Newspaper Laws and Regulations.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered wishing to continue their subscriptions.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publisher may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills, and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers move to another place without informing the publishers and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

5. The courts have decided that "refusing to take the periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud."

6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, he is held in law to be a subscriber.

7. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to continue sending it on, and the subscribers will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

Cash Receipts.

We will continue to publish under this heading the names of those who each week pay up their subscriptions. This list is intended as a memorandum for the protection of subscribers against possible errors in our books:

DON'T READ THIS

Unless you feel that you can look a man squarely in the face after using his property, for which he expects pay, without even a thank you. For three years we have been publishing the Guardian on the cash system, and yet there are several men who have read our paper, have taken it out of the office, and have never paid a nickle. The amount is now large enough to justify a suit, and—suppose we try that policy. Don't get mad if we do.

It seems that with so many agents at work and all the merchants selling sewing machines the demand would be supplied, yet the agents of the American tell us that their sales are unprecedented. Because of the peculiar advantages of these machines we suppose.

It will repay any one to visit the drug store of our industrious and enterprising young friend, Joseph Shelton. Mr. Herron, always courteous and accommodating, will answer any question without a murmur and will soon convince you that Shelton's prices and Shelton's goods are of that character that should secure a large trade.

Forty years' trial has proved "BLACK-DRAUGHT" the best liver medicine in the world.

OBITUARY.

DIED—At her father's, T. B. Coleman, on the 7th inst., Mrs. MARY F. WHITE, consort of E. C. White, in her seventeenth year.

Sad, sad indeed, are the melancholy surroundings of this stroke. Seven months previous to her death she stood a blooming bride at the Hymenial altar, with bright hopes and anticipations for a long and happy life. The young husband who shared those hopes of happiness and love over the journey of life with one so lovely, beautiful and good, is bereft of his greatest earthly treasure. Being the first born of her devoted father's family, she was truly an idol, and words fail me in attempting to describe the solid grief that broods in utter silence in the lacerated hearts of parents, on the loss of loving grown children. She embraced religion at an early age and lived an examplary member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She had timely premonition of her death, for she suffered and lingered long under the most skillful treatment. Her last day was one of happiness and rejoicing with her. She passed the river of death in triumph, begging the many friends who visited her not to grieve, but rather rejoice, for her Savior was with her. Then let us not mourn for her, Heaven has more attractions, but like David prepare to meet her, for she cannot return to us.

"Yet is remembrance of her virtues dear,
Yet fresh the memory of that beauteous face;
Still they call forth affection's tear,
Still in our hearts retain their wonted place.
But whyfore weep, her matchless spirit soars
Beyond where shines the orb of day,
And weeping angels lead her to those bowers
Where endless pleasures virtue's deeds repay."

August 23d, 1880. B. R. C.

DIED—At his father's, J. A. P Knox, on the 2d inst., ROBERT JOHNSON KNOX, after a long and painful illness of fever, in his twenty-first year.

As it is customary, it is also meet, that the memory of the departed should be perpetuated, not that it benefits the dead, but is a consolation to the bereft.

From the prattling school-boy to vigorous manhood, we have known him. He early evinced a becoming and reserved manliness, amiable temper and kind heart, which excellent qualities endeared him to all. He was possessed of those nice sensibilities which always shun observation, and none could appreciate his worth and delicacy of feeling but those most intimately acquainted with him. On arriving at manhood he sought and obtained favor with his Savior, and was a member of Tulip Methodist Episcopal Church. On him were centered the fond hopes of protection of his declining parents and sisters, to whom we offer our unalloyed sympathy and condolence in this sad and unexpected bereavement. We attended him closely in his last moments, and as the pulseless wrist and dilated pupil admonished us that he soon would die, he would frequently sing the familiar hymn:

"I am so glad that Jesus loves me."

We have every assurance that his soul is at rest. Thus has passed away one of Claiborne parish's native children—one whose loss is greatly deplored by a long train of affectionate kindred, friends and acquaintances.

"So fades the morning cloud away,
So sinks the gale when storms are o'er;
So gently shuts the eye of day,
So dies a wave along the shore."

August 28th, 1880. B. R. C.

Mrs. Vaughn & Miss Mitchell, milliners, have at last received their stock of goods. The selections are superb and will strike the fancy of the most fastidious. They are now fully prepared to accommodate all who may want millinery work done. These ladies have the most fashionable styles, and they invite the ladies of Homer and vicinity to call and examine their stock before purchasing elsewhere.

Young ladies who have not inspected the beautiful stock of toilet articles, the creams, handolines, oils, perfumes, powders, &c., at B. M. McHenry's are as far behind the times as those gentlemen who have purchased none of his beer, fine liquors, tobacco and cigars, or the invalid who has not experienced the healing properties of his drugs and patent medicines.

Mules for Sale.

I take this method of notifying the public that I have for sale some good mules—also land for sale, to rent, and to lease. Those wanting mules and homes would do well to call and see me, at my residence, five miles west of Homer.

Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic cures dispepsia.

Mr. J. F. Ford, one mile west of Lisbon, has everything complete about his mill and gin. He makes the best of meal and always has some on hand to sell or to exchange for corn. Mr. Ford is prepared to run two gin-stands this season, one with fifty saws and one with eighty saws. With one hundred and thirty saws running you can carry your cotton to this gin, unload at one door, drive around to the other door, load with your seed, and the bale is ready for you. This is business. The toll is as low as any one can wish.

Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic cures chills and fevers.

It requires a man who is ubiquitous to meet the demand made by the people for the Wheeler & Wilson No. 8. As Foster Carter comes as near possessing these qualifications as any other man, we can understand why he is eternally on the move. He is nevertheless represented at his headquarters, No. 39 Texas st., Shreveport, by a very clever and capable young gentleman. We advise our readers to go there to buy sewing machines.

Reed's Gilt Edge Tonic assists digestion.

Our Shreveport exchanges have many kind words for L. M. Carter, whose soda fount seems to be a great attraction. He also has a large and well selected stock of drugs, which includes everything that may be possibly demanded by the country trade.

Country druggists will find that they will do well to see Mr. Carter. He will sell them goods at St. Louis and New Orleans prices.

"BLACK-DRAUGHT" cures costiveness and Sick-Headache.
For sale by B. M. McHENRY.

For the least money W. H. Ellington offers to sell the best goods and the most of them. Mr. Ellington declares that short profits and quick sales is as good a business as he wants. Don't forget that here, too, you can find beer cold, ale pure, wine good, and whisky stimulating—all of which beverages will do the inner-man good. He receives new goods weekly, hence his stock is always fresh.

All the friends and patrons of that conscientious beef man, Tom D. Kinder, are hereby notified that from and after this date he may be found at the market house on Tuesday and Saturday mornings, well supplied with the best beef and mutton that he can get. Any failure to be on hand will be due to a reason that he cannot control. He will in the future, as in the past, do the very best he can for his customers in prices and quality of meat, whether there be any competition or not. In this connection we may state that it is to the interest of the people to patronize the regular market that may be depended on to be kept up through the season. By so doing we will build up a reliable market that will be of great advantage to the town. Any persons who have cattle, hogs or sheep to sell may find Mr. Kinder in Homer every Tuesday until ten o'clock and all day Saturday.

From this date until further notice Mr. Kinder will supply the market three times a week, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Aug. 11, 1880.

TO COTTON GROWERS.

I WANT my friends and the public generally to know that I have just purchased a new 80-saw Brown Cotton Gin, and have made great improvements at my Mill and Gin, 1½ miles west of Lisbon. I am now prepared to meet all demands that may be made on me in the way of grinding corn, sawing lumber and ginning cotton. My terms are as reasonable as heretofore. I invite the patronage of the public.

Two Mills that Work as One.

THE undersigned takes this method of informing his friends and the public that he is prepared to CARD WOOL and GRIND CORN at his mill just 3½ miles south of Homer. He is careful and painstaking with all work, and hopes that the public will patronize him as liberally in the future as in the past.

He is also happy to announce that he now owns the SAW MILL 3½ miles west of Homer, and being so much nearer town than any other saw mill, can deliver lumber with more rapidity than any of his competitors. He has now between 100,000 and 100,000 feet of lumber sawed on his yard. Remember, then, he now has two mills instead of one, and that he can supply the public with lumber, besides grinding corn and carding wool.
