he can say it in a few words.

Thomas Grubb, Crockett's Depot Va., says that he has used Powell's Prepared Chemicals for three years in succession. Last year he used it side of fertilizer that cost $45 per ton, and made as much wheat, and got as good stand of grass from the chemicals as from the $45 fertilizer. This economical fertilizer only costs $6 for enough chemicals to make a ton. Write to Brown Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Just as a traveler was writing his name on the register of a Leavenworth hotel a beggar appeared and took his way across the page. The man paused and remarked: "I've been kicked by St. Jos' fleas, bitten by Kansas city spiders, and interviewed by Fort Scott graybacks, but I'll be blanky blank if I ever enter in a place before where the b'bugs laid d over the hotel register to find out where your room was!"

Before purchasing your Fertilizers for wheat the coming season, it will be to your interest to give us a call. All the above brands are strictly reliable, besides we keep in stock all kinds of the best grade material from which we can make you any grade Fertilizer you may need. This House is an old-established one, and everything they sell you is as represented. As an evidence of the superiority of our goods, my sales have increased from 21 tons per annum, the first year, to 1,083 tons, this being my sales in Charles and St. Mary's counties the past year. I shall not be satisfied until I sell every responsible farmer in Southern Maryland, as it is not only for my own interest I wish to do so. My greatest desire is to induce planters of Southern Maryland to use strictly first class goods and they can only do so by dealing with a first class house. Mr. W. J. Burgh, of Bryantown, or Mr. C. B. Lloyd, our Collector and Salesman, will be glad to receive your orders, and I will devote as much time as I can in the two counties the coming season in order to induce the farmers of Southern Maryland to buy the best Fertilizers offered to the people of any State in the Union. All responsible orders sent direct to the Company will receive prompt attention. Yours very truly,
JOHN M. LLOYD.
N. B.—What Mr. James F. Mattingly, a large and practical farmer of Charles County, St. Mary's county, says of our Tobacco Compound—He says that he can grow as large Tobacco from other fertilizers as he can from Ober's, but while Ober's is just as good as to quality, it weighs from 1 to 4 more than any other Fertilizer that he has used. I will here add that Mr. Mattingly is not only a very good and prosperous farmer but strictly reliable. Mr. Mattingly has used our goods for several years and says he will use no others for both Wheat and Tobacco.
