The Louisiana Capitolian.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Get your Job Work done at the Capitolian office.

Notice of meeting of the stockholders of the Baton Rouge Gas Light Company will be found in another column.

See Tax Collector's notice in another column. It contains important information, and every tax-payer will do well to read it.

THE CAPITOLIAN—Can be purchased by the transient public at the news depot of Mr. Chambers, on Third street, and at Heroman's "Blue Store" on Main street.

Service will be held at the Jewish Temple on Sunday evening, April 13th, at half-past six, and on Monday morning, April 14th, at eight o'clock. This is the seventh or last day of the feast of Passover.

An anecdote is told of a judge, profane and irritable, who never let a meal pass without a sonorous invocation on the repast. Once he rebuked a deaf guest who innocently interrupted him while thus engaged. "D—n it," said he, "don't you see I'm saying grace."

We would inform our friends that the Capitolian Job Office is new and complete in every particular, and we turn out job printing at the shortest notice and in the most approved style. It matters not what kind of jobs you have, bring them on. We print them from the size of a full sheet poster to a visiting card.

The numerous friends of Lieut. M. F. Jamar will be pleased to learn that he has lately been promoted to first lieutenant and detailed as Professor of Tactics and Military Science at the State University in this city. A better nor a more popular selection couldnt have been made. We take the greatest pleasure in welcoming back in our midst this really clever gentleman.

On Wednesday Coroner Jadot held an inquest over the body of Jeff Scott, colored, a young man aged about nineteen years, who came to his untimely end from the effects of a blow inflicted upon him with a hammer on the 2d inst. by one Fred Beal, also colored. The occurrence took place in the 7th ward of this parihs. Mr. Jadot reports that the skull of the deceased was fractured in the most terrible manner, as the effect of the violence of the blow. The murderer was arrested, and is now confined in jail awaiting trial.

The weather has been all that could be desired, and from all quarters we hear good reports concerning the crops. Every thing around us looks spring-like and bright. The farmers, planters and gardeners are busy at work, and feel highly encouraged at the prospect of good yields. We have had some few cool mornings, but it is now conceded that the Rubicon has been crossed and a better day is dawning upon Louisiana. Slowly but surely the old commonwealth is moving up to the front. The future is bright with hope, despite all present drawbacks.

We acknowledge the call of Mr. Tupper, the jovial and very enterprising mail contractor, who indulges in the hope that a tri-weekly mail line, starting from our city, will soon be operating as far as Red River landing, connecting there with the stage line to Alexandria, and thus supply a want that has long been felt in this section. Mail and travelling facilities is what we have been in need of, and according to Mr. Tupper, we are about to have these to our heart's content. The central location of Baton Rouge is about to tell, and we expect to see our city on the high road to prosperity at an early day.

Last Monday—election day—for the reason that the Sheriff and the Mayor were in doubt as to the proper authority to order the bar-rooms and saloons to close, these establishments kept open all through the day. To the surprise of every one, very little drinking was done, contrary to the custom on similar occasions when these resorts are closed by order of the authorities. In fact, a disappointed proprietor of one of the bar-rooms facetiously remarked that it was because of the fact that none of the candidates had money enough to make a single man drunk! We can't but believe that it is because the fruit was not forbidden that the boys abstained from going for it.

A Grand Ball will be given on next Tuesday, the 15th inst., at Pike's Hall, by those favorite musicians, the Independent Silver Cornet Band. They propose to be the boute en train of the pleasures that are to follow during the spring. The winter has been unusually calm in the way of amusements, and now that Lent is over, these young gentlemen find it a propos to set young America to dancing. We endorse this good move, and join the band in inviting their many friends to attend. They will furnish the best of music and refreshments; and all arrangements calculated to render the soiree a most enjoyable one will surely be made. Our thanks are extended the managers for a complimentary ticket.

Maj. W. T. Cluverius is so modest himself, that he wants us to say it for him, to our public, that he has just received a lot of white lead, paints, linseed and other oils, turpentine, and, in fact, everything that is needed to give one's residence the usual burnishing up that every man of taste wants to see done to his palace. He keeps the insurance oil in store for lighting up the premises in such manner as to make one believe that a gas manufacturing apparatus is attached to the dwelling. The Major don't do any humbugging himself, he only furnishes the oils to those who do, and, under such circumstances, he's not responsible. His drug establishment is now in the finest trim, containing, as it does, one of the most complete assortments ever brought to our city. All we can add is, that he's ready for the spring trade.

Last Monday's Election.

The municipal contest passed off in the most peaceable manner, and with the best of feeling. The desire having been expressed by the numerous candidates that they be allowed a scrub-race, outside of party lines, no steps toward nominations were taken, and in consequence an "up and up" fight was had all around. There were two candidates for Administrator of Finance and five for Administrator of Police; The present incumbents for these positions, Messrs. Lange and Hillen, were re-elected. In the first ward Mr. John J. Wax was re-elected Councilman, and Mr. John Grady elected to fill the other vacancy. In the second ward the race was uncomfortably close, Mr. T. D. Schloss being elected by the small majority of five votes over Messrs. F. M. Brooks and Jules Froment, between whom there was a tie—just of two votes over Mr. E. W. Willis. This will necessitate the holding of a special election to fill the one remaining vacancy caused by the above mentioned tie. In another place will be found a full return of the vote given the several candidates.

The Good Templars.

We attended on Thursday night a sociable, at Pike's Hall, given by this order as a finale to their annual conference, held in this city during Tuesday and Wednesday last. Eloquent and forcible addresses were delivered by Prof. Nicholson, Mr. Secretary Crane and the Rev. Dr. Sawyer, after which the large attendance of ladies and gentlemen repaired to the supper and refreshment tables, and engaged in pleasant conversation, and promenading around the spacious and brilliantly lighted Hall. We had the pleasure of meeting several of the very accomplished lady members of the order from abroad, in whose agreeable company we spent most of the evening.

Owing to the want of space this week, we are unable to do full justice to the occasion, but will do so at some future time.

The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing term, 1879-'80:

J. M. Watkins, M. D. G. W. C. T.; H. Skolfield, G.W. C.; Miss Kate Gerard, G. W. V. T.; W. W. Crane, Jr., G. W. Secretary; T. G. Hyckman, G. W. A. S.; H. Williams, G. W. T.; E. Boden, G. W. C.; S. W. Thomas, G.W. M.; Mrs. K. E. Thomas, G. W. D. M.; W. M. Wood, G. W. G.; Henry Wessel, G. W. S.; Y. A. Woodward, G. Representative; R. W. Knickerbocker, G. Alternate; Mrs. C. M. Bearor, G. S. I. T.; T. H. Jones, P. G. W. C. T.

The next annual session will meet on the 2d Tuesday of April, 1880, at Morgan City.

After the adjournment of the Grand Lodge, J. M. Watkins, G.W.C.T., elect, in company with other officers of the Grand Lodge, conferred the 2d and 3d degrees of Templarhood on twenty-three members of Capital Lodge No. 13, of our city.

A Cotton Factory.

The looms at the penitentiary are still in the best of order, and they present to any enterprising man or firm the very best opportunity for a paying investment. The buildings and machinery are there ready to be utilized, so that the capital can be used for the purchase of the raw material that is hauled to our city from the neighboring country in more than sufficient quantity to keep it supplied, thus saving all freight and other charges thereon. As to the manufactured goods, they can be shipped to New Orleans or to the West by river at the very smallest cost. Coal or wood fuel can be had here as low as anywhere else. As to labor, our city, that contains some eight thousand souls, would more than supply it, and at the cheapest rates. Many of our population would be but too glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of obtaining employment. A small rental, and every facility will be extended by the lessees and board of control of the penitentiary, to further this enterprise. Any practical business man cannot fail to see at a glance that no such advantages are offered in any other locality.

The Katydid's captain comes at us this week with an explanatory letter concerning the irregularities of the trips of the swift little carrier of the mails between Donaldsonville and this place. To quote some of our contemporaries, she "didn't," not because "she wouldn't," but simply "couldn't," owing to the necessity of having some repairs to make. The Captain, in his anxiety to set himself right, calls our attention to the fact that for some time back his "racer" has been coming to time, unlike in this to the noted Grandfather's Clock that stopped—short; for the Katy now blows her whistle regularly for our landing every evening, without fail. We are not angry at you, Capt. Crowell! We only want to keep you going as you've done during the last ten days; and on those terms we will be members of the same happy family.

The Advocate erroneously informed its readers Wednesday evening that Catfishtown would be subjected to a tax of eight mills, for the repair of levees, by virtue of an act of the last General Assembly. Upon investigating the subject, we find that the tax referred to is one levied by the Levee Board of this District, whose jurisdiction commences from the lower line of this city, extending along the coast or lowland section bordering on the Mississippi. So that our friends below the hill need not feel uneasy on this matter, as it does not affect them.

During the session of the Convention we intend publishing in every issue of the Capitolian an editorial correspondence, containing all the items that will be interesting to our readers, besides an account of the doings in and around the Crescent City. We assure our patrons that we will strive in every way to render this paper what they have been kind enough to denominate, a most interesting and outspoken journal, and one open to the free discussion of any question of interest to the people.

Poindexter's Escape.

THE MAN WHO TOOK REVENGE FOR AN INSULT WITH COWHIDE AND REVOLVER.

RICHMOND, March 29.—The Poindexter-Curtis trial is at an end for a few days at least. To-night the jury, unable to agree, was discharged, five of them holding out for murder in the second degree, five for voluntary manslaughter and two for acquittal. The prisoner has been refused bail, and will again be tried on the seventh of April.

The story of this case is a somewhat remarkable one. Miss Isabella Cottrell is a young lady of twenty-five summers. Her features are small but regular, and withal pretty. She has soft brown eyes and dark eyelashes, and her hair, light brown hair, is combed back from her temples and runs in a thick coil down her back. Her hands and feet are small, and the tiny shoe she wears has been the means of bringing her into the unpleasant position which she now occupies. It was in January that she entered the shoe store of Wingo, Ellett & Crump and asked the clerk, Charles C. Curtis to show her some shoes. Curtis got a pair, and holding one of them up, told her to put her foot in it. This she refused to do. "After I put it on," said Miss Cottrell, when she went upon the witness-stand and underwent a three hours' examination; "after I put it on he wished to button it on and insisted upon doing so. I never did get the button hook, but buttoned them on partially myself. He insisted on buttoning them further up. I then went to put on my old shoes and he insisted on lacing them and I refused and turned my back on him. This, however, had no effect on him. He stood and watched my every movement.'

Three weeks afterward she again visited the store to change a pair of shoes. The clerk again insisted upon buttoning the shoes, the lady again refused to allow him to do so and left the store. On the twenty-eighth of February she went to get heel-plates put on. He held up the shoes and said: "What a pretty little shoe! You certainly have a pretty little foot. How do you walk in it?" "You will oblige me by not commenting on my foot," replied Miss Cottrell, and refused to wait for the heels, but came back when they had been fixed on. Curtis asked the lady how she wore the heels off so, and said: "Put your foot out and let me see it," and advanced toward her. She thought he intended to push her dress aside and look at her foot. The clerk followed her to the carriage, and as he helped her in squeezed her arm "in a very ungentlemanly manner."

This was in brief the story that Miss Cottrell told upon the witness stand. This was the story, too, that she had Mr. John Poindexter, who was paying her attention, and which angered him so that he declared his intention of punishing Curtis for his insults. On the third of March he walked into the shoe store armed with a cowhide and told Curtis that he had insulted a lady. The clerk, so it is said, denied having insulted her intentionally, and was ready to apologize, but this did not suit Poindexter, and he struck the clerk several blows with the whip.

Shortly after the whipping Curtis hunted up a friend, F. G. McGuire, and told him what had happened. It was agreed that the best thing to do was to demand an apology from Poindexter, and so the pair started for J. E. Condrey's tobacco factory, where Poindexter was employed. Their man was seated in an inner office. Curtis saw him through the cashier's window and said, "I want an apology for your action this morning." You can't get one," replied Poindexter, and Curtis being armed with a stick three feet long and heavily knotted at the large end, Poindexter jumped up from his desk, and retreating to the further end of the room, drew a small Smith & Wesson seven-shooter.

"Beat him! Beat him!" cried McGuire. "I'll shoot you if you strike me," said Poindexter. "I am unarmed," hesitated Gurtis. McGuire urged him on and he went to meet his death. He advanced, struck at Poindexter, who immediately fired, and never stopped until six of the barrels were empty. Curtis fell, mortally wounded. "Good God!" exclaimed his murderer when he ralized what he had done; "I did not mean to kill him," and he threw down his revolver and aided the others in administering to the wounded man. That evening Curtis died. Poindexter was arrested and held for trial.

The trial has created an intense interest. Miss Cottrell, when she entered court to give her testimony was stared at by many a curious eye and a great crowd followed her to her carriage to catch a more satisfactory glimpse of her face. She had felt her condition keenly, but told her story in a clear, calm voice.

The attorney for the Commonwealth was very severe on the prisoner. "It was a cruel, brutal murder," he argued in impassioned tones. "A cruel, brutal murder of a man upon whose back were the foul dishonorable stripes the murderer had inflicted, and which would burn hotter than the hottest fire from the hottest furnace. I would rather be Curtis dead than Poindexter living, it matters not what may be the verdict of the jury." The defense claimed that the shooting was necessitated by self-defense, and the case was given to the jury on Thursday. They were out all night and last night asked for instructions. The instructions were given and the jury again locked up. To-day the jury came into court several times, but were sent back to deliberate. Finally even the Judge became tired of waiting for what seemed to be an impossible verdict and discharged them.

The City Council Proceedings.

For the information of our readers, we publish an extract of the proceedings of this body, at their meeting on last Wednesday:

The Mayor brought to the notice of the Council the fact that he had been informed of a vacancy existing of one member in the representation from the Second Ward, caused by a tie vote between two of the candidates for the City Council and suggested that an election be ordered under the charter to fill said vacancy.

By Mr. Wax, seconded by Mr. Sanchez: Resolved, That the Administrator of Police be instructed to observe and report when and where any of the street lamps are not lighted, or if they are not kept in good order, and present said report to the Council at the end of each month, with the view of making the proper deduction for same. Adopted.

The Mayor stated that he now wished to inform the Council officially of his election as a member of the State Constitutional Convention, which was to meet on the 21st of this month; that the motive which prompted him to accept the nomination as a candidate, was the fact, that questions would be brought up before the convention in which the city of Baton Rouge had a deep interest and the passage of which in its favor, his friends urged that he could materially promote. As the Legislature had provided for the remuneration of the members of the Convention, he desired it to be understood that he wished to relinquish his salary as Mayor during the time in which he would receive pay as a member of the convention.

He further requested that the Council grant him leave of absence during the time of the sitting of the convention and appoint one of their number, as provided for by the city charter, to act as Mayor during his absence and recommended that the acting Mayor receive the salary to which he would be entitled.

It was moved and seconded that leave of absence be granted the Mayor as asked for, and that Mr. John Wax be appointed to act as Mayor during his absence. Adopted.

By Mr. Wax, seconded by Mr. Sanchez: Resolved, That action on the recommendation of the Mayor in regard to the disposition of his salary be deferred until a future meeting of the Council. Adopted.

It was moved and seconded that the Council adjourn to meet on Tuesday, the 15th inst., at 11 o'clock, a. m. Adopted.

LEON JASTREMSKI, Mayor.
GEORGE HENDERSON, Secretary.

An affidavit was made on Wednesday night before Justice Vay, charging O. C. Hubbs and W. Curran with forcibly seizing and carrying away into the country one Rosa Hayes, colored. The parties, on their return Tuesday morning, were arrested by Sheriff Bates and confined in the parish jail. They applied for bail before Judge McVea, who bonded them in the sum of $250 each, in consideration of the plea set up by the accused that they were aiding the husband of this woman in bringing her back to the marital roof. A charge of creating a disturbance of the peace has been entered in the Mayor's Court against the accused, who are to appear in answer to-day at 9 o'clock a. m. In view of the above legal proceedings, we forbear making any comment.

Your attention is earnestly and respectfully called to our new facilities for JOB PRINTING—it matters not what may be the style or quality of work desired. Home enterprise sustains home interests, and preserves the financial equilibrium of a community. In view of this important fact, we have supplied ourselves with the necessary material and seriously announce that we are determined, with the aid of the people, to uphold our part of this local obligation. Our prices are the same as those of New Orleans; therefore there can be no excuse for sending Job Work away from home. The old complaint of "unreasonable prices and inferior workmanship" can no longer be urged, for, with experienced printers, the latest styles of type and a handsome assortment of stationery on hand, we are prepared to do Job Work with dispatch and in a satisfactory manner.

Anti-Malarial Tonic and Chill and Fever Cure,
—For the Immediate Relief and Permanent Cure of—
CHILLS AND FEVER, INTERMITTENT FEVER,
MALARIAL NEURALGIA,
AND ALL OTHER ABNORMAL CONDITIONS PRODUCED BY MALARIAL POISONS.

I place before the public a preparation which is of the highest standard of excellence, second to none, for the class of diseases for which it is intended. I claim it to be a specific for this class of diseases, having submitted it to a rigid test, extending over a period of several years, in treating the most obstinate cases which have come under my observation with it successfully.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE IN ITS COMPOSITION, contains no Arsenic or Iron, but combines with the Muriate Tincture of Iron and the Soluble Salts of Iron—making it a valuable tonic in all conditions where Iron is indicated. It may be administered to the most delicate children with impunity.

Large numbers of testimonials could be produced as to its efficacy, but I deem it best that it should recommend itself.

One bottle will satisfy any fair-minded person that it is worth five times its cost.
