St. Francisville, May 25, '78.

ATTENTION MERCHANTS.—Blank contracts, printed after the most approved form, may be had in quantities to suit and at a reasonable charge, upon application at the SENTINEL office.

We direct attention to the announcement which appears under its proper heading in another column. Gentlemen who desire to place their names before the people, subject to the action of the Democratic—Conservative Convention, will best advance their claims through the use of printer's ink. In this connection we desire to state plainly and emphatically that no name will be announced for office through our columns unless the money accompanies the insertion. Terms for announcing candidates will be found in the third column of our first page. They are as follows: State and District offices, $25,00; Parish offices $10,00; Ward offices $5,00.

THE LOTTERY COMPANY SEEKS TO CRUSH THE N. O. DEMOCRAT.

The Louisiana State Lottery Company having brought action against Mr. A. C. Janin, one of the proprietors of the N O. Democrat, for the amount of $25,000 damages, on account of an editorial appearing in that paper on the 15th inst., the Democrat responds on Tuesday last in an article which should be sustained by every honest paper in Louisiana, which we applaud, and from which we take the following extract:

The Louisiana Lottery Company was established by an act purchased from a corrupt Legislature; the subsequent acts passed in its interest were purchased from Legislatures equally corrupt. It sustained the Radical administrations when in power; it corrupted the judiciary, State and Federal, from police to supreme courts; it went into our legislature and by corrupt means combined against the people in the interest of the bondholders; it has become a moral pestilence in our midst; it has a primary school for gambling; it has taught servants to steal the money of their employers; it has made swindlers and theives of clerks; it has debauched ministers of the Gospel; like some vile, pestilential and insidious disease, it has eaten into and permeates our whole social and political system. The Tweed ring in New York was a bad thing; but that touched and contaminated only the politics of that metropolis; it never invaded the social life of the city and state. The lottery ring in New Orleans is therefore infinitely worse. It has corrupted our politics; it has debauched our legislatures; and in every street of the city and every town of the State it has opened its primary schools to tempt and teach people to gamble. There has never been a newspaper in this city, except the Democrat, that it has not purchased and silenced; we doubt if many men have run for an office in this city on either side since the organization of this company who did not stand in awe of its power, and who were not anxious to conciliate its tremendous power. It is this institution which the Democrat has attacked; and because we have dared to attack it, because we refused its bribes, insidiously offered under guise of business, we are to be robbed and plundered through the ingenuity of able lawyers, and, if possible, through courts and juries, of $25,000. Must there not be a social demoralization when a corrupt gambling monopoly thus hires the first lawyers of the country and seeks to destroy the organ of the people?

We accept the challenge thrown down to us in this suit. We have refused the insidious offers of this company; we have fought it when the majority of the Legislature lay helpless in its grip; single-handed and alone, when the Times and Picayune were, as they are now, its abject, willing and obedient tools, we made the fight against it. What was our object? More money than the Lottery Company have sued our associate for we could have had from this company for the asking; and it is not long since money -even the sum the advertising of the Lottery Company in the Times and Picayune amounts to—and which the company begged us to accept, was an object to us. But we understood the pernicious influence of that institution in our politics. The DEMOCRAT was established, and, in its days of distress, sustained by the Democratic party, and we felt that we had no right to hold relations or make terms with the Lottery Company for our personal emolument. In the interest of the Democratic party, therefore, in the interest of the people who established the DEMOCRAT, and look to it for honest counsel and honest opinion, we opened this war, in the interest of the State we have kept it up, and in that interest, so help us God, we will keep it up until the lottery monopoly is destroyed or the DEMOCRAT is crushed. If in such a fight as this the DEMOCRAT or any one of its proprietors can be robbed, swindled and plundered through the courts of the State we are striving to protect, of $25,000 or any other sum, then is our mission ended.

We fail almost constantly to receive the Monday issue of the New Orleans Democrat. As we don't feel able to be deprived of a single number of that able journal we may be justified in requesting somebody or other to "rise and explain." We don't mean to say that the paper simply gets behind time, but that it don't come at all.

☞ A late decision of the Supreme Court is to the effect that parties keeping stores for the purpose of selling to or supplying their own employees only, are not subject to the license tax. Under former constructions of the law, planters have been required to take out licenses for the stores kept upon their plantations for the purpose of supplying their hands.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18, 1878.

Editor SENTINEL:

In the Senate our solons have been engaged during the past week with going over the calendar, and passing bills of both public and private nature. The harmony of this wing of the Capitol has been disturbed not, nothing of importance has occurred to ruffle the feathers of our "old gentlemen" worthy of chronicling.

In the House the forepart of the week has been consumed by the introduction of private, bills, petitions, etc. Our representatives passed the bill to retire silver three and five cent pieces, and make silver coin a legal tender to the amount of twenty dollars. After which the first gun was fired through an introduction of the Potter resolution to investigate the Presidential frauds by the Radicals raising the point that it was not a privileged question. After a whole days filibustering by the Radicals, Speaker Randall gave the verdict in favor of our side by deciding it to be "A question of high privilege." This was a knockdown blow to the Radicals, who have resorted to all manner and kind of delatory motions to stave off the investigation, and have thereby blocked all legislation for the public good, by their revolutionary determinedness to prevent an inquiry into the electoral fraud iniquities, through extreme fear of utter disruption and anihilation of their party. The tactics of the Rad's have been repeated for the last three days, which resulted each day in the want of a quorum, and hence our side have thereby been forced to adjourn from day to day until a sufficient number of Democrats now absent on leave (and "paired") can return, which will give us a quorum of a working majority, and then the dose will be forced down their throats nolens volens. Mr. Potter, the introducer of the resolution, replied to Gen. Banks, that if he (Banks) would assure him (Potter) that the Radical side of the House would allow a vote on the pending resolution the House could then proceed with the public business. This Banks refused to do. So the dead lock in the House still remains unbroken, up to the writing of this.

The muster roll of Democrats increased yesterday to 142, which is five short of a quorum, on the vote of the Potter-Investigation into the Presidential Frauds. Radicals Hale and Garfield held their followers in subjection by giving them to understand that a break would occur in the Democratic ranks, and the investigation thereby be squelched. They went even so far in their fit of frenzy and desperation to assure the rank and file of their party that an understanding to that effect had been effected with disaffected Democrats But as not a word of murmuring was noticeable on our side, considerable dissatisfaction was manifested by the Radical minority, at the deception practiced upon them by their leaders, Hale and Garfield, and it is probable that a break will occur among certain Radicals, who dislike very much the position they are placed in of defending the great fraud, and acknowledge that they have seen sufficient evidences of the truth of the charges contained in the Potter Resolutions of inquiry to justify an investigation, But these unfortunates have been so lied to and deceived by their leaders that they have been made blind to the appeals of the Democrats for an exposure of the electoral frauds. Now that they have begun to open their eyes, it is expected that a sufficient number will form a quorum and allow the Democrats to pass the Potter Resolution.

Garfield's complaint during the debate on the Potter resolution of inquiry into the Presidential fraud was, that the scope of the investigation was not large enough and our democratic friends propose to include him in the investigation, not only as to his association and connection with the frauds but also as to the two cases of prostitution and perjury committed by him, the great Radical Saint, in relation to the twenty shares of Credit Mobillier stock, and the $5000 DeGollier bribe which he confessed to have received in street paving contracts given out by 'Boss' Shepherd here in our city. We sincerely hope our democratic friends will put before him the mirror of his own actions, which reflects a picturesque political perjurer in which can be seen only Saint Garfield, in his criminal robes.

The fraudulent administration has resorted to the low debasing trick of the lobbyist, to stifle and prevent an investigation into his title to the White House, and yesterday immediately after the House adjourned, an official friend of Ruther Fraud Hayes, rushed on the floor and began to pour into the ears of the members a distressing account of the baleful effect the investigation would have. When a President, so called of the U. S. resorts to such low lived attemps at bulldozing, it is about time all respectable people of both political parties should kick the vulgar miscreant out of the White House.

And here we feel it our duty as a public writer to rap our democratic friends in Congress, over the knuckles with our quasi editorial pen for their well known disease, absence, which has caused us a great deal of vexatious annoyance and inability to carry good democratic measures during the present session, for it often places the democratic house at the mercy of and under control of the radical minority, who are ever present and always on hand in full force, upon the klick of the clock at 12 M. and remain there till the very last opportunity. If our democratic friends were only as indefatigable workers and watchers as ye untiring rads we could have won many laurels this session.

All interest in everything political and otherwise has subsided, and the occupation of every one seems bent upon the proceedings in the House over the investigation, so much so that we are forced to close this epistle, and wait for the coming event, a full account of which we promise you in our next.

OUR NEW PACKET.

Capt. J. J. Brown of the Gov. Allen, than whom there is no more competent or careful commander on the river, is building expressly for the Bayou Sara trade, one of the finest as well as most complete steamboats ever turned out from a western builder's hands. Such a boat, officered by such accomplished gentlemen as now preside in the several departments on the Allen, cannot fail to prove a most pronounced as well as acceptable success. We clip the following from the Cincinnati Commercial:

Capt. J. J. Brown, who is building the Edward J. Gay here for the New Orleans and Bayou Sara trade, has contracted with Dumont for six steel boilers, 32 feet long, 42 inches in diameter, containing 2 flues each, all the sheet iron work, a pair of chimneys, 52 inches in diameter, 66 feet long, fire fronts, grate bars, all the valves, and all the paraphernalia ready for steam on the new boat to be ready by the tenth of July.

FROM ALTAR TO GRAVE.

HORRIBLE FATE OF A YOUNG WIFE.

[St. Louis Evening Post.]

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 14.—From 94 South Fourth street, Williamsburg, three days ago, Miss Wenzie went forth a bride and to-day or to-morrow her body will be borne thence to the grave. The young lady was married to Mr. H. J. Cole, a well-to-do tobacco merchant of Greenpoint, who after the wedding conducted his bride to their new home, 122 Cuyler street. On Saturday Mrs. Cole attempted to clean the stove in one of the rooms with liquid stove polish by pouring it on the top of the stove, in which fire burned at the time. Mr. Cole was absent at the time and the only occupant of the room was a brother of the bride's, who was lying asleep on the sofa. Some of the liquid must have reached the fire through the cracks in the iron of the stove, for the stuff blazed up fiercely. Mrs. Cole sprang back with a cry, but was not quick enough to avoid the flames, which completely encircled her garments Being of light material, they instantly caught fire. After vainly trying to smother the flames with her hands, she went toward the sofa, on which her brother was lying and cried out. "Brother, brother, for God's sake help me, I am burning!" The brother excitedly jumped up, but striking his foot against the threshold of the dooorway, fell headlong to the floor fainting.

Mrs. Cole then threw herself on the floor and rolled herself upon the carpet. Her nephew soon after came, but all night the poor woman lay tossing and moaning in the most intense agony. Yesterday morning, as the light struggled through the shutters of her window, death relieved her of her pain.

Complaint has been made to us by subscribers at Tunica, in this parish, of the irregularity that attends the arrival of the SENTINEL at that post office. inquiries addressed by us to Mr. Winn, postmaster at that place, elicit the fact that the paper not unfrequently arrives a week after publication, by the down trips of the mail packets. Why it should pass Tunica and return down the river can be explained only, we opine, by the mail agent on the boat. We heartily desire him—or them—to give the subject speedy and serious attention. May not the package be carelessly forwarded to Tunica county. Miss? But it is always plainly addressed. No more such bungling if you please gentlemen.

Call at Mumford's or Brooks' Drug Store and get a trial package of Dr. A. Q. Simmons' Vegetable Liver Medicine. It costs you nothing and may save your life.

A STRANGE CATTLE EPIDEMIC.

[Indianapolis Journal.]

The dairymen north of the city are seriously arlarmed concerning an epidemic that has broken out among their cattle. From eating dew-covered white clover a certain highly expansive gas is formed in the bovine stomach which penetrates to all parts of the animals' bodies, causing death in a few hours. There is only one known remedy and that is to thrust a knife in the sides of the afflicted cattle just behind the shoulder blade. This affords an outlet for the gas and brings instant relief. Cattle suffering from this gaseous complaint look as though they might have been fed on compressed yeast. The dairymen have associated themselves together for mutual protection, and by adopting this method manage to prevent a very extensive mortality, though probably a hundred cows have died from the disease thus far. The gentle herdsmen now go around with long, keen butcher knives, which they slip into the sides of their cows when occasion requires. The cornfield subdivisions north of the city have been converted into immense clover fields, and it is here the grazing kine are encountering the death-dealing white variety. Dairymen call the disease "clovering." It has not yet attacked the pumps, and the milk merchants do not feel entirely disheartened.

FAVORITE SONGS.

[N. Y. Cor. Courier-Journal.]

In this connection, let me give you the number of copies sold of a few of the best known publications of this kind: "Put me in my little bed," by Dr. Dexter Smith, 250,0000; "Come birdie, come," same author 100,000; "Mollie darling, by Will S. Hays, 40,000; "Silver threads among the gold." by Danks [who is very popular] 75,000; "Come home, father," 50,000; "Evangeline," 25,000; Tramp tramp, tramp, 100,000; Norah O Neill, 100,000; Sweet Genevieve, 20,000. Many of these still sell steadily, and will doubtless continue to do so for a number of years. Songs written to suit the times frequently reach immense sales, and as in book publications, those which appear the weakest are not unfrequently the most successful..

Every package of Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific is sold under a full guarantee. If the proprietors of this celebrated remedy had not sufficient evidence of its superiority over all other ague preparations they would not sell it in this way. They run no risk, for it never fails to cure. For sale by all Druggists.

☞ The flowing reporter, who wrote, with reference to a well known belle, "Her dainty feet were encased in shoes that might be taken for fairy boots," tied his wardrobe up in a handkerchief and left for parts unknown when it appeared the next morning: "Her dirty feet were encased in shoes that might be taken for ferryboats."

HISTORIC GROUND.

At the foot of Lookout Mountain, near Chattanooga, Tenn., was fought many a hard battle during the war.

On that same ground, nearly forty years ago a victory was gained more glorious than any gained by our armies. A remedy was there discovered for liver diseases that excited the wonder of scientific men and physicians. Purely vegetable, it excelled in curative properties the mineral drugs, such as calomel, and was as harmless to the system and almost as pleasant to the taste as coffee. This world-famous remedy is Dr. A. Q. Simmons' Vegetable Liver Medicine, manufactured by M. A. Thedford & Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. It is for sale by Dr. Mumford and Dr. Brooks, who have some trial packages which will be given to all applicants free of charge.

We are indebted to our Representative in Congress, Hon. E. W. Robertson, for a copy of the able report from the Committee on Levees and Improvement of the Mississippi river. Also for continued favors in the way of valuable public documents.

☞ At a wedding recently, when a clergymam asked the lady, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" She, with a modesty which lent her beauty an additional grace, replied, "If you please."

Sarsaparilla

For Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Eruptions and Eruptive diseases of the skin, Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Blotches, Tumors, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine disease, Syphilitic and Mercurial diseases, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, General Debility, and for Purifying the Blood.

This Sarsaparilla is a combination of vegetable alteratives—Stillingia, Mandrake, Yellow Dock—with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most efficacious medicine yet known for the diseases it is intended to cure.

Its ingredients are so skilfully combined that the full alterative effect of each is assured, and while it is so mild as to be harmless even to children, it is still so effectual as to purge out from the system those impurities and corruptions which develop into loathsome disease.

The reputation it enjoys is derived from its cures, and the confidence which prominent physicians all over the country repose in it proves their experience of its usefulness.

Certificates attesting its virtues have accumulated, and are constantly being received, and as many of these cases are publicly known, they furnish convincing evidence of the superiority of this Sarsaparilla over every other alterative medicine. So generally is its superiority to any other medicine known that we need do no more than to assure the public that the best qualities it has ever possessed are strictly maintained.
