The Imperishable Perfume.

As a rule, the perfumes now in use have no permanency. An hour or two after their use, there is no trace of perfume left. How different is the result succeeding the use of Murry and Lanman's Florida Water. Days after its application the handkerchief exhales a most delightful, delicate and agreeable fragrance. mar16eodly

THE WAR.

THREE DAYS' FIGHTING

McMahon's Address.

BELGIUM PREPARING FOR WAR.

Fighting Under the Walls of Metz.

TWO PRUSSIAN REGIMENTS ANNIHILATED BY THE MITRAILLEUSE.

PARIS, Aug. 16—evening.—Official confirmation of the news of a great victory over the Prussians is impatiently waited. Great crowds of people are collected at the Bourse, at the Ministry of the Interior and in the streets.

Important news was received from Strassburg to-day. The Prussians in that vicinity seem inclined to retire. Some shots have been exchanged. The people of Strasburg are determined to defend the place to the last extremity.

The proceedings of the Corps Legislatif to-day were exciting and important. Deputy Keliar said that for three days now troops have been fighting and no news received as to what has been accomplished. In such a situation of affairs the Chamber could not think of any other matters. The meeting of the Corps must be permanent to await communications from the Minister of the Interior.

Count Palikao said he was not prepared to speak of the defeat the Prussians are said to have sustained, but of a serious check, forcing them to retire and forego their attempt to disturb the retreat of the French army.

He had no official dispatches touching the events of yesterday, but had reads news from reliable sources, and might state that the Prussians had been checked several times, and were retiring towards Commercy.

He was full of confidence, but could not at present enter upon details. In a few days a much greater force would be under command of Marshal Bazaine, the only and true commander-in-chief.

The Patrie, referring to the fact that Paris is without official news from the front, says:

"Bazine is evidently determined upon secrecy so far as his movements are concerned. He is in communication with the camp at Chalons.

"News received from the various departments shows that the people are determinedly warlike.

"The public depression occasioned by the recent reverses is giving way to a desire to drive the Prussians from French soil."

The Patrie publishes an article saying false reports had been circulated that no arms were to be obtained for the troops. The Patrie affirms that there is a complete provision of arms of all kinds and quotes a statement made in the Chambers that the supply of guns is large and the quality excellent.

The Moniteur says: During the battle of Sunday, Marshal Bazaine had in position a masked battery of mitrailleurs. Four regiments of Prussian guards approached when the batteries were unmasked, and two of the regiments were completely annihilated.

The following is the order of the day issued by McMahon:

"Soldiers: In the battle of the 6th of August fortune betrayed your courage, but you yielded your position only after a heroic resistance, which lasted no less than nine hours.

"You were 35,000 against 140,000, and were overwhelmed by numbers. Under these conditions defeat was glorious, and history will say that in the battle of Froschweiller the French showed the greatest valor.

"You have suffered heavy losses, but those of the enemy are greater. Although you have not been successful, you see a cause of your misfortune which makes the Emperor satisfied with you, and the entire country recognize that you have sustained worthily the honors of the flag.

"Let us show that though subjected to the severest tests, the First Corps, forgetting these, closes up its ranks, and, God aiding us, let us seize a great and brilliant revenge."

Prussian Triumph.

LONDON, August 16.—The dispatches from the Prussian government to the Ambassador are full of triumph, and express the greatest confidence in the early result of the war.

The Mitrailleuse.

Experiments with the mitrailleuse at Schoeburyness, indicate the instrument is destructive in close quarters, but troops dependent on it may be annihilated by artillery before the Mitrailleuse can be got into range.

The French Dilemma.

NEW YORK, August 16.—The World's London special correspondent telegraphs that the position of the French is most critical, and it is doubted if they can extricate themselves from their Dilemma; that the Prussian army is believed to be one million strong; and that the health of the Empress Eugenie, as well as that of the Emperor, is bad.

Popular Excitement in Paris.

There is immense popular excitement in Paris, and great difficulty is experienced controlling its population, who are impressed with the belief that the government is responsible for the disastrous condition of affairs which is prevailing.

Belgium Preparing for War.

The same correspondent telegraphs:

I have it on the best authority from Brussels that the whole of the Belgium army is moving to the frontiers of Holland and of Dutch Luxemburg. It is supposed that the neutrality of both of these States is threatened by Prussia.

The Belgium Legislative Chamber has voted an appropriation of twenty millions of francs to be expended in fortifying Antwerp immediately, and the Belgian artillery forces are experimenting with the newly invented mitrailleurs.

Fortress Bombarded and Captured.

NEW YORK, August 16—12 15 P.M.—The following has just been received here:

SAVERNE, August 16.—The fortress of Morsal, a small town a little northeast of Nancy, has been captured by a small body of Bavar's troops, after a short bombardment. Sixty cannon, the armament of the fortress, were surrendered to the Bavarians.

PRUSSIA.

Further Particulars of the Second Battle

BERLIN, August 15.—The following additional particulars of the second battle near Metz were received late last night:

"Late on the afternoon of Monday the First and Seventh Prussian army corps vigorously attacked the French forces under the walls of Metz. A sanguinary conflict ensued. The French at length were driven within the city, with a loss of 4,000 men."

Demoralization of the French.

On the same day a grand reconnoissance under King William maintained itself some hours within the two lines of the French defences without any effort on the part of the French to dislodge it. This fact shows the utter demoralization of the French forces.

The Last Napoleon Fete.

BERLIN, August 16.—The North German Gazette yesterday urged a general celebration of the last Napoleon fete.

AUSTRIA.

Mediation.

VIENNA, August 15.—Baron Beust has publicly denied any attempt on his part to mediate in the war between France and Prussia.

A Terrible Story.

NEW YORK, August 15.—A special to the Herald dated London, 16th, says: The following letter from General Proscher, commanding the Zouaves of Marshal McMahons corps, tells the story of the demolition of those fine soldiers:

SAVERNE, August 8.—Let us thank God, who has preserved me from the most terrible of dangers it is a soldier's fate to encounter. I am still alive, without a scratch, but my heart is broken, and I am overwhelmed with grief at the fate of my poor officers and my poor soldiers.

I dare not tell you how many I have lost. It would grieve you too much.

Later I shall know the names of those you know and loved, but will never see again. The gallant fellows fought like lions and heroes. Out of sixty-five officers forty-seven were killed, wounded and missing. At 7 in the morning they were full of life and ardor; now they are killed.

At two o'clock in the afternoon my unfortunate Lieut. Col. De Shorborte, was wounded by my side. A bullet entered his abdomen which was discharged but a few yards distant. He was able to squeeze my hand as he was carried off the field, but he has probably died before this.

In a Prussian ambulance two Chiefs de Battalion were shot dead, and a third one is either dead or a prisoner.

St Sanarcut was wounded badly, and there are but little hopes for his recovery. I had him taken from the field in an ambulance. A bullet went through his chest. He behaved splendidly.

Pierson was shot stone dead. I have but five captains here out of thirty; the others are in Heaven.

All my adjutants and most all my sergeants and majors shared the same fate of the pioneers. Better or more gallant men never breathed. But five are left. Two who were left with the baggage were either sabered or taken prisoners.

My horses were captured. My poor black charger was killed under General Sawreur, to whom I lent him, his horse having been killed early in the action.

Out of all I had, all that remains is the clothes I wear and seventy-five francs in my pocket. My baggage, with that of the Marshal, has been taken. I dont care for that. I can't help crying inwardly when I think of all those I lost. We fought like lions, 65,000 against 160,000. The enemy surrounded us on all sides.

The General Commanding was killed. Alfred De Grammont, the Duke's brother, lost an arm. The other corps suffered almost as much as our own. McMahon behaved splendidly, and did all that any man could do, but he had not men enough. He was unable to cope with 100,000 men, with three times more artillery than he had.

Nevertheless we inflicted heavy loss on them, and that was doubtless the reason why we were not more vigorously pursued. Had such been the case the disorder would have been fearful. It is bad enough as it is.

The battle began at 7:30 o'clock. After night there was a pouring rain in which we had become lost, and, being without tents or fire, had to lie down in the mud.

During the previous day we had marched seventy kilometers from the battle field to Saverne, the last thirty-six kilometers were got over during the night, pell-mell, and without stopping or sleeping.

War is a fearful scourge. We are doomed to force inaction. We have but 500 or 600 Zouaves without knapsacks, without tents, clothes or food, but we have arms and do not complain. We are without officers commissioned or non-commissioned, and cannot be sent into action.

It is probable that we will be sent to Strassburg to reform our regiment.

Atchests, from all accounts, has been taken.

SIMMONS' LIVER

The symptoms of Liver Complaint are numerous and painful to the sufferer. Some of them are: Pain in the Side, sometimes mistaken for Pleurisy, Stitches in the Shoulder, and in the Chest, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Jaundice, Blotches on the Skin, Piles, Dizziness, Low Spirits, Blues, Nervous Irritability, Dreams, Nightmare, Cold Feet, Drowsiness, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Fevers, Dry Cough, Pain between the Shoulders and Blade, Pain in the Side, Limbs and Joints, Sometimes, some of the above symptoms indicate the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the only sure and safe remedy is the genuine Dr. Simmons' Liver Regulator.

Dr. Simmons' Liver Regulator

A preparation of roots and herbs, strictly vegetable, and can be taken by children of age.

Numerous testimonials, and the endorsement of the best men in the country, can be seen in our hands, particularly in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee, and many other States, but we prefer to let the merits of the article speak for itself, and we feel confident that a fair trial will be all we need to secure the confidence of the sick and suffering.
